GENERAL STATEMENT.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown University at present consists of the COLLEGE, the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (which after the year 1900-1901 will include a school of DENTAL SURGERY), and the SCHOOL OF LAW. The College, however, comprises in itself three distinct departments, viz: The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory. Each School or Department is under the direction of its own Dean, and each Faculty has the power of legislating on its own affairs; but this power can be exercised only in subordination to the President and Directors of the University, and subject to their approval.

HISTORY.

The foundation of Georgetown College was projected as early as the year 1785, when the Rev. John Carroll, afterwards the first Archbishop of Baltimore, formed the plan and proposed it to his associates. On November 13, 1786, the Corporation of Roman Catholic Clergymen, in the Chapter held at Whitemarsh, Md., adopted a series of "Resolves Concerning the Institution of a School," in which it ordered that a School should be erected at Georgetown, Md., and directed the sale of a piece of land belonging to the corporation, in order that the proceeds might be applied to the erection of the first building. Rev. Messrs. John Carroll, James Pellenz, Robert Molyneux, John Ashton, and Leonard Neale were appointed Directors.

Shortly afterwards an appeal was issued, entitled "Proposals to Establish an Academy at Georgetown, Potowmack River, Maryland." In this circular it was stated that "Agreeably to the liberal Principle of our Constitution, the Seminary will be open to students of Every Religious Profession." In 1788 the erection of the first building was undertaken; yet 1789 is commonly considered the year of the foundation of the College, as the deed of the original piece of ground was dated January 23 in that year. Students were not received before 1791. Upon the reorganization of the Society of Jesus in Maryland, in 1805, the Georgetown College, as it had already begun to be called, was transferred to the Fathers of that Society, under whose control and direction the University still remains.

An act of Congress, dated March 1, 1815, reads as follows :

“AN ACT

“CONCERNING THE COLLEGE OF GEORGETOWN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA :

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for such persons as now are, or from time to time may be, the President and Directors of the College of Georgetown, within the District of Columbia, to admit any of the students belonging to said College, or other persons meriting academical honors, to any degree in the faculties, arts, sciences, and liberal professions, to which persons are usually admitted in other Colleges or Universities of the United States; and to issue in an appropriate form the diplomas or certificates which may be requisite to testify to the admission to such degree.

“Speaker of the House of Representatives.

“JOHN GAILLARD,

“President pro tempore of the Senate..

“JAMES MADISON.”

Two years later the power of granting degrees, thus acquired, was first exercised.

In 1833 the Holy See empowered Georgetown College to confer, in its name, degrees in Philosophy and Theology. The text of the decree is as follows :

“DECRETUM SACRAE CONGREGATIONIS DE PROPAGANDA FIDE.

“Cum R. P. Joannes Roothaan Societatis Jesu Praepositus Generalis supplicibus precibus ad Sanctissimum Dominum Nostrium Gregorium Div. Prov. PP. Precibus, Sanctitas Sua benigne annuit, et facultatem Graduum conferendorum, facto prius de idoneitate promovendorum periculo, Collegio Georgiopolitano Societatis Jesu impertita est.

The next step in the development of the College was the erection and equipment of a complete Astronomical Observatory, in 1842.

In the following year the formal incorporation of the institution was effected by Congress in the following act:

“TO INCORPORATE GEORGETOWN COLLEGE, IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there be erected in Georgetown, in the District of Columbia, a college for the instruction of youth in the liberal arts and sciences, the name, style, and title of which shall be ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College.’

“SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That James Ryder, Thomas Lilly, Samuel Barber, James Curley, and Anthony Rey, be, and they are hereby declared to be, a body politic and corporate, with perpetual succession in deed or in law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, by the name, style and title of ‘The President and Directors of Georgetown College,’ by which name and title they and their successors shall be competent, at law and in equity, to take to themselves and their successors, for the use of said College, any estate whatsoever, in any messuage, lands, tenements, hereditaments, goods, chattels, moneys, and other effects, by gifts, bequest, devise, grant, donation, bargain, sale, conveyance, assurance, or will; and the same to grant, bargain, sell, transfer, assign, convey, assure, devise, declare to use and farm, let, and to place out on interest for the use of said College, in such manner as to them, or a majority of them, shall be deemed most beneficial to said institution; and to receive the same, their rents, issues and profits, income and interest, and to apply the same for the proper use and benefit of the said College; and by the same name to sue and be sued, to implead, be impleaded in any courts of law and equity in all manner of suits, actions, and proceedings whatsoever, and generally by and in the same name to do and transact all and every the business touching or concerning the premises: Provided, That the same do not exceed the value of $50,000 net annual income, over and above and exclusive of the receipts for the education and support of the students of said College.

The School of Medicine was opened in 1851, and the School of Law in 1870. The Graduate School was in existence as early as 1856, in which year it comprised four resident graduates. It has continued with varying degrees of success since that time, and in the year 1890 assumed a marked development.

LOCATION AND EXTRINSIC ADVANTAGES.

In its location at the Capital of the nation, Georgetown University enjoys advantages which can hardly be overestimated and which must necessarily increase with the growth of the country. Not only is the city, free as it is from noise, dirt and distracting surroundings of a great commercial center, most favorable to the tranquil and earnest pursuit of study, but it has an unparalleled educational equipment in the great scientific collections and libraries of the Government. By the authority of Congress all such facilities for research and illustration in the Governmental collections are made accessible to the scientific investigators and students of institutions of higher learning in the District of Columbia.

This provision applies to the Library of Congress, the National Museum, the Patent Office, the Bureau of Education, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Army Medical Museum, the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission, the Botanical Gardens, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Geological Survey, the Naval Observatory, several hospitals and other departments supplied with special libraries, laboratories and equipment for research. The administration of these bureaus brings together a large corps of scientific workers, and has already made Washington the great scientific as well as political center of the country. One consequence of these conditions is that the scientific societies are exceptionally numerous and flourishing. Even the presence of the National Government, with its executive, legislative and judicial machinery, is a most powerful agent of education; to be familiar as a matter of daily observation with the workings of the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Supreme Court and the Administration is a privilege and a training which cannot be too highly prized and which cannot be found elsewhere.

Of all these extrinsic facilities the various Faculties of Georgetown University make full use, and among her instructors are found not a few of the most eminent scholars and scientific men employed in the technical service of the Government. Her students receive the most cordial reception and careful assistance in their work in the various libraries, museums and scientific bureaus.

To the advantages enumerated above is added the atmosphere of study and research engendered by the presence of the many universities of which Washington is rapidly becoming the seat.

NEEDS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Without endowment, and deprived of all resources save the fees of the students, Georgetown College has grown from a struggling Academy to a University. Of late years she has been enabled to liquidate a considerable portion of the debt incurred, and to supply herself with halls and facilities long needed. But much remains to be done to enable Georgetown to continue the development which has been steadily going on for more than a century.

The Faculty, therefore, appeal earnestly to the friends of the College and to all who are interested in the advancement of education to assist them with funds for the erection of buildings and the endowment of the various departments of the University. Every alumnus and friend should incorporate in his will a bequest to the University of greater or less amount.

Chief among the wants of the College are the following :

1. A GYMNASIUM and NATATORIUM, which is a very pressing need.

2. A SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL, which would include the present classes of Natural Science and would add to them the technical courses long contemplated.

3. Subscriptions for the liquidation of the debt of the GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY FREE HOSPITAL, recently erected at the corner of Thirty-fifth and N Streets northwest, and which is conducted in connection with the Medical School ; also funds for its extension and support.

4. The liquidation of the debt of the LAW SCHOOL and the foundation of professorships therein.

5. The Completion of the equipment of the OBSERVATORY and the foundation of a small working fund for the Director.

6. Endowments for scholarships.

All bequests should be made to "The President and Directors of Georgetown College, in the District of Columbia."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The President and Directors hereby express their grateful acknowledgments to the following friends and benefactors, and to all others from whom donations or favors have been received during the year:

THE COLLEGE.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown College constitutes one of the three greater divisions of Georgetown University, viz.: The College, the Medical School, and the Law School. The College, however, comprises within itself three distinct departments: The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory.

SITE AND SURROUNDINGS.

Georgetown College is situated on Georgetown Heights, two and one-half miles distant from the Capitol, overlooking the City of Washington, and the Potomac River, and commanding one of the noblest views in the world. The site is singularly healthful, and the climate exceptionally soft and mild.

The College buildings are seven in number, exclusive of the Observatory, and present an aggregate frontage of about eight hundred feet. They are surrounded by grounds comprising seventy-eight acres, a large part of which is occupied by the "Walks," whose sylvan beauty has made them famous.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

A considerable number of single rooms in the main building are rented to students of the Collegiate classes. Those whose means or inclinations do not lead them to take a private room, sleep in the dormitories and study in the general study hall. The dormitories are spacious and lofty, well ventilated and heated.

The double rooms of the North building are reserved for graduate students. None but graduates are allowed to board outside of the College premises, unless with immediate relatives

GENERAL CONSPECTUS OF STUDIES.

The course of studies at Georgetown is carefully and logically graded throughout.

The aim of the course is to give the student a complete general or liberal education, which will train and develop all powers of the mind and will cultivate no one faculty to an exaggerated degree at the expense of the others. It is intended, too, to impart the broadest possible culture, together with accuracy in scholarship. To attain this end during the Undergraduate period the course is prescribed, and embraces the Latin and Greek Classics, English, in its various branches and aspects and correlated studies, such as Rhetoric, Literature, History, etc., one Modern Language besides English, Mathematics, Chemistry, the Elements of Geology, Astronomy, and Mechanics, and a very thorough training in Physics and Rational Philosophy.

The exacting and comprehensive nature of this course may fitly form a subject for comment. It is believed that its requirements are seldom equalled, even in the larger colleges of the country. As an indication of the labor demanded for the successful completion of the course, it may be stated that the amount of time spent in class by all the students varies from twenty-two to twenty-five hours weekly. To prepare for these classes and recitations, obligatory study for about twenty-three hours per week is exacted. Moreover, students who aim at a high standing spend much time in study in addition to that which is of obligation.

It is presumed that a man of fair capacity who has conscientiously followed this curriculum under capable professors will be possessed of trained and cultivated faculties, and will have a considerable amount of positive knowledge in every department of learning. He will be thus in touch and intelligent sympathy with progress in every field of intellectual activity, and be saved as far as possible from narrowness and superficiality. Such an education serves, it is believed, as the best foundation for special training in any branch which the student, with his mind now mature and disciplined, may decide to take up. Those who are unable or unwilling to undergo the amount of labor and application necessary to the mastery of the full curriculum will be obliged to go elsewhere.

METHODS OF TEACHING.

One of the most essential necessities for success in educational work is the possession of natural, thorough and effective methods of teaching. It is necessary, too, that these methods should be uniform in spirit throughout the school, employed equally by all the teachers under whom the student may come. In this respect Georgetown enjoys peculiar advantages. Her teaching is guided by the principles laid down in the famous Ratio Studiorum. This body of rules and suggestions has been elaborated by centuries of experience, and has been judged worthy of attentive study and hearty approbation by the greatest scholars. It is a noteworthy fact that many of the recently-devised methods of teaching, such as the Natural, the Inductive, and similar plans, are in reality mere repetitions of devices recommended long ago in the Ratio Studiorum and practiced with varying degrees of fidelity in the colleges of the Society of Jesus.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS.

Special attention is called to the facilities for scientific work offered by the College. The Physics Department is one of the largest and best appointed in the University. To its use an entire floor in the east wing of the south row is devoted. The lecture-room, enjoying a southern exposure, is particularly pleasant and lightsome, and has ample facilities for projection, both by light from the sun and the electric arc. The laboratory is well provided with instruments necessary for a careful training in physical experiment and measurements, especially in electricity, while the collection of instruments in the cabinet numbers several hundred and is carefully selected for thorough demonstration of the Principles of Physics. Among them are included such instruments as Melloni's apparatus for the study of heat radiation, complete sets of single and double refracting prisms, polariscopes, both refracting and reflecting; the most improved forms of galvanometers and rheostats. The department is provided with its own electrical plant, a 3 H. P. motor on a 500 volt circuit being used to drive an Edson bipolar generator of $1\frac{1}{2}$ kilowatts. In addition to this direct current, the lecture-room is also provided with a single-phase alternating current of 104 volts, so that electricity in its various forms is constantly before the student and subject to his command for experiments of the most practical character. The collection of Crookes's tubes is very complete, including some of the best forms for the generation of the Roentgen ray.

CHEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

The work in this department is of a very practical character, in accordance with the almost unanimous views of modern educators. From the very beginning of his course, each student is obliged to perform personally the greater part of his experimenting, thus supplementing by scientific training the didactic instruction of his literary classes. To meet the demands of such a course, the College has provided three large, well-lighted laboratories in the main building. Each desk is fitted with drawers and locker, and independent drainage and water and gas supply, while all necessary chemicals and apparatus are at hand. The lecture-room is very well equipped with special instruments for purposes of demonstration. A private laboratory is available for advanced students pursuing quantitative analysis or organic chemistry. All the laboratories are open to members of the chemistry classes during hours of recreation.

THE COLEMAN MUSEUM.

As early as the year 1840 the collections in Natural History, under the care of Fathers James Curley and T. Meredith Jenkins, had become sufficiently extensive to warrant the setting apart of a special room for their preservation and exhibition. Here they remained until 1889, when, prior to the Centenary Celebration, they were transferred to their present quarters, in the north portion of the main building. To this hall, by decree of the Faculty, was given the name of James V. Coleman, '69, in acknowledgment of his distinguished benefactions to the College. It is a spacious, lightsome room, fitted with numerous cases of various designs, all made of cherry wood, highly polished.

The various collections have been rearranged and displayed to the best advantage, and a complete catalogue of the Museum prepared.

In the Department of Biology much progress has been made. A very fine ornithological collection has been acquired, and arranged according to the most modern system of classification. The shell collection is also very satisfactory, and there is also a sufficiently large herbarium. The Museum has twelve good microscopes of the Bausch and Lomb type, and a series of biological charts by Leuchart and a fair collection of skeletons. Much is still needed, especially since the recent introduction of biological teaching into the Preparatory School in the way of anatomical and physiological models, botanical charts, and mounted preparations in general biology.

Particular attention has been given to the mineral collection, which embraces specimens illustrating the entire field of Mineralogy, some of them being unique. Besides the exhibition series, numbering about three thousand specimens, there is a working collection carefully determined and arranged in drawers for the convenience of the classes. A feature of this department is the collection of minerals found in the District of Columbia by Mr. John W. Langdale, and presented by him to the Museum. The collection contains many species not previously known to exist in this locality. Mr. Langdale has also donated several hundred specimens to the general collection, and has always placed at the disposal of the Curator his rare skill as a mineralogist.

In Geology and Paleontology, likewise, there are excellent collections, the rocks and fossils, arranged stratigraphically, occupying an entire row of double cases. Notable among the latter is the unusual number of specimens of the remains of vertebrates, many collected in Alaska.

THE ART AND HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS.

The College possesses the nucleus of a valuable collection of works of art, and a number of Maryland Colonial relics. It has long been the wish of the Faculty to increase these collections and give them the prominence they deserve.

Among the paintings are several works of merit by ancient and modern masters, two mosaic pictures of great beauty and value, several busts in marble or bronze, an admirable portrait of the Founder of the College, Archbishop John Carroll, painted by Gilbert Stuart and presented by Judge P. Ord, etc. A full-length portrait of Mrs. J. V. Dahlgren, painted by Müller Ury, adorns the first parlor.

Some time ago an effort was made to create a collection of portraits of distinguished alumni of the College. This has now assumed considerable proportions. In the course of the year there have been added fine pictures of Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, U. S. N., LL. D.; Rear Admiral George W. Melville, U. S. N., LL. D.; W. Bourke Cockran, LL. D.; Samuel Clagett Busey, M. D., LL. D.; Daniel Roberts Brower, M. D., LL. D.

Two gentlemen have lately enriched the College with a number of valuable engravings, prints and photographs, which have been employed to adorn the heretofore bare walls of the renovated parlors, the Seniors' Reading Room and the large Study Hall. The effects for art and refinement of these much-needed decorations will doubtlessly be great and commensurate with the nobility of the subjects and the artistic merit and recognized beauty of the pictures.

George D. Mackay, Esq., of New York, presented forty-five engravings, mezzo-tints, coppers, photographs, etc., of unusually large size, collected abroad, and embracing signed Dorés, Martins, etc.

William Vincent McGrath, Jr., '87, decorated the Seniors' Library with a gallery of forty-two murillo-tints mounted in highly artistic frames.

THE BEAUCHAMP HUGHES ART CABINET.

The warm and enlightened interest felt for Georgetown University by a Southern lady has created a memorial room as unique in character as it is precious in its varied contents. Early in 1899 Mrs. Louise Beauchamp Hughes presented the University with the accumulation of her treasures in books, engravings, pictures, china, bric-a-brac, fans and laces made during many years of residence and visits in the principal countries of Europe. In order to arrange the articles, with the consent of the President and Directors, she caused the parlor of the North Building to be converted into an elegant apartment, at an expense of $1,500; and in order to maintain them in perpetuity she has left to the College a legacy of $10,000. The cabinet is thus singularly complete in its foundation. And whilst it will ever serve as a monument of what the talent and taste, the energy and perseverance of an American gentlewoman can accomplish, it is a highly prized as well as dainty addition to the museums of the University.

In the course of the year a catalogue of the exhibits will be prepared; meanwhile it will be satisfactory to note the following classes and some specimens:

The Library.—In the Italian and German cities, Mrs. Beauchamp Hughes had splendid opportunities of purchasing rare, curious and unique books and engravings. Among these are Latin and German Bibles of extraordinary value for arrangement and copious illustration: Missals of various dates, both in manuscript and print; Neo Latinist and Italian authors in early editions, often with a profusion of engravings; volumes of congratulatory and eulogistic prose and verse customary in Rome, Venice, and Florence; specimens of the Bodini and Parma presses; a dainty compilation of Lord Byron's work when learning Armenian at San Lazzaro, and other rarities of the great polyglot printing house of this monastery; Fénelon's Télémaque in a German metrical version, published in three noble folios with engravings; an autograph album belonging to Miss Lolita Beauchamp Hughes, which, together with memories of Windsor Castle, contains the letters and signatures of many illustrious personages not often secured; in fine, published music, the composition of this young lady.

The Art Collection.—All lovers of the beautiful in domestic and personal decoration who visit the Cabinet are astonished at the trophies of taste, industrious collection, and wealth displayed in the cases which inclose the articles of vertu, vases, porcelain, bric-a-brac, fans and laces. But prior and superior even to these are the pictures. In addition to the portraits of Mr. David Michael Hughes, one of America's great financiers, of his wife, Mrs. L. Hughes, née Beauchamp, and Miss Lolita, are: a finely executed copy of a Landseer, valued at several thousands, a portrait of Madame de Stael, and several rich flower pieces. Above all there is a unique portrait of Stradivari, the matchless maker of violins, captured by Mrs. Hughes as a grand prize at the very Cremona which he rendered famous. It is the intention of the foundress to cover every inch of the walls with the exquisite genre pictures in her possession.

Many pieces of the china are not to be duplicated in this country, being special gifts to the American lady by exclusive princely manufacturers. Among the dainty and precious specimens in the case devoted to fans are many of historical and ancestral significance. Her long residence in the fashionable centers of Europe, together with the enjoyment of great social and financial opportunities, enabled Mrs. Hughes to form one of the largest and best collections of laces in this country, a permanent view of which she now affords to the admirers of this delicate production of feminine ingenuity and patience.

All these and many more objects of beauty and price, frequently enhanced by important historical features, have a fine and fitting receptacle in the room which is entirely furnished by the same liberal hand, and above which the officers of the University have placed a Roman tablet with the following inscription:

MVNIFICENTIA . CL . FEM
CIO . IO . CCC . IC

In accepting with gratitude this gift of Mrs. Beauchamp Hughes it is a pleasure to the University to feel that the tastes of the mothers and sisters of our students are now properly represented among the many scientific and artistic collections existing at Georgetown College. The Cabinet is of ready access from the quadrangle now so easily reached since the central porch is completed and the drive to the west of the North Building constructed. It may be visited on application to the proper officials.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

The liberal spirit of Mr. E. Francis Riggs, of Washington, has furnished the College collection of books with a fitting home, in the South Pavilion. A tablet erected by the Faculty attests the devotion with which the founder dedicated his gift to the memory of his father, the late Mr. George W. Riggs, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Laurason Riggs, once a student of the College.

The central reading room is flooded with light from the sides and ceiling, and since the introduction of electricity, is available at all hours. The alcoves are designed to afford shelf-room for 104,000 volumes, and are furnished with comfortable appliances for study and consultation.

The collection of books is estimated at more than 85,000. Among these are many rare, curious and unique works. One hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the fifteenth century, and others of later periods, together with a number of facsimiles, such as the Duke de Loubat's splendid reproductions in photochromography of ancient Aztec MSS., interest the visitor.

The deep obligations under which we are to our generous patrons and benefactors in this vital department of the University are, to some extent, expressed in the list of acknowledgments already given in this catalogue.

In the Graduates' Library equally rapid strides have been made toward perfecting a collection which will serve the Graduate Department of the University for reference and study in literature and philosophy.

DISCIPLINE.

In Georgetown's system of education, one of the most important features is the formation and training of character. Her method is intended to develop and strengthen the character no less than the mind. Hence a greater degree of supervision is exercised over the students than is usual, at the present day, in many other large institutions; but the manner of doing this is such as to relieve the plan of its harsher features.

The College is considered as constituting a large family. The professors live with the students, mingle with them constantly, take part in their sports, direct their studies personally, and in every way assume the relation rather of older brothers than of taskmasters. This constant, familiar, personal communication on kindly terms between professor and student is a powerful means for the formation and uplifting of character.

As the student reaches the latter years of his college course, a somewhat larger degree of liberty is granted him; and when he enters the Graduate School or either of the professional departments, he is almost entirely freed from restrictions of every kind. He is then believed, by reason of the long course of judicious training which he has undergone in contact with cultivated and enlightened men, to have acquired habits of self-control, and to be prepared to comport himself anywhere and everywhere as a law-abiding, Christian gentleman.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Religious instruction is considered of the first importance in education.

Catechism forms one of the regular class recitations, and weekly catechetical lectures are attended by all. The prize for Christian Doctrine is awarded to the author of the best paper upon the matter of these lectures. Further instruction is given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the development of piety there are two Sodalties, which meet weekly. All Catholic students are expected to approach the Sacraments at least once a month.

THE CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

In the College Quadrangle stands the Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, measuring 109 feet in extreme length, and varying in breadth from 40 to 60 feet. This structure is the generous gift of the wife of an alumnus, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren (Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr), née Elizabeth Drexel. The Chapel was consecrated on Friday, June 9th, 1893. Its seating capacity is about 500. The College thus possesses a spacious and beautiful structure, wherein the services of the Church may be performed with fitting solemnity and dignity.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term in 1901-1902 will begin September 18, 1901, and will end February 1, 1902. The second term will begin February 4, 1902, and end June 19, 1902.

The Christmas recess begins on December 21 and ends on January 2. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week to the Wednesday after Easter.

No schools are taught on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

The classes begin at 8.45 A. M. and continue until 12. They are resumed at 1 and continue until 3 P. M., with five minutes interruption between classes.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

A general examination in all classes is held in writing toward the close of each term. Supplementary oral examinations on the classic authors are also exacted.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will rarely be made at any other time.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. Absentees are not allowed to make up marks. Students, therefore, who remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess cannot expect to hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards in the Undergraduate School, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of every month, when the marks and standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of every student is sent to his parents or guardian.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The University cap and gown are worn by the Senior Class of the College, and on the more solemn academic occasions their use is obligatory. Students of the Graduate School add the hood; and all graduates of the University are entitled to wear the complete academic costume, consisting of gown, cap, and hood. All members of the Faculty who hold a degree from another institution of learning may wear the hood proper to the corresponding degree in this University.

GILL EN. CO. N.Y.

DAHIGREN CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

It is hoped that at all commencements and other gatherings of an academic character this right will be exercised by many or all of those possessed of it.

The hood indicates in every case the wearer's degree. The Bachelor's hood is ten inches shorter than the Master's, while the Doctor's hood, of the same length as the Master's, is attached to a panel of the same material as that of the hood itself. The department in which the degree was taken is pointed out by the color of the edging, white designating Arts and Sciences; blue, Philosophy; purple, Law; green, Medicine; scarlet, Theology, etc. The interior of the hood is lined with the College colors, blue and grey, in silk.

In the foregoing and all other particulars, the hood adopted by Georgetown follows the intercollegiate agreement.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

In the various departments of the Graduate School of Georgetown University provision is made for those college graduates who desire to continue their education in the Arts and Sciences. Some, in accordance with the best spirit of the age, seek these literary and scientific resources from a love of true learning, whilst others have in view a more complete preparation for the professions in which there is a call for general knowledge. It is the object of this vital part of the University to satisfy all such demands in the fullest and most liberal manner.

The courses, if pursued to the full extent recommended, are ample enough to tax the energies of any student. It is, therefore, more satisfactory to devote an entire year to them before entering upon the study of Law or Medicine, which the University also provides. Yet the minimum of work exacted is not too much to be profitably combined with the required attention to purely professional studies.

ADMISSION.

All graduates of Georgetown College, as also graduates of institutions of like standing, are admissible to these courses.

RESIDENCE.

Students devoting themselves to Graduate work only at the College may reside within the College walls or not, as may suit their convenience. Those attending the Schools of Law or Medicine are expected to live outside of the College; and, if desired, good boarding places, where reasonable rates are charged, will be secured for them.

The classes in the Graduate courses are conducted in the halls at Georgetown, from 9 A. M. to 12 M. Those in Biology, partly at Georgetown on certain evenings, and partly in the Medical College in the afternoon.

TERM TIME.

The year opens usually on the first day of October, and closes with the annual commencement of the College in the latter part of June. It is divided into the fall, winter, and spring terms.

STUDIES.

A brief schedule of courses offered in the various branches will be found subjoined. Class work is carried on by lectures, directions in reading, and intimate personal and practical guidance on the part of the professor; and on the side of the student by repetitions, review and practice papers, and the preparation of theses. The aim is to surround the Graduate student with every facility for advanced work, and every incitement to original investigation, in a word, to foster in him the spirit and habits of the scientist and scholar.

Every student must select at least three courses involving attendance upon lectures for eight hours a week. One of these courses must be Rational Philosophy. In the case of applicants for the degree of Master of Sciences, Rational Philosophy is optional, but must be replaced both as to study and examination by specialization in some branch of the Natural Sciences.

AIDS TO STUDY.

Graduate students have the privilege of consulting their professors outside the regular class hours. Under the direction of the respective lecturers, they have the use of the Riggs Memorial Library, the Cabinet of Physics, the Physical, Biological, and Chemical Laboratories of the College, and the Scientific collections of Coleman Museum.

The Graduates' Library of Philosophy and Literature, a choice collection intended for the seminar and reference, and already comprising some thousands of volumes, is placed in the old library of the North Building, occupied by the resident Graduates, and is accessible at all times as a study. The Morris Literary and Debating Society is organized for Graduate, Law, and Medical Students.

DEGREES.

The Master's degree in Arts and the same degree in Science, will be given to those already holding the corresponding Bachelor's degree, on the completion of one year of residence, with attendance upon lectures, presentation of papers, and satisfactory examinations, as specified above.

For the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, a minimum of two years of Graduate work, one of which at least must be spent in residence, will be required. The candidate must pass a final examination, present a thesis bearing upon his special department of study, and convince the committee appointed by the Faculty of his distinguished merit to receive this degree.

The condition of residence may be waived in certain special cases where evidence of eminent fitness is submitted by the candidate. In such cases, candidates must file an application at the beginning of October of the academic year in which they wish to take the degree, specifying the degrees they hold, the line of work they intend to pursue, and the title and scope of the thesis they intend to submit. The special oral examination will be exacted in every case.

FEES AND EXPENSES.

The fee for tuition is $100 for the entire course of instruction. The charge for room, board and washing at the College is $400 for the year.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

The advancement of learning in this country creates a demand for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in course. In order to maintain this degree at its highest standard, in addition to other qualifications, a most sound and thorough training is necessary. For this, due provision has been made in our Graduate School. Under the direction of our Professors of Philosophy the whole field of philosophical teaching is surveyed, the history of the science fully treated, and the means of immediate preparation given for the final tests required for this degree.

Graduates desiring to fit themselves as professors and lecturers have every facility to perfect themselves in their chosen specialty. Besides a regular engagement in Universities, Colleges, Seminaries, High Schools, courses of lectures on literary and scientific subjects are growing in popularity in these institutions. Moreover, the development of University Extension, Summer Schools, Reading Circles, etc., brings with it opportunities for the promotion of true culture which the lecturer cannot afford to overlook.

Students for the Church can extend and complete the Philosophy they have begun in their last college year, and thus prepare the main requirements for entrance into Theology. This, together with Ecclesiastical History, in which the great questions under controversy will be treated, and courses in the theory and practice of Rhetoric and in Literature, will supply a year of useful and systematic work amidst surroundings to which they are already accustomed. Facility in the use of Latin can be acquired by conversation in groups formed for the purpose.

Those who aim at Journalism can lay a solid foundation in such courses as Philosophy, Ethics, Economics, History, Advanced Rhetoric, English and French or German Language and Literature. In addition to the required essays and dissertations in their departments, they may profitably secure for practice the Washington correspondence of some newspapers of the country.

BIOLOGY.

As the discussion of questions in Sociology is of moment to the aspirant to the Church and the Bar, so a knowledge of the principles of Biology is invaluable to the medical student. Moreover, the importance of this subject in modern times as an element of culture and an adjunct to philosophical training is too plain to need demonstration. It is believed, therefore, that many graduates who are aiming at the higher degrees of Master of Arts or Doctor of Philosophy will desire to follow the courses of this department. Attention is called to the unusual advantages Georgetown possesses for this study, and which will be found on another page.

Moreover, for a thorough course of medicine, the study of Biology is an excellent preparation, and is fast becoming an essential prerequisite.

Detailed suggestions for the appropriate selection of courses by various classes of students will be found on another page.

The instruction in this department will be under the general direction of Ch. Wardell Stiles, Ph. D., while in the discussion of various groups of plants and animals, recourse will be had to specialists in the Government service, who have been engaged to give series of lectures in their respective fields. The international reputation of these men in their specialities is abundant guarantee of the elevated and thorough character of the courses.

No extra fee for these courses will be required of Graduate students in the Arts and Sciences, or of the medical students pursuing the regular four years' course in the University. Students in the Medical Preparatory and Special students will be charged a very moderate sum, according to the number of courses taken.

The courses in Biology are designed for the following classes of students:

Graduate Students —(1) Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts who desire some knowledge of biological science for the sake of general culture, and who choose this subject as minor work. Courses required, 1 and 2; elective, 3 and 4.

(2) Candidates for the Master's degree who desire to pay more attention to this subject, with a possible view of specializing in Biology or of studying medicine. Courses required, 1 to 4; elective, 5 to 11.

Candidates for the Master's degree, with Biology as major subject, will consult with the Dean of the Graduate School regarding elective studies in the Medical Department. Upon recommendation by this officer they will receive from the Dean of the Medical Faculty cards of admission to the courses elected.

Medical Students.—Students who desire to prepare themselves for the study of Medicine, without reference to the Master's degree, may combine the biological course of the Graduate School and of the first and second years of the Medical Department with work in modern and classical languages and the physical sciences given in the Collegiate Department. By following these preparatory studies for two years, the student will be able to anticipate one year of his medical course, besides securing a far more thorough preparation for his subsequent career as a physician.

Such preparatory students in Medicine will matriculate with George M. Kober, M.D., Dean of the Medical Faculty, Washington, D. C., by whom they will be referred to the Dean of the Graduate School for consultation regarding the courses to be pursued at the College.

Special students are admitted to single courses upon the approval of the Dean of the Graduate School, or of the Dean of the Medical Faculty.

Special Students.—The ample field of Biology as outlined in the foregoing schedule, invites non-collegiate students to select courses suitable to their necessities, abilities, or tastes.

During the first half of the year special stress will be laid upon the zoölogical, during the last half upon the botanical (cryptogamic and phanerogamic) side of Biology.

During the spring term the class will take field excursions to study the interaction of organisms, the life histories of animals, plants, etc. Students will be required to prepare theses based on the results of independent field-work.

Courses in Biology.

Course 1.—GENERAL Zoölogy. Two lectures per week. October–June. Professor Stiles, assisted by Drs. Baker, Benedict, Howard, Judd, Merriam, Palmer, and Messrs. Simpson, Lucas and others.

The course will consist of about seventy lectures, and will cover in a very general way the principles of Zoölogy and a review of the different groups of animals.

The lectures will be illustrated with charts and specimens. The discussion of many of the groups will be given by specialists in those groups.

Course 2.—PRACTICAL BIOLOGY. Three hours per week. October–June. Professor Judd.

This course will consist of laboratory work, supplemented by short lectures.

It will familiarize the student with typical specimens of the various groups of plants and animals: each example chosen will be studied from the standpoints of anatomy, physiology, development, and classification. Starting with the unicellular organisms (Ambœba, Stentor, Bacteria, Yeast, Protococcus) the student will pass to an examination of the multicellular plants and animals. Microscopic studies and dissections will be made of several common animals, such as the river-fluke, earthworm, crayfish, grasshopper, fish, frog, and rabbit.

Course 3.—EMBRYOLOGY. One lecture per week. October-February. Professor Judd.

This course will consist of about twenty lectures, covering the subject up to organology. It is required of the first and second classes of the Medical Department of Georgetown University, and is illustrated by numerous charts prepared especially for these lectures.

Course 4.—ANIMAL PARASITES. Ten lectures. Professor Stiles.

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and by exhibition of specimens. Practical laboratory exercises in microscopic examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of fæces, for determining the presence of parasites, will supplement the lectures.

This course is required of the third and fourth years of the Medical Department. About half of the lectures are included in Course 1.

Course 5 —PHYSIOLOGY. Three times a week for two years. October to April. Prof. C. H. A. Kleinschmidt.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

Course 6.—NORMAL HISTOLOGY. Four hours per week. October-April. Prof. Hugh M. Smith, assisted by Drs. R. S. Blackburn and J. A. Clark.

Required of the first year in the Medical Department.

Course 7.—OSTEOLOGY. Three hours per week. Fall term. Dr. Edwin R. Hodge.

Required of the first year of the Medical Department.

Course 8.—HUMAN ANATOMY. Two lectures per week for two years. October–April. Dr. Frank Baker, assisted by Drs. Reisinger and Hummer.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

Course 9.—PRACTICAL ANATOMY.—Daily. October–April. Dr. E. M. Reisinger, assisted by Drs. A. L. Howard, Walker, Gwynn, Marburg, Gapen.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

Course 10.—BACTERIOLOGY. Four hours per week. October to April. Dr. Behrend.

Required of third year of the Medical Department.

Course 11.—BACTERIOLOGICAL PRACTICUM. Two hours per week. October–December; six hours per week, January–April. Dr. Behrend.

Required of third year of the Medical Department.

THE OBSERVATORY.

STAFF OF OBSERVATORY.

REV. JOHN G. HAGEN, S. J.,

Director.

REV. GEORGE ZWACK, S. J.,

Assistant Astronomer.

Rev. John T. Hedrick assumed the chair of mathematics and astronomy at Woodstock College in the fall of 1898, but he continues his co-operation with our Observatory as much as his other duties allow.

BUILDING AND EQUIPMENT.

With regard to the building and equipment the following description will be of interest to our friends. The Observatory stands on an eminence at a distance of about four hundred yards from the College. The main building is sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, and is divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a nine-inch photographic transit instrument, with collimators, by Saegmuller, of Washington. In the western room is mounted a transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long and has a four-and-one-half-inch object-glass. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, surmounted by a rotary dome eighteen feet in diameter. Here is erected the twelve-inch equatorial.

In the room below the dome is the library containing the observations and other publications of nearly all the observatories in the world.

Under the library is the clock room, with four pendulum clocks and two chronometers, a chronograph, and a switchboard from which the electrical connections with all the instruments are made. A special line connects the switchboard with the United States Naval Observatory.

All the instruments and rooms are furnished with electric light.

A separate dome, twelve feet in diameter, on the southwest brow of the hill, shelters the old equatorial, by Troughton & Simms, which has an aperture of nearly five inches.

An extension added to the eastern side of the main building contains an instrument for the determination of the variations of latitude: the photographic zenith telescope.

The nine-inch photographic transit instrument has been provided with a Riefler clock in an air-tight case, the donation of the late Miss Catherine Bruce, and will be put in operation as soon as the Observatory receives the necessary assistance.

ATLAS OF VARIABLE STARS.

The twelve-inch equatorial has been devoted for the last nine years to the construction of an Atlas of the Variable Stars. This work is now complete in substance, and requires only occasional supplements to be kept up to date. Since this is the only Atlas for variable stars in existence, it has become indispensable in all observatories.

When the new star in the Constellation of Perseus appeared on February 21, 1901, it was kept under constant observation. The astronomical world owes to this Observatory two Charts with Catalogues, constructed for the observation of the Nova, both with the naked eye and with large telescopes.

SYNOPSIS OF HIGHER MATHEMATICS.

We may be allowed to mention, in connection with this publication, some others of a more mathematical character. Three fascicules of Volume III of the "Synopsis of Higher Mathematics" are already published, and several shorter essays have appeared in the Bibliotheca Mathematica, in the Bulletin of the American Mathematical Society and that of the Philosophical Society of Washington.

The plans for the edition of Leonard Euler's collected works, which were mentioned in last year's catalogue, have since taken a more definite shape. We hope to be able before many years to erect to this great mathematician the monument which his own country and the Academies of Petersburg and Berlin have owed him for more than a century.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

We are pleased to mention several donations made lately to the Observatory. The principal benefaction came from the late Mrs. Annie Donahue, of San Francisco, Cal., in accordance with an agreement made with her two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, of San Francisco, and Miss Winfride Martin, of Baltimore, Md., according to which they were to unite in donating to the College Observatory an endowment fund of $25,000. Mrs. Donahue by her will, left to the Observatory a third part of that sum, amounting to $8,333.34, and her executors have paid it over to the College.

Another important donation came from Miss Catharine Wolfe Bruce, to assist in the publication of the Atlas Stellarum Variabilium. On the commendation of our work by Prof. Edward C. Pickering, Director of Harvard College Observatory, Miss Bruce placed at the disposal of the publisher first the sum of $1,750, and again the additional sum of $1,400, by which generous gifts she secured the publication against all chances for want of subscribers. We have to acknowledge gratefully another gift of $500 from the same lady for the new Riefler clock.

The warmest thanks of the Observatory are tendered to these donors.

Its purpose is primarily not only the actual relief of the poor in the neighborhood of the College, but also to train its members in the spirit and methods of this admirable organization. Yet the charitable work performed is by no means inconsiderable. During the past year a large sum of money and many articles of clothing were distributed. The members of the Conference have given active and regular assistance to the Mission established among the soldiers at Fort Myer, Va., teaching Sunday-school there, conducting the Choir, and in other ways aiding the Father in charge.

GEORGETOWN COLLEGE JOURNAL.

ESTABLISHED 1872.

THE GEORGETOWN COLLEGE JOURNAL is published by a committee of the students, at the beginning of each month. Its purpose is to aid their literary improvement and to chronicle the news of the University. It also serves the Society of Alumni as an organ and means of intercommunication. Being principally devoted to matters of local interest, it must rely for its patronage chiefly upon the students, the alumni and the friends of the several departments of the University. These and all former students are urged to give it substantial support.

The Staff: Editor-in-chief, Hugh J. Fegan, '01. Associate Editors, Edward J. Smith (Tenn.), '01; Richard P. Whiteley, '01; G. Le G. Mullally, '02; William H. Byrnes, '03; Warnick

THE STUDENTS' LIBRARY.

This contains about 4,500 volumes, selected with the view of furnishing the student with the means of reference as well as entertainment. About three years ago the library was transferred to the first floor of the south pavilion, where a hall 60 x 40 feet, handsomely furnished with oaken book-cases, librarian's inclosure, tables and chairs, has been devoted to the double purpose of library and reading room. Newspapers from the chief cities of the country, together with the leading reviews and magazines, are kept on file. The library and reading room are open to all of the students, subject to a small annual fee, which serves to defray ordinary expenses. The book-cases at present erected form only a part of a larger plan, for the completion of which $5,000 will be required.

Officers: Mr. Richard A. Fleming, S. J., Director; James A. O'Shea, '99, A. B., Librarian; Stephen A. Douglas, '01, Assistant.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION OR "THE YARD."

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged, but great care is taken that studies suffer no detriment from this cause.

As yet there is no adequate gymnasium for the students of the Collegiate Department. They have, however, a series of recreation rooms fitted up for their use on the ground floor. This suite comprises a central hall, an apartment for billiard tables, a dressing room for athletic contestants, a baseball room, a bowling alley, rowing machines and a running track.

The baseball field, which was extended and graded some years ago at the cost of more than $3,000, is 525 feet in length and 425 feet in width. By the efforts of Walter S. Martin, of California, who collected the funds from members of his own family, a running track, fifteen feet in width and more than a quarter of a mile in length, has been constructed about the outer edge of the field.

The Athletic Association, or "The Yard," comprises under one general direction all the organizations existing among the students for purposes of amusement and exercise, such as Baseball, Football, Track Athletics, Rowing, Glee Association, Lawn Tennis, and Billiards. These associations, which previous to the year 1889 were independent of one another, since that date have been regulated by the Yard Committee, under the direction of the Prefect of Discipline.

The Athletic Association has frequently received aid and counsel from the Alumni of the University; but feeling the need of closer relations between present and former students, it has organized an Advisory Board. This consists of seven members, viz., a representative of the College Faculty, three members of the Society of Alumni, and three students, one from each of the three departments, Collegiate, Medical and Law.

Officers: Rev. Thomas I. Cryan, S. J., Faculty Director; James P. B. Duffy, '01, Vice-President; John M. Wolfe, '01, Secretary; Edward J. Smith, '01 (Fred.), Treasurer; Joseph T. Lynch, '01, Manager of Baseball; E. Pius O'Donnell, '03, Manager of Football; William K. Johnson, '04, Manager of Crew; C. Moran Barry, '01, Manager of Field and Track; Charles C. Horsey, '01, Manager of Tennis; Paul H. Laroussini, '04, Manager of Billiards.

The Executive Committee is composed of the above officers with the exception of the Journalist.

Advisory Board: Rev. Thomas I. Cryan, S. J., President; Mr. M. J. Colbert, Dr. Samuel S. Adams, R. Ross Perry, Jr., Alumni Members; Mr. Carlos Long (Law), Mr. William Holland, Medicine; Mr. James P. B. Duffy, Arts and Sciences.

The bowling alley was built through the kindness of Mr. William A. Wimsatt, of this city. It has not as yet been put under the direction of the Executive Committee, but is managed by the Director of Athletics.

DEGREES.

The successful completion of the undergraduate course entitles a student to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. No other first degree is given in the College, those of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Philosophy having been abolished by action of the Faculty.

Degrees will not be given at any other time than the annual commencement in June.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Students may enter at any time during the session, and, on examination, will be assigned to the class for which their prior attainments have fitted them.

Satisfactory testimonials of good conduct will be required from those who come from other institutions.

Candidates for admission to advanced classes must pass a satisfactory examination upon all the subjects previously studied by the class which they propose to enter.

From certain preparatory schools of established reputation students are admitted to the Freshman class without examination, upon the principal's certificate that they have completed the required amount of work and are prepared to enter college.

In each case, however, a catalogue giving the course of studies required in his school, must accompany the principal's certificate. The Georgetown Preparatory School Catalogue may be had on application to the Prefect of Studies.

In all other cases for admission to this class, a successful examination is required in the following subjects, or their equivalent :

LATIN.—Grammar.—The entire Latin Grammar, including a knowledge of all regular syntactical constructions: Translation into Latin at sight of complex English sentences, entailing the application of rules for relative clauses, indirect discourse and conditional sentences.

Prosody.—All the rules as given in Casserly's Prosody or some equivalent work; application to hexameter verse; scansion of Ovid and Virgil. A simple exercise will be exacted in the rearrangement of broken verse.

Latin Composition.—Translation into Latin of easy continuous prose based upon Cæsar and Cicero. This requirement is of very especial importance, and great weight will be given to it in the examination. The use of Cicero's letters as well as his orations as models for the acquirement of Latin idiom is strongly recommended.

Nepos.—Lives to the end of the Life of Alcibiades; also the Life of Atticus.

Cæsar.—Commentaries, two books.

Ovid.—Metamorphoses, one thousand lines.

Cicero.—Selected letters, five hundred lines; orations; the four against Catiline.

Virgil.—Aeneid, three books.

GREEK.—Grammar.—Etymology complete (including all the irregular and defective forms); the rules for accents; the rules of syntax and their application; the Homeric dialect.

Greek Composition.—Translation into Greek of simple English sentences based upon Xenophon's Anabasis.

Xenophon.—Anabasis, Books I and II.

Lucian.—Six Dialogues.

Homer.—Iliad, Books I and II, or Odyssey, Books I, II and III.

N. B.—In assigning the matter above the purpose of the Faculty is not to insist on quantity or to recognize that the mere reading of a stated amount of assigned authors is sufficient preparation for college. In the discussion of the classic authors, both Greek and Latin, the candidate must be prepared to give a complete grammatical analysis of every word, phrase and sentence, and to point out exceptional idioms, and must be informed on the chief points of collateral erudition connected with the text.

ENGLISH.—Higher Grammar—The candidate must be prepared on the matter contained in Meiklejohn's "The English Language," or some equivalent work.

Composition.—A brief prose composition will be required evidencing some proficiency in narrative and critical writing. This exercise will be based upon books and authors assigned for study in the Georgetown Preparatory School, a catalogue of which will be sent on application to the Prefect of Studies. Questions will be asked as to the subject-matter, method of treatment, structure, and style of these books. Fair penmanship and accurate spelling will be considered as essential preliminary requirements.

The authors assigned for 1901-1902 will be: Shelley, Selected Poems, (No. 85, Maynard Series.) *Wordsworth, Selected Poems, (No. 90, Maynard Series.) De Quincy, Flight of a Tartar Tribe. *Macaulay, Essays on Johnson and on Addison. Milton, Paradise Lost, (two books.) *Shakespeare, Macbeth. Burke on Conciliation. *Thackeray, Henry Esmond.

A careful study of the works marked thus * (subject-matter, form and structure) will be exacted; a general acquaintance with the other assigned books will be sufficient.

N. B.—The Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English for 1901-1902 will be accepted, as will any fair equivalent work in this department.

HISTORY.—The History of the Oriental Nations, Greece and Rome, as found in Myer's Ancient History, or some similar work; Modern General History, Fredet's or an equivalent; Johnston's United States, or an equivalent; Elements of Civics.

MATHEMATICS.—Algebra; Geometry, plane and solid. Wentworth's Complete Algebra, and Wentworth's Geometry, or works of equal grade.

SCIENCES.—A fair knowledge of Physical Geography, Elementary Physiology, Botany and Astronomy, as required in the Georgetown Preparatory School, a catalogue of which will be mailed on application.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—One modern language other than English is required, preferably French or German. The examination will embrace the elements of grammar, including the irregular verbs; translation into English at sight of simple prose ; grammatical analysis.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

No student will be allowed to remain at the College during the summer vacation.

The introduction of intoxicating liquors, as well as of immoral books or papers, will render the offender liable to expulsion, as will any grave offence against morals or discipline. The use of cigarettes is prohibited.

Boarders. — Boarders are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission. Violation of this rule will render the offender liable to expulsion. Leave to visit the city will not be given without the written authorization of parents ; and even with such authorization it is intended that the permission should be given but rarely and for good reasons.

Students whose parents reside in the District will ordinarily be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of every month and to remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of supervising all correspondence of students.

To avoid serious loss of time from study, the students are prohibited from receiving daily newspapers regularly as individual subscribers. The principal papers, however, as well as other periodicals, are kept on file in the reading room.

Day Scholars.—Day-scholars and half-boarders, while within the College walls, are subject to all the rules and regulations of boarders.

They are required to attend the mid-day studies at the College, and are expected to spend about three hours daily in study at home.

Punctual attendance at class is required ; and no day-scholar, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Discipline.

Day-scholars are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders.

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 1901-1902.

The complete course of study in the Medical Department extends over four terms of eight months each. The next term will begin Saturday, September 28, 1901, and end Saturday, May 31, 1902.

The demands of modern medical education are such that the Faculty has found it necessary to extend the hours of instruction so that more time may be given to practical work in laboratories and hospitals. The instruction will, therefore, begin in the morning and continue throughout the day. Students are required to devote their entire time to the study of medicine.

Special attention is called to the advantages of the method of teaching adopted in the school. It enables each student to come into more intimate relation with his teachers in laboratory and hospital work, and in connection with the system of recitations adopted as a part of the curriculum, makes instruction more directly personal and adapted to the special needs of the individual, and prepares our graduates for the rigid examinations for admission in the Medical Corps of the Army, Navy and Marine Hospital Service. A number of our students have successfully passed these examinations.

The building of this department is conveniently situated on H street northwest, between Ninth and Tenth streets, near several of the principal railway lines. It contains spacious and well-ventilated lecture rooms, chemical, histological, bacteriological, and physiological laboratories, a convenient and well-lighted dissecting room, a library and reading room for the use of students. The laboratories are equipped with the latest and most approved instruments and appliances, including an ample number of microscopes of high power.

These will greatly enhance the facilities for instruction, and will enable every student to master more readily the technical skill needed in these important methods of modern medical research.

The laboratory courses may be taken independently of the lectures.

Congress during its last session appropriated sufficient funds for the erection of a Laboratory in connection with the Marine Hospital Bureau for the investigation of infectious and contagious diseases and other matters pertaining to public health, and also enacted a law permitting the use of Government Laboratories for postgraduate research work. Students may also be employed as assistants during the vacation months in the scientific Laboratories of the Department of Agriculture.

The great libraries and museums connected with the various Government institutions at Washington afford advantages to the student, that are unrivaled in America and are equal to those in most European capitals. These collections are for the most part freely open to the public, or can be consulted by students upon obtaining permission, readily granted to those who are pursuing special courses of study. In most cases the collections are made available for education and research by act of Congress.

The following may be mentioned :

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

In accordance with the regulations of the Association of American Medical Colleges, a preliminary examination is required as a condition for admission. It will not be required of an applicant who can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, normal or high school, or State Examining Board.

The examination shall comprise the following subjects:

(a) A thorough knowledge of English grammar, composition and rhetoric.

(b) Mathematics, including higher arithmetic, algebra through quadratics, and plane geometry.

(c) Latin, the equivalent of one year's study in a good high school covering at least one book of Cæsar's Commentaries or an equivalent thereof.

(d) Elementary physics.

(e) United States history.

Students conditioned in any of these branches will be allowed one year's time to meet the requirements.

Students who have attended one or more terms at any other medical college in good standing will be admitted to advanced standing upon passing the examination required of students for the stage at which they propose to enter. Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable medical colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher classes without further examination.

Persons not candidates for the degree M. D. may be admitted without examination as special students, and may attend any of the courses upon giving satisfactory evidence that they are qualified to intelligently avail themselves of the instruction.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the College Building on Saturday, September 28, and Monday, September 30, 1901, at 2 P. M.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic and clinical lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting, laboratory work, and other practical manipulation. The students will be divided into four classes, called respectively, the First, Second, Third, and Fourth.

Class recitations will be conducted by members of the Faculty and instructors.

A record of these recitations will be kept, and the average will be credited to each student in summing up after the final examinations at the end of the session.

The following is a sketch of the several courses of instruction:

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

The didactic instruction is illustrated by demonstrations on the living subject by dissection, models, and several hundred plates and lantern slides prepared especially for the course. The students are thoroughly examined orally from week to week as the course progresses in order to insure that they understand the work and are making satisfactory progress. Written examinations are held every month. Especial attention is paid to the practical bearings of the science and its application to surgery and pathology.

OSTEOLOGY.

DR. EMORY W. REISINGER,

Assistant to the Professor of Anatomy.

This course includes a careful study of every bone in the human body, the pupil being required to point out and designate the important and technical features of each upon an actual specimen. For the study of the skeleton it is very much like what the study of the softer parts is in the dissecting room, and is an indispensable preliminary to that work.

PRACTICAL ANATOMY.

DR. EMORY W. REISINGER,

Demonstrator.

The new dissecting room is spacious and well provided with the proper appliances for the assistance of students. Dissecting will commence October 15th, and continue until the following March. The room will be open daily for students, and the Demonstrator or his assistants will be present. During the session there will be given special demonstrations of the brain, of the thoracic and abdominal viscera, and also of other difficult or obscure regions of the body. The Demonstrators and Assistants will have general supervision and direction over all students while in the dissecting room.

During each session every student of the First and Second Classes will be required to dissect all regions of the human body.

The Demonstrator will examine the students from time to time during the progress of their dissections, and if he finds that they have not properly displayed the structures, or have no accurate knowledge of the parts dissected, he will require a new dissection of the same region upon another subject. He will certify to the Professor of Anatomy the satisfactory completion of each dissection.

HISTOLOGY.

PROF. HUGH M. SMITH, M. D.

In this course, which embraces one full session, students of the first year are taught the theory and practical use of the microscope and the elements of microscopic technique, in addition to the minute anatomy of organs and tissues. Instruction is given in the well-equipped laboratory, and the course is chiefly devoted to practical laboratory work. It is the aim to thoroughly cover the subject of animal histology, the human tissues being compared with those of the lower vertebrates. The application of histology to physiology and pathology is duly considered. Students are required to prepare organs for examination, beginning with fresh specimens and ending with mounted sections, and to make drawings and descriptive notes of the microscopical appearances.

EMBRYOLOGY.

SYLVESTER D. JUDD, B. S., PH. D.

This course will consist of about twenty lectures, covering the subject up to organology. It is required of the first class, and is illustrated by numerous charts prepared especially for these lectures.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROF. C. H. A. KLEINSCHMIDT, PH. D., M. D.

This course, which will extend over two sessions, comprises didactic lectures and laboratory work upon the functions of the various organs of the body in health and upon physiological chemistry. These lectures are illustrated by demonstrations, diagrams, plates, and models.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. G. LLOYD MAGRUDER, A. M., M. D.,

One of the Consulting Physicians to Providence Hospital, and the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Instruction in this Department will extend over the first three years of the medical course.

Students of the second and third year will be instructed in the physiological action and therapeutical use of drugs, and in prescription writing. The instruction will be given by lectures and recitations.

MATERIA MEDICA.

WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

Under this course students of the first year will be taught the appearance and physical properties of the crude drugs and the preparations derived therefrom, illustrated by actual specimens. The elements of pharmacology will also be taught, including the compounding of medicinal substances and preparations, incompatibilities, weights and measures, doses, etc. Instruction will be both didactic and practical.

CHEMISTRY AND TOXICOLOGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M.

It is the aim in this department to give a practical course in chemistry and toxicology as related to the subject of medicine.

As a foundation for this course special attention is given to the subject of elementary chemistry, including thorough instruction in the laws governing chemical combination and molecular changes.

This is supplemented by laboratory work, illustrating the subjects previously considered, and setting forth the fundamental principles of chemical analysis.

In organic chemistry the instruction is given by means of lectures and laboratory work. This course includes an examination of the more important hydrocarbons and their derivatives, supplemented by lectures upon the theoretical and practical methods of manufacture, their character and uses, especially as they are related to medicine. Under the head of organic chemistry, that department of science known as sanitary chemistry also receives attention. This includes the practical examination of the various forms of matter which affect, either directly or indirectly, the general health. It is intended in this course that such a knowledge shall be imparted to the students as may enable them to differentiate between wholesome and unwholesome articles of food and drink.

The various food products, particularly milk, cheese, bread and meats, will receive careful consideration.

The examination of air in rooms, the velocity, condition and quality of air currents, will be considered under the head of ventilation.

The organic analysis of water and its various forms of pollution, together with the examination of soils, will also receive attention.

Under the head of toxicology the general subject of poisons, including their effects, modes of action, subsequent dispositions and antagonism is briefly considered, while the evidence of poisoning as furnished by chemical analysis is considered more in detail.

A special course in physics as applied to medicine and surgery will be given during the first year. It will be illustrated by oral instruction and by laboratory experiments.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF MEDICINE AND DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

PROF. SAMUEL S. ADAMS, A. M. M. D.,

Attending Physician to Georgetown University and Children's Hospital.

Instruction in this branch will be given by didactic and clinical lectures and reviews.

An effort will be made to give in the course of two sessions as complete a description as possible of the diseases usually considered as belonging to the province of this chair, and in such a manner as to give the student a clear conception of the methods of discrimination and management of the various diseased conditions. This teaching, together with the supplementary advantages offered by the various clinics to which the student will have access, will, it is believed, afford him an opportunity of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this subject.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF SURGERY.

PROF. GEORGE TULLY VAUGHAN, M. D.,

One of the Attending Surgeons at the Emergency Hospital and Chief Surgeon Georgetown University Hospital.

The course in surgery extends over two years. Instruction is given by didactic lectures, recitations, and demonstrations at clinics which are held at the various hospitals and dispensaries, which afford material in abundance.

The Third Class is instructed in the practical use and application of bandages, fracture dressings, and other surgical apparatus. The use of all kinds of surgical instruments is also demonstrated on the living subject or on the cadaver.

Members of the Fourth Class are instructed in orthopaedic and genito-urinary surgery by lectures and clinical demonstrations, and are given a course in operative surgery on the cadaver, in which nearly every operation, minor and capital, classic and modern, is done by the student under the direction of the professor and his assistants.

SURGICAL PATHOLOGY AND MILITARY SURGERY.

PROF. W. C. BORDEN, M. D., F. R. M. S.,

Major and Surgeon Medical Department, U. S. A., Commanding General Hospital, Washington Barracks, D. C.

This course consists of an annual course of didactic lectures freely illustrated by plates, drawings and specimens adapted to the purpose of teaching modern views and progress in surgical pathology and therapeutics, and the principles of military surgery as applied to the management of gunshot wounds in civil practice.

OBSTETRICS.

PROF. JOHN F. MORAN, A. B., M. D.

Obstetrician, Georgetown University and Columbia Hospitals.

Obstetrics will be taught didactically, and, as far as practice able, instructions will be given at the bedside. The entire course will be graded, and will consist of classified lectures, comprising the whole subject, of recitations and demonstrations upon charts and plates, and of operations performed upon the manikin. During the past session each member of the senior class attended three or more cases of midwifery, of which he was required to keep records and present written reports of the case. In future, every facility will be given to obtain experience in the practical workings of this department, by means of bedside instruction.

The importance of exercising strict supervision over the period of pregnancy will be dwelt upon, and attention given to the pathological changes which may occur during gestation, labor, and the puerperal state.

The great value of antiseptic principles as applied to obstetric practice will also be urged.

An operative course on the Budin-Pinard manikin will be given. Instruction will be given in abdominal palpations, in digital examination, and the methods of diagnosing presentations and positions of the foetus.

An opportunity is given to each student to perform the various obstetric operations, such as the application of the forceps, version, etc.

GYNECOLOGY AND ABDOMINAL SURGERY.

PROF. JOSEPH TABER JOHNSON, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

One of the Consulting Physicians to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, Consulting Gynecologist to the Woman's Dispensary, Surgeon in Charge of his own Hospital for Women, and of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery in the Georgetown University Hospital.

Modern gynecology will be taught in didactic lectures, freely illustrated by plates and blackboard drawings, recitations, and also in small classes at private operations, where manipulations and operative work will be carefully explained and demonstrated.

Advanced students will be given an opportunity to witness the preparations for aseptic operations, and to assist in their performance when practicable.

Abdominal surgery will receive special attention.

OPHTHALMOLOGY AND OTOTOLOGY.

PROF. SWAN M. BURNETT, PH. D., M. D.,

Ophthalmologist and Otolologist to Georgetown University, Providence and Children's Hospitals, and the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

These important branches are taught as a part of the regular curriculum.

The course begins with lectures on the anatomy of the eye and ear illustrated by models, charts, and specimens under the microscope, followed by an explanation of the fundamental principles of physiological optics and acoustics and the proper methods of examining the eye and ear. The lectures are supplemented by quizzes and reviews. The lectures on the diseases of the eye and ear are wholly clinical, illustrative cases being taken from Dr. Burnett's extensive service at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and at Children's, Providence, and the University Hospitals. The class is divided into small sections in order that the clinical teaching shall be as nearly personal as possible. More than twelve hundred new cases of eye and ear diseases are treated annually at the Central Dispensary alone. Every important operation on the eye is performed in the presence of each section.

Dr. C. R. Dufour, Demonstrator of Ophthalmology and Otolology, gives clinical demonstrations twice a week at the Eastern Dispensary.

SPECIAL PATHOLOGY AND MORBID ANATOMY.

PROF. I. W. BLACKBURN, M. D.,

Pathologist to the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will be devoted to the pathology and morbid anatomy of the individual organs, tissues, and fluids; to consideration of tumors and morbid growths in general and in connection with special pathology; to the pathology of mental diseases, and the methods of conducting post-mortem examinations for medico-scientific and medico-legal purposes. A special feature of the course will be demonstrations of the gross and microscopic morbid anatomy of diseased organs, and the making of post-mortem examinations before the class.

GENERAL PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, M. D.

The course in pathology will extend over two years. The instruction will consist of lectures, demonstrations, class recitations and laboratory work, and will embrace general and special pathology, including bacteriology and clinical pathology.

The lectures and class recitations are brought in close relation with the laboratory exercises. During the first-half year general considerations of disease, including etiology and immunity, are taken up, and during the same period the laboratory work in bacteriology is made to explain and illustrate the didactic work as far as possible.

The second-half year is devoted to the study of the anatomical changes in disease, including degeneration, regeneration, inflammation, tumor formation, etc. The course in pathological histology is so arranged as to keep pace with the class work; for this purpose a complete series of typical pathological specimens will be presented for individual study.

The course in clinical pathology contemplates the examination of blood, urine, feces, gastric contents, sputum, pathological exudates, etc., with especial reference to clinical medicine and surgery. The great value of laboratory methods as aids in the diagnosis of disease will be emphasized.

HYGIENE AND STATE MEDICINE.

PROF. GEORGE M. KOBER, M. D.

The course on hygiene will extend over two years and will include lectures and recitations on sunlight, air, climate, and meteorology; water, ice, artificial carbonated waters, and soils in relation to health and disease; alimentation, food, beverages, and condiments, morbid and infected food products; the skin, bath, and clothing; exercise, rest, sleep, beds, and bedding; private and public habitations, including drainage, ventilation, warming, and lighting, with practical demonstrations of sanitary appliances at the Museum of Hygiene.

The course on State Medicine will consist of lectures and of such demonstrations as may be practicable upon the relation of the medical practitioner to Government, and of the application of medical science to the purposes of the Government for the protection of public health, and for the determination of such medical problems as come before courts of law. Attendance will be obligatory upon students in their fourth year.

PHYSICAL DIAGNOSIS, LARYNGOLOGY, AND RHINOLOGY.

PROF. T. MORRIS MURRAY, M. D.,

Director of the Throat and Chest Clinic, Georgetown University Hospital, and at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

In addition to the didactic lectures on the principles of physical diagnosis and laryngology at the college there will be demonstrations in these branches to the students at Dr. Murray's very large clinic for diseases of the throat and chest at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital. This latter will be entirely practical. The class will be divided into sections, each member of which will make examinations under the personal supervision of Dr. Murray; thus they will be made familiar with one of the most important branches of medical practice.

MEDICAL ZOOLOGY.

PROF. CH. WARDELL STILES, A. M., PH. D.,

Zoologist United States Bureau of Animal Industry, Honorary Custodian of the Helminthological Collection, United States National Museum, correspondant Etranger de l'Academie de Medicine (Paris).

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by crayon sketches, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and exhibitions of specimens. The lectures will be supplemented by practical laboratory exercises in microscopical examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of fæces, for determining the presence of parasites.

An opportunity to carry on original investigation in Medical Zoology, under the direct supervision of Dr. Stiles, will be offered to graduates or to advanced students who may desire to pay special attention to this branch.

DERMATOLOGY.

PROF. J. C. MCGUIRE, A. M., M. D.

Dermatologist to Georgetown University Hospital.

The preliminary course will include a review of the history of dermatology, the minute anatomy of the skin, general pathology, etiology, and diagnosis of cutaneous affections, followed by lectures upon individual diseases illustrated by plates.

A clinical course will be given to advanced students, as it is only at the bedside that a practical knowledge of this important branch of medicine can be obtained.

MENTAL AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

PROF. A. B. RICHARDSON, M. D.,

Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will consist of twelve clinical lectures at the Government Hospital for the Insane. Members of the Fourth Class only will be admitted to them. Students will have opportunity to visit the wards of the Hospital, and each lecture will be illustrated by numerous cases, giving in great variety all the forms of insanity which are usually seen in the practice of the general practitioners in medicine.

CLINICAL ADVANTAGES.

Georgetown University Hospital,

Corner Thirty-fifth and N Streets N. W.

The Hospital and Dispensary are located in close proximity to the College grounds and accessible by three of the principal electric car lines in the city.

This institution is in every sense a modern College hospital, wholly under the control of the School of Medicine, and affords ample and excellent facilities for illustrating by clinical teaching and ward classes the didactic instruction given in the various practical branches of the school.

Owing to the favorable location of the Hospital, the Emergency Department enjoys an unusual field of activity, a matter of great importance to the students, as they receive special training in the effective management of emergency cases.

The positions of Resident Physicians and Externes are filled by competitive examination, open to the Graduating Class of each year.

Providence Hospital.

Capitol Hill, corner Second and D Streets S. E.

This large general hospital, situated in an easily accessible part of the city, is supported in part by the General Government.

It contains over three hundred beds. The medical and surgical wards are usually well filled with interesting cases. In the new surgical amphitheatre, one of the finest in the country, every provision has been made to fully carry out anti-septic surgery. Accommodations have been provided for over 150 students. Clinics will be given in this hospital by the following professors of this school, and by other members of the hospital staff:

Surgical.—Drs. Bayne, Crook, and Mallan.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear.—Dr. Burnett.

Clinical Medicine.—Dr. Vincent.

Gynecological.—Dr. Cuthbert.

Dr. Magruder is on the Consulting Staff.

An annual fee of $5, covering all the clinics for the year, is charged by the hospital authorities.

There are competitive examinations for the positions of Resident and Assistant Resident Physicians.

Children's Hospital.

W Street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets, N. W.

Students may here observe the diseases, injuries, and deformities incident to infancy and childhood, together with the treatment appropriate therefor. Every facility will be given to thoroughly observe and comprehend the cases admitted to its wards.

The out-patient department or dispensary is open every weekday from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M. It is divided into medical and surgical services, and a service for diseases of the eye and ear. All these are free of access for medical students.

Drs. Burnett and Adams will give clinical instruction at this hospital.

Drs. Johnson, Kober, Burnett, and Adams are on the staff of this hospital.

Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Fifteenth Street and Ohio Avenue N. W.

During the last year over 15,000 patients were treated here, and over 500 surgical operations performed, many of capital importance. Unusual opportunities are afforded for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician. As a large proportion of the serious cases of accidents that occur in the city are first brought to the hospital because of its central location, students become rapidly trained in the effective treatment of injuries demanding prompt assistance, and of that class of cases likely to be of the most importance to the young practitioner. Students are admitted to the services. The new building just completed offers greatly improved facilities for clinical instruction, and the ambulance service and casualty wards will afford special advantages for studying traumatic and operative surgery.

There are competitive examinations for Resident Physician and two Assistant Resident Physicians.

In this institution, Dr. S. M. Burnett will give clinical lectures upon diseases of the eye and ear, and Dr. Murray upon physical diagnosis, laryngology and diseases of the throat and lungs. Dr. G. T. Vaughan, who is one of the surgeons, will give regular clinics and demonstrations in surgery in all its practical branches. Personal supervision of the training of the student is aimed at to qualify each with a working knowledge of this branch of practice.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

The next term of this institution opens Wednesday evening, October 2d, 1901, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Georgetown University Law Building, 506 and 508 E Street N.W., in the city of Washington. All persons interested are invited to attend the introductory lecture, which will then be delivered. The collegiate year closes on the first of June.

ADVANTAGES.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening, and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequalled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivalled among the law libraries of the world. This magnificent collection is freely open to students for seven hours daily.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages for professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States. Its sessions afford the student opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

COST OF BOARDING, ETC.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month; and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month, and even less. Tuition is $80 per annum, with no incidental charges except a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School Session is from the first Wednesday in October to the first Wednesday in June—about eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is, therefore, about $300, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

ADMISSION.

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register, at or before the opening of the term in October.

Candidates for advanced standing—i. e., those desiring to complete the Course in one or two years—must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced Class. This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Students in the Second Year are required to attend the Lectures and be examined upon Part 2 of the studies of the First Year, as indicated below ; and students in the Third Year are, in like manner, required to attend the Lectures and be examined upon the studies of Part 2 of the Second Year.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School :

FIRST YEAR :—Part 1. Personal Property, Torts, Domestic Relations and Criminal Law.

Part 2. Real Estate, Contracts and Bills and Notes.

SECOND YEAR :—Part 1. Subjects of Part 2 of the First Year's Course.

Part 2. Pleading, Evidence and Equity.

THIRD YEAR :—Part 1. Subjects of Part 2 of the Second Year's Course.

Part 2. Corporations, Common Law Practice, Equity Plead- ing and Practice, Testamentary Law, Constitutional Law, Comparative Jurisprudence, Civil Law and Probate Practice.

SPECIAL LECTURES:—Natural Law.

FOURTH YEAR OR POSTGRADUATE COURSE:—For Students, who have completed the foregoing three years' course, and for holders of the Degree of Bachelor of Laws, a fourth year or Postgraduate course has been added, the successful completion of which will entitle students to the Degree of Master of Laws. Among the subjects included in this fourth year course are the following:

History and Development of Law ; Natural Law and Ethics ; International Law ; Admiralty ; Civil Law and other Systems ; Comparative Law ; Conflict of Laws ; Statutes and Constitutions, and Diplomacy.

This course will be under the direct charge of Prof. Charles C. Cole, late Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, who will be assisted by lawyers of national reputation, selected on account of their peculiar fitness for the subjects enumerated.

Professor Cole will, in September next, issue a supplemental circular announcing the detailed arrangement of this course, and the professors associated with him in its conduct.

TABULAR VIEW OF EXERCISES.

For the arrangement of studies the school year is divided into three terms: the first term ends December 21, 1901; the second, March 17, 1902, and the third, May 24, 1902.

The following tabular statement will show the assignment during each of these terms:

CORPORATIONS.....	Wednesdays and Saturdays.
{ EQUITY PLEADING }Mondays and Fridays.
{ AND PRACTICE. }
MOOT COURT	Thursdays.

The professors will, during the coming year, be assisted in quizzing by "Quiz Masters," as has been done during several years.

The quizzes will be held at 7:30 o'clock on at least four evenings in each week, and the regular attendance of the students, at every quiz, is expected and required.

EXAMINATIONS.

No examination is required on entering the School, or at the beginning of the Course, except on entering an advanced Class, as hereinbefore indicated.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a carefully written examination, upon, or shortly after, its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of these examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year; while those who fall below the standard required may, at the discretion of the Faculty, if they have been regular in their attendance upon lectures and quizzes, have an opportunity of making up the deficiency before its close. This system has been found to promote more careful study, and, at the same time, to admit of more thorough examination, with less tax upon the student's endurance than a general examination at the close of the Course.

MOOT COURT.

Especial, painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Moot Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized, the Court is divided into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. Baker, holds two sessions weekly, known as the Special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in Courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Hon. Job Barnard and Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Holdsworth Gordon, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training-school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOMS.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text-books, and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening.

The following prizes are offered for the competition of the students in the several classes:

1st. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

2d. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the second best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

LECTURE-STUDENTS.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half of the regular charge for tuition.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION.

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is the following: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text-book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the recitation hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the "Quiz," in which the lesson is gone entirely over again in the shape of questions, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated of in the course: once by careful study of the text, a second time by the discussion of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in answer to the "Quiz." This system has been found, after careful and painstaking tests, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of the highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance is Eighty Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned, the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students, the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments of $10 each, strictly in advance.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term, unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence. For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Forty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement is Ten Dollars.

GENERAL STATEMENT.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown University consists of the COLLEGE, the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (which includes a school of DENTAL SURGERY), and the SCHOOL OF LAW. The College, however, comprises in itself three distinct departments, viz: The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory. Each School or Department is under the direction of its own Dean, and each Faculty has the power of legislating on its own affairs, but this power can be exercised only in subordination to the President and Directors of the University, and subject to their approval.

HISTORY.

The foundation of Georgetown College was projected as early as the year 1785, when the Rev. John Carroll, afterwards the first Archbishop of Baltimore, formed the plan and proposed it to his associates. On November 13, 1786, the Corporation of Roman Catholic Clergymen, in the Chapter held at Whitemarsh, Md., adopted a series of "Resolves Concerning the Institution of a School," in which it ordered that a School should be erected at Georgetown, Md., and directed the sale of a piece of land belonging to the corporation, in order that the proceeds might be applied to the erection of the first building. Rev. Messrs. John Carroll, James Pellenz, Robert Molyneux, John Ashton, and Leonard Neale were appointed Directors.

Shortly afterwards an appeal was issued, entitled "Proposals to Establish an Academy at Georgetown, Potowmack River, Maryland." In this circular it was stated that "Agreeably to the liberal Principle of our Constitution, the Seminary will be open to students of Every Religious Profession." In 1788 the erection of the first building was undertaken; yet 1789 is commonly considered the year of the foundation of the College, as the deed of the original piece of ground was dated January 23 in that year. Students were not received before 1791. Upon the reorganization of the Society of Jesus in Maryland, in 1805, the Georgetown College, as it had already begun to be called, was transferred to the Fathers of that Society, under whose control and direction the University still remains.

An act of Congress, dated March 1, 1815, reads as follows:

“AN ACT.

“CONCERNING THE COLLEGE OF GEORGETOWN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for such persons as now are, or from time to time may be, the President and Directors of the College of Georgetown, within the District of Columbia, to admit any of the students belonging to said College, or other persons meriting academical honors, to any degree in the faculties, arts, sciences, and liberal professions, to which persons are usually admitted in other Colleges or Universities of the United States; and to issue in an appropriate form the diplomas or certificates which may be requisite to testify to the admission to such degree.

“Speaker of the House of Representatives.

“JOHN GAILLARD,

“President pro tempore of the Senate.

“JAMES MADISON.”

Two years later the power of granting degrees, thus acquired, was first exercised.

In 1833 the Holy See empowered Georgetown College to confer, in its name, degrees in Philosophy and Theology. The text of the decree is as follows:

“DECRETUM SACRAE CONGREGATIONIS DE PROPAGANDA FIDE.

“Cum R. P. Joannes Roothaan Societatis Jesu Praepositus

Generalis supplicibus precibus ad Sanctissimum Dominum Nostrum Gregorium Div. Prov. PP. The next step in the development of the College was the erection and equipment of a complete Astronomical Observatory, in 1842.

In the following year the formal incorporation of the institution was effected by Congress in the following act:

“AN ACT

The School of Medicine was opened in 1851, and the School of Law in 1870. The Graduate School was in existence as early as 1856, in which year it comprised four resident graduates. It has continued with varying degrees of success since that time, and in the year 1890 assumed a marked development. The Dental School was opened in 1901.

LOCATION AND EXTRINSIC ADVANTAGES.

In its location at the Capital of the nation, Georgetown University enjoys advantages which can hardly be overestimated and which must necessarily increase with the growth of the country. Not only is the city, free as it is from noise, dirt and distracting surroundings of a great commercial center, most favorable to the tranquil and earnest pursuit of study, but it has an unparalleled educational equipment in the great scientific collections and libraries of the Government. By the authority of Congress all such facilities for research and illustration in the Governmental collections are made accessible to the scientific investigators and students of institutions of higher learning in the District of Columbia.

This provision applies to the Library of Congress, the National Museum, the Patent Office, the Bureau of Education, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Army Medical Museum, the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission, the Botanical Gardens, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Geological Survey, the Naval Observatory, several hospitals and other departments supplied with special libraries, laboratories and equipment for research. The administration of these bureaus brings together a large corps of scientific workers, and has already made Washington the great scientific as well as political center of the country. One consequence of these conditions is that the scientific societies are exceptionally numerous and flourishing. Even the presence of the National Government, with its executive, legislative and judicial machinery, is a most powerful agent of education; to be familiar as a matter of daily observation with the workings of the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Supreme Court and the Administration is a privilege and a training which cannot be too highly prized and which cannot be found elsewhere.

Of all these extrinsic facilities the various Faculties of Georgetown University make full use. and among her instructors are found not a few of the most eminent scholars and scientific men employed in the technical service of the Government. Her students receive the most cordial reception and careful assistance in their work in the various libraries, museums and scientific bureaus.

To the advantages enumerated above is added the atmosphere of study and research engendered by the presence of the many universities of which Washington is rapidly becoming the seat.

NEEDS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Without endowment, and deprived of all resources save the fees of the students, Georgetown College has grown from a struggling Academy to a University. Of late years she has been enabled to liquidate a considerable portion of the debt incurred, and to supply herself with halls and facilities long needed. But much remains to be done to enable Georgetown to continue the development which has been steadily going on for more than a century.

The Faculty, therefore, appeal earnestly to the friends of the College and to all who are interested in the advancement of education to assist them with funds for the erection of buildings and the endowment of the various departments of the University. Every alumnus and friend should incorporate in his will a bequest to the University of greater or less amount.

Chief among the wants of the College are the following:

1. A GYMNASIUM and NATATORIUM, which is a very pressing need.

2. A SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL, which would include the present classes of Natural Science and would add to them the technical courses long contemplated.

3. Subscriptions for the liquidation of the debt of the GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY FREE HOSPITAL, recently erected at the corner of Thirty-fifth and N Streets northwest, and which is conducted in connection with the Medical School; also funds for its extension and support.

4. The liquidation of the debt of the LAW SCHOOL and the foundation of professorships therein.

5. The Completion of the equipment of the OBSERVATORY and the foundation of a small working fund for the director.

6. Endowments for scholarships.

All bequests should be made to "The President and Directors of Georgetown College, in the District of Columbia."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The President and Directors hereby express their grateful acknowledgments to the following friends and benefactors, and to all others from whom donations or favors have been received during the year:

THE COLLEGE.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown College constitutes one of the three greater divisions of Georgetown University, viz: The College, the Medical School, and the Law School. The Collège, however, comprises within itself three distinct departments: The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory.

SITE AND SURROUNDINGS.

Georgetown College is situated on Georgetown Heights, two and one-half miles distant from the Capitol, overlooking the City of Washington, and the Potomac River, and commanding one of the noblest views in the world. The site is singularly healthful, and the climate exceptionally soft and mild.

The College buildings are seven in number, exclusive of the Observatory, and present an aggregate frontage of about eight hundred feet. They are surrounded by grounds comprising seventy-eight acres, a large part of which is occupied by the "Walks," whose sylvan beauty has made them famous.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

A considerable number of single rooms in the main building are rented to students of the Collegiate classes. Those whose means or inclinations do not lead them to take a private room, sleep in the dormitories and study in the general study hall. The dormitories are spacious and lofty, well ventilated and heated.

The double rooms of the North buildings are reserved for graduate students. None but graduates are allowed to board outside of the Collegiate premises, unless with immediate relatives.

GENERAL CONSPECTUS OF STUDIES.

The course of studies at Georgetown is carefully and logically graded throughout.

The aim of the course is to give the student a complete general and liberal education, which will train and develop all powers of the mind and will cultivate no one faculty to an exaggerated degree at the expense of the others. It is intended, too, to impart the broadest possible culture, together with accuracy in scholarship. To attain this end during the Undergraduate period the course is prescribed, and embraces the Latin and Greek Classics, English, in its various branches and aspects and correlated studies, such as Rhetoric, Literature, History, etc., one Modern Language besides English, Mathematics, Chemistry, the Elements of Geology, Astronomy, and Mechanics, and a very thorough training in Physics and Rational Philosophy.

The exacting and comprehensive nature of this course may fitly form a subject for comment. It is believed that its requirements are seldom equalled, even in the larger colleges of the country. As an indication of the labor demanded for the successful completion of the course, it may be stated that the amount of time spent in class by all the students varies from twenty-two to twenty-five hours weekly. To prepare for these classes and recitations, obligatory study for about twenty-three hours per week is exacted. Moreover, students who aim at a high standing spend much time in study in addition to that which is of obligation.

It is presumed that a man of fair capacity who has conscientiously followed this curriculum under capable professors will be possessed of trained and cultivated faculties, and will have a considerable amount of positive knowledge in every department of learning. He will be thus in touch and intelligent sympathy with progress in every field of intellectual activity, and be saved as far as possible from narrowness and superficiality. Such an education serves, it is believed, as the best foundation for special training in any branch which the student, with his mind now mature and disciplined, may decide to take up. Those who are unable or unwilling to undergo the amount of labor and application necessary to the mastery of the full curriculum will be obliged to go elsewhere.

METHOD OF TEACHING.

One of the most essential necessities for success in educational work is the possession of natural, thorough and effective methods of teaching. It is necessary, too, that these methods should be uniform in spirit throughout the school, employed equally by all the teachers under whom the student may come. In this respect Georgetown enjoys peculiar advantages. Her teaching is guided by the principles laid down in the famous Ratio Studiorum. This body of rules and suggestions has been elaborated by centuries of experience, and has been judged worthy of attentive study and hearty approbation by the greatest scholars. It is a noteworthy fact that many of the recently-devised methods of teaching, such as the Natural, the Inductive, and similar plans, are in reality mere repetitions of devices recommended long ago in the Ratio Studiorum and practiced with varying degrees of fidelity in the colleges of the Society of Jesus.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS.

Special attention is called to the facilities for scientific work offered by the College. The Physics Department is one of the largest and best appointed in the University. To its use an entire floor in the east wing of the south row is devoted. The lecture-room, enjoying a southern exposure, is particularly pleasant and lightsome, and has ample facilities for protection, both by light from the sun and the electric arc. The laboratory is well provided with instruments necessary for a careful training in physical experiment and measurements, especially in electricity, while the collection of instruments in the cabinet numbers several hundred and is carefully selected for thorough demonstration of the Principles of Physics. Among them are included such instruments as Melloni's apparatus for the study of heat radiation, complete sets of single and double refracting prisms, polariscopes, both refracting and reflecting; the most improved forms of galvanometers and rheostats. The department is provided with its own electrical plant, a 3 H. P. motor on a 500 volt circuit being used to drive an Edison bipolar generator of $1\frac{1}{2}$ kilowatts. In addition to this direct current, the lecture-room is also provided with a single-phase alternating current of 104 volts, so that electricity in its various forms is constantly before the student and subject to his command for experiments of the most practical character. The collection of Crookes's tubes is very complete, including some of the best forms for the generation of the Roentgen ray.

CHEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

The work in this department is of a very practical character in accordance with the almost unanimous views of modern educators. From the very beginning of his course, each student is obliged to perform personally the greater part of his experimenting, thus supplementing by scientific training the didactic instruction of his literary classes. To meet the demands of such a course, the College has provided three large, well-lighted laboratories in the main building. Each desk is fitted with drawers and locker, and independent drainage and water and gas supply, while all necessary chemicals and apparatus are at hand. The lecture-room is very well equipped with special instruments for purposes of demonstration. A private laboratory is available for advanced students pursuing quantitative analysis or organic chemistry. All the laboratories are open to members of the chemistry classes during hours of recreation.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY.

In this Department much progress has been made. A very fine ornithological collection has been acquired, and arranged according to the most modern system of classification. The shell collection is very satisfactory, and there is also a sufficiently large herbarium. Twelve good microscopes of the Bausch and Lomb type, are in service, and a series of biological charts by Leuckart and a fair variety of skeletons are in service. However, much is still needed, especially since the recent introduction of biological teaching into the Preparatory School in the way of anatomical and physiological models, botanical charts, and mounted preparations in general biology.

THE COLEMAN MUSEUM.

As early as the year 1840 the collections in Natural History, under the care of Fathers James Curley and T. Meredith Jenkins, had become sufficiently extensive to warrant the setting apart of a special room for their preservation and exhibition. Here they remained until 1889, when, prior to the Centenary Celebration, they were transferred to their present quarters, in the north portion of the main building. To this hall, by decree of the Faculty, was given the name of James V. Coleman, '69, in acknowledgment of his distinguished benefactions to the College. It is a spacious, lightsome room, fitted with numerous cases of various designs, all made of cherry wood, highly polished.

The various collections have been rearranged and displayed to the best advantage, and a complete catalogue of the Museum prepared.

Particular attention has been given to the mineral collection, which embraces specimens illustrating the entire field of Mineralogy, some of them being unique. Besides the exhibition series, numbering about three thousand specimens, there is a working collection carefully determined and arranged in drawers for the convenience of the classes. A feature of this department is the collection of minerals found in the District of Columbia by Mr. John W. Langdale, and presented by him to the Museum. The collection contains many species not previously known to exist in this locality. Mr. Langdale has also donated several hundred specimens to the general collection, and has always placed at the disposal of the Curator his rare skill as a mineralogist.

In Geology and Paleontology, likewise, there are excellent collections, the rocks and fossils, arranged stratigraphically, occupying an entire row of double cases. Notable among the latter is the unusual number of specimens of the remains of vertebrates, many collected in Alaska.

THE ART AND HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS.

The College possesses the nucleus of a valuable collection of works of art, and a number of Maryland Colonial relics. It has long been the wish of the Faculty to increase these collections and give them the prominence they deserve.

Among the paintings are several works of merit by ancient and modern masters, two mosaic pictures of great beauty and value, several busts in marble or bronze, an admirable portrait of the Founder of the College, Archbishop John Carroll, painted by Gilbert Stuart and presented by Judge P. Ord, etc. A full-length portrait of Mrs. Henry S. Lehr, painted by Müller Ury, adorns the first parlor.

Some time ago an effort was made to create a collection of portraits of distinguished alumni of the College. This has now assumed considerable proportions. The latest acquisition is a noble portrait of Mr. Frank Sappington, S. J.

Two gentlemen have lately enriched the College with a number of valuable engravings, prints and photographs, which have been employed to adorn the heretofore bare walls of the renovated parlors, the Seniors' Reading Room and the large Study Hall. The effects for art and refinement of these much needed decorations will doubtlessly be great and commensurate with the nobility of the subjects and the artistic merit and recognized beauty of the pictures.

George D. Mackay, Esq., of New York, presented forty-five engravings, mezzotints, coppers, photographs, etc., of unusually large size, collected abroad, and embracing signed Dorés, Martins, etc.

William Vincent McGrath, Jr., '87, decorated the Seniors' Library with a gallery of forty-two murillo-tints mounted in highly artistic frames.

THE BEAUCHAMP HUGHES ART CABINET.

The warm and enlightened interest felt for Georgetown University by a Southern lady has created a memorial room as unique in character as it is precious in its varied contents. Early in 1899 Mrs. Louise Beauchamp Hughes presented the University with the accumulation of her treasures in books, engravings, pictures, bronzes, china, bric-a-brac, fans and laces made during years of residence and visits in the principal countries of Europe. In order to arrange the articles, with the consent of the President and Directors, she caused the parlor of the North Building to be converted into an elegant apartment, at an expense of $1,500; and in order to maintain them in perpetuity she has left to the College a legacy of $10,000. The cabinet is thus singularly complete in its foundation. And whilst it will ever serve as a monument of what the talent and taste, the energy and perseverance of an American gentlewoman can accomplish, it is a highly prized as well as dainty addition to the museums of the University.

In the course of the year a catalogue of the exhibits will be prepared; meanwhile it will be satisfactory to note the following classes and some specimens:

THE LIBRARY.—In the Italian and German cities, Mrs. Beauchamp Hughes had splendid opportunities of purchasing rare, curious and unique books and engravings. Among these are Latin and German Bibles of extraordinary value for arrangement and copious illustration: Missals of various dates, both in manuscript and print; Neo Latinist and Italian authors in early editions, often with a profusion of engravings; volumes of congratulatory and eulogistic prose and verse customary in Rome, Venice, and Florence; specimens of the Bodin and Parma presses; a dainty compilation of Lord Byron's work when learning Armenian at San Lazzaro, and other rarities of the great polyglot printing house of this monastery; Fénélon's Télémaque in a German metrical version, published in three noble folios with engravings; an autograph album belonging to Miss Lolita Beauchamp Hughes, which, together with memories of Windsor Castle, contains the letters and signatures of many illustrious personages not often secured; in fine, published music, the composition of this young lady. Among the historical relics are locks of hair of Napoleon I. taken at St. Helena, and of Napoleon III., the Empress Eugénie and the Prince Imperial, all duly authenticated; also, a richly embossed belt buckle, sent as a present to Mrs. Martha Washington by Madame Lafayette.

THE ART COLLECTION.—All lovers of the beautiful in domestic and personal decoration who visit the Cabinet are astonished at the trophies of taste, industrious collection, and wealth displayed in the cases which inclose the articles of vertu, vases, porcelain, bric-a-brac, fans and laces. But prior and superior even to these are the pictures. In addition to the portraits of Mr. David Michael Hughes, one of America's great financiers, of his wife, Mrs. L. Hughes, née Beauchamp, and Miss Lolita, are: a finely executed copy of a Landseer, valued at several thousands, a portrait of Madame de Stael, and several rich flower pieces. Above all there is a unique portrait of Stradivari, the matchless maker of violins, captured by Mrs. Hughes as a grand prize at the very Cremona which he rendered famous. In the course of the year the Foundress covered every inch of the walls with exquisite genre pictures.

Many pieces of the china are not to be duplicated in this country, being special gifts to the American lady by exclusive princely manufacturers. Among the dainty and precious specimens in the case devoted to fans are many of historical and ancestral significance. Her long residence in the fashionable centers of Europe, together with the enjoyment of great social and financial opportunities, enabled Mrs. Hughes to form one of the largest and best collections of laces in this country, a permanent view of which she now affords to the admirers of this delicate production of feminine ingenuity and patience.

All these and many more objects of beauty and price, frequently enhanced by important historical features, have a fine and fitting receptacle in the room which is entirely furnished by the same liberal hand, and above which the officers of the University have placed a Roman tablet with the following inscription:

MVNIFICENTIA . CL . FEM
CIO . IO . CCC . IC

In accepting with gratitude this gift of Mrs. Beauchamp Hughes it is a pleasure to the University to feel that the tastes of the mothers and sisters of our students are now properly represented among the many scientific and artistic collections existing at Georgetown College. The Cabinet is of ready access from the quadrangle now so easily reached since the central porch is completed and the drive to the west of the North Building constructed. It may be visited on application to the proper officials.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

The liberal spirit of Mr. E. Francis Riggs, of Washington, has furnished the College collection of books with a fitting home, in the South Pavilion. A tablet erected by the Faculty attests the devotion with which the founder dedicated his gift to the memory of his father, the late Mr. George W. Riggs, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Laurason Riggs, once a student of the College.

The central reading room is flooded with light from the sides and ceiling, and since the introduction of electricity, is available at all hours. The alcoves are designed to afford shelf-room for 104,000 volumes, and are furnished with comfortable appliances for study and consultation.

The collection of books is estimated at more than 85,000. Among these are many rare, curious and unique works. One hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the fifteenth century, and others of later periods, together with a number of fac-similes, such as the Duke de Loubat's splendid reproductions in photochromography of ancient Aztec MSS., interest the visitor.

It will afford librarians and bibliophiles particular pleasure to find in the Riggs illustrations of many nice points of their specialty in editions, binding, bookplates, etc. Among the libraries incorporated in it is that of the Historian, John Gilmary Shea, LL. D. which is valuable for Americana and Indian languages.

The present year has witnessed if not quite the creation, certainly the vigorous development, of the Art Department in this library.

The deep obligations under which we are to our generous patrons and benefactors in this vital department of the University are, to some extent, expressed in the list of acknowledgments already given in this catalogue.

In the Graduates' Library equally rapid strides have been made toward perfecting a collection which will serve the Graduate Department of the University for reference and study in literature and philosophy.

THE HIRST LIBRARY.

The students of the senior division owe a debt of gratitude to Anthony A. Hirst, LL. D., of Philadelphia. He has completed at an expense of $4,200 the elegant bookstack of oak and iron in the hall of the south pavilion which serves them as their library. This contains about 5,000 volumes selected with the view of furnishing the student with the means of reference as well as entertainment. Combined with it is the reading-room in which newspapers from the chief cities of the country, together with the leading reviews and magazines are kept on file. Both are open to graduate and undergraduate students, subject to a small fee, necessary to defray ordinary expenses.

DISCIPLINE.

In Georgetown's system of education, one of the most important features is the formation and training of character. Her method is intended to develop and strengthen the character no less than the mind. Hence a greater degree of supervision is exercised over the students than is usual, at the present day, in many other large institutions; but the manner of doing this is such as to relieve the plan of its harsher features.

The College is considered as constituting a large family. The professors live with the students, mingle with them constantly, take part in their sports, direct their studies personally, and in every way assume the relation rather of older brothers than of taskmasters. This constant, familiar, personal communication on kindly terms between professor and student is a powerful means for the formation and uplifting of character.

As the student reaches the latter years of his college course, a somewhat larger degree of liberty is granted him; and when he enters the Graduate School or either of the professional departments, he is almost entirely freed from restrictions of every kind. He is then believed, by reason of the long course of judicious training which he has undergone in contact with cultivated and enlightened men, to have acquired habits of self-control, and to be prepared to comport himself anywhere and everywhere as a law-abiding, Christian gentleman.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Religious instruction is considered of the first importance in education.

Catechism forms one of the regular class recitations, and weekly catechetical lectures are attended by all. The prize for Christian Doctrine is awarded to the author of the best paper upon the matter of these lectures. Further instruction is given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the development of piety there are two Sodalties which meet weekly, and a fervent centre of the Apostleship of Prayer. All Catholic students are expected to approach the Sacraments at least once a month.

THE CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

In the College Quadrangle stands the Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, measuring 109 feet in extreme length, and varying in breadth from 40 to 60 feet. This structure is the generous gift of the wife of an alumnus, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren (Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr), née Elizabeth Drexel. The Chapel was consecrated on Friday, June 9th, 1893. Its seating capacity is about 500. The College thus possesses a spacious and beautiful structure, wherein the services of the Church may be performed with fitting solemnity and dignity.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term in 1902-1903 will begin September 11, 1902, and will end January 31, 1903. The second term will begin February 3, 1903, and end June 18, 1903.

The Christmas recess begins on December 20 and ends on January 2. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy week to the Wednesday after Easter.

No schools are taught on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

The classes begin at 8.45 A. M. and continue until 12. They are resumed at 1 and continue until 3 P. M., with five minutes interruption between classes.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

A general examination in all classes is held in writing toward the close of each term. Supplementary oral examinations are also exacted.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will rarely be made at any other time.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. Absentees are not allowed to make up marks. Students, therefore, who remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess cannot expect to hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards in the Undergraduate School, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of every month, when the marks and standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of every student is sent to his parents or guardian.

PRIZES OPEN FOR GENERAL COMPETITION.

These prizes are open to competition only to students of regular classes, whose record in class is over 60 marks monthly.

ACADEMIC COSTUME.

The University cap and gown are worn by the Senior Class of the College, and on the more solemn academic occasions their use is obligatory. Students of the Graduate School add the hood; and all graduates of the University are entitled to wear the complete academic costume, consisting of gown, cap, and hood. All members of the Faculty who hold a degree from another institution of learning may wear the hood proper to the corresponding degree in this University.

It is hoped that at all commencements and other gatherings of an academic character this right will be exercised by many or all of those possessed of it.

The hood indicates in every case the wearer's degree. The Bachelor's hood is ten inches shorter than the Master's, while the Doctor's hood, of the same length as the Master's, is attached to a panel of the same material as that of the hood itself. The department in which the degree was taken is pointed out by the color of the edging, white designating Arts and Sciences; blue, Philosophy; purple, Law; green, Medicine; scarlet, Theology, etc. The interior of the hood is lined with the College colors, blue and grey, in silk.

In the foregoing and all other particulars, the hood adopted by Georgetown follows the intercollegiate agreement.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

In the various departments of the Graduate School of Georgetown University provision is made for those college graduates who desire to continue their education in the Arts and Sciences. Some, in accordance with the best spirit of the age, seek these literary and scientific resources from a love of true learning, whilst others have in view a more complete preparation for the professions in which there is a call for general knowledge. It is the object of this vital part of the University to satisfy all such demands in the fullest and most liberal manner.

The courses, if pursued to the full extent recommended, are ample enough to tax the energies of any student. It is, therefore, more satisfactory to devote an entire year to them before entering upon the study of Law or Medicine, which the University also provides. Yet the minimum of work exacted is not too much to be profitably combined with the required attention to purely professional studies.

ADMISSION.

All graduates of Georgetown College, as also graduates of institutions of like standing, are admissible to these courses.

RESIDENCE.

Students devoting themselves to Graduate work only at the College may reside within the College walls or not, as may suit their convenience. Those attending the Schools of Law or Medicine are expected to live outside of the College; and if desired, good boarding places, where reasonable rates are charged, will be secured for them.

The classes in the Graduate courses are conducted in the halls at Georgetown, from 9 A. M. to 12 M. Those in Biology, partly at Georgetown on certain evenings, and partly in the Medical College in the afternoon.

TERM TIME.

The year opens usually on the first day of October, and closes with the annual commencement of the College in the latter part of June. It is divided into the fall, winter, and spring terms.

STUDIES.

A brief schedule of courses offered in the various branches will be found subjoined. Class work is carried on by lectures, directions in reading, and intimate personal and practical guidance on the part of the professor; and on the side of the student, by repetitions, review and practice papers, and the preparation of theses. The aim is to surround the Graduate student with every facility for advanced work, and every incitement to original investigation; in a word, to foster in him the spirit and habits of the scientist and scholar.

Every student must select at least three courses involving attendance upon lectures for eight hours a week. One of these courses must be Rational Philosophy. In the case of applicants for the degree of Master of Sciences, Rational Philosophy is optional, but must be replaced both as to study and examination by specialization in some branch of the Natural Sciences.

AIDS TO STUDY.

Graduate students have the privilege of consulting their professors outside the regular class hours. Under the direction of the respective lecturers, they have the use of the Riggs Memorial Library, the Cabinet of Physics, the Physical, Biological, and Chemical Laboratories of the College, and the Scientific collections of the Coleman Museum.

The Graduates' Library of Philosophy and Literature, a choice collection intended for the seminar and reference, and already comprising some thousands of volumes, is placed in the old library of the North Building, occupied by the resident Graduates, and is accessible at all times as a study. The Morris Literary and Debating Society is organized for Graduate, Law, and Medical Students.

DEGREES.

The Master's degree in Arts and the same degree in Science, will be given to those already holding the corresponding Bachelor's degree, on the completion of one year of residence, with attendance upon lectures, presentation of papers, and satisfactory examinations, as specified above.

For the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy, two years of graduate work, one of which at least must be spent in residence, will be required. The additional conditions are: an hour's oral examination and the writing of a satisfactory paper on a subject in Psychology or Sociology selected by the professor.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy will be conferred after three years of graduate work, two of which must be spent in residence. The candidate must pass a final examination, present a thesis bearing upon his special department of study, and convince the committee appointed by the Faculty of his distinguished merit to receive this degree.

The condition of residence may be waived in certain special cases where evidence of eminent fitness is submitted by the candidate. In such cases, candidates must file an application at the beginning of October of the academic year in which they wish to take the degree, specifying the degrees they hold, the line of work they intend to pursue, and the title and scope of the thesis they propose to submit. The special examination will be exacted in every case.

FEES AND EXPENSES.

The fee for tuition is $100 for the entire course of instruction. The charge for room, board and washing at the College is $400 for the year.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

The advancement of learning in this country creates a demand for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in course. In order to maintain this degree at its highest standard, in addition to other qualifications, a most sound and thorough training is necessary. For this, due provision has been made in our Graduate School. Under the direction of our Professors of Philosophy the whole field of philosophical teaching is surveyed, the history of the science fully treated, and the means of immediate preparation given for the final tests required for this degree.

Graduates desiring to fit themselves as professors and lecturers have every facility to perfect themselves in their chosen specialty. Besides a regular engagement in Universities, Colleges, Seminaries, High Schools, courses of lectures on literary and scientific subjects are growing in popularity in these institutions. Moreover, the development of University Extension, Summer Schools, Reading Circles, etc., brings with it opportunities for the promotion of true culture which the lecturer cannot afford to overlook.

Students for the Church can extend and complete the Philosophy they have begun in their last college year, and thus prepare the main requirements for entrance into Theology. This, together with Ecclesiastical History, in which the great questions under controversy will be treated, and courses in the theory and practice of Rhetoric and in Literature, will supply a year of useful and systematic work amidst surroundings to which they are already accustomed. Facility in the use of Latin can be acquired by conversation in groups formed for the purpose.

Those who aim at Journalism can lay a solid foundation in such courses as Philosophy, Ethics, Economics, History, Advanced Rhetoric, English and French or German Language and Literature. In addition to the required essays and dissertations in their departments, they may profitably secure for practice the Washington correspondence of some newspapers of the country.

BIOLOGY.

The importance of this subject in modern times as an element of culture and an adjunct to philosophical training is too plain to need demonstration. It is believed, therefore, that many graduates who are aiming at the higher degrees of Master of Arts or Doctor of Philosophy will desire to follow the courses of this department. Attention is called to the unusual advantages Georgetown possesses for this study, and which will be found on another page.

Moreover, for a thorough course of medicine, the study of Biology is an excellent preparation, and is fast becoming an essential prerequisite.

Detailed suggestions for the appropriate selection of courses by various classes of students will be found on another page.

The instruction in this department will be under the general direction of Sylvester Dwight Judd, Ph. D., while in the discussion of various groups of plants and animals, recourse will be had to specialists in the Government service, who have been engaged to give series of lectures in their respective fields. The international reputation of these men in their specialties is abundant guarantee of the elevated and thorough character of the courses.

No extra fee for these courses will be required of Graduate students in the Arts and Sciences, or of Medical students pursuing the regular four years' course in the University. Students in the Medical Preparatory and Special students will be charged a very moderate sum, according to the number of courses taken.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES.

COURSE 1.—GENERAL ZOOLOGY. October–June. Professor Stiles, assisted by Drs. Baker, Benedict, Howard, Judd, Merriam, Palmer, and Messrs, Simpson, Lucas, and others.

The lectures will be illustrated with charts and specimens.

The discussion of many of the groups will be given by specialists in those groups.

COURSE 2.—PRACTICAL BIOLOGY. Four hours per week. October–June. Professor Judd.

This course consists of laboratory work, supplemented by short lectures.

It will familiarize the student with typical specimens of the various groups of plants and animals; each example chosen will be studied from the standpoints of anatomy, physiology, development, and classification. Starting with the unicellular organisms (Amœba, Stentor, Bacteria, Yeast, Protococcus), the student will pass to an examination of the multicellular plants and animals. Microscopic studies and dissections will be made of several common animals, such as the liver-fluke, earthworm, crayfish, grasshopper, fish, frog, and rabbit. Some time will be devoted to studying the collections of birds and mammals in the Coleman Museum.

During the first half of the year special stress will be laid upon the zoölogical, during the latter half upon the botanical side of Biology. Systematic and medical botany will be pursued in the laboratory, while studies in plant ecology will be carried on in the field.

Arrangements have been made by which the following biological courses of the Medical Department may be anticipated—subject in every case to the approval of the Dean of the Graduate School—by students in the Biological Department. Certificates of examinations in these subjects will be accepted by the Medical Faculty, so that during their medical course the students may give more time to clinical and hospital and other work:

COURSE 3.—EMBRYOLOGY. One lecture per week. October–February. Professor Judd.

This course will consist of lectures and laboratory work.

COURSE 4.—ANIMALS PARASITES. Ten lectures. Professor Stiles.

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and by exhibition of specimens. Practical laboratory exercises in microscopic examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of fæces, for determining the presence of parasites, will supplement the lectures.

This course is required of the third and fourth years of the Medical Department. About half of the lectures are included in Course 1.

COURSE 5.—PHYSIOLOGY. Three times a week for two years. October to April. Prof. M. G. Motter.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

COURSE 6.—NORMAL HISTOLOGY. Fours hours per week. October–April. Prof. Hugh M. Smith, assisted by Drs. Blackburn and Clark.

Required of the first year of the Medical Department.

COURSE 8.—HUMAN ANATOMY. Two lectures per week for two years. October–April. Dr. Frank Baker.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

COURSE 9.—PRACTICAL ANATOMY. Daily. October–April. Dr. E. M. Reisinger, assisted by Dr. Durfee.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

COURSE 10.—BACTERIOLOGY. One lecture per week. October to April. Dr. Behrend.

THE OBSERVATORY.

THE STAFF.

REV. JOHN G. HAGEN, S. J.,
Director.

REV. RICHARD MARTIN, S. J.,
REV. EDMUND GOETZ, S. J.
Assistant Astronomers.

Rev. John T. Hedrick assumed the chair of mathematics and astronomy at Woodstock College in the fall of 1898, but he continues his co-operation with our Observatory as much as his other duties allow.

BUILDING AND EQUIPMENT.

With regard to the building and equipment the following description will be of interest to our friends. The Observatory stands on an eminence at a distance of about four hundred yards from the College. The main building is sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, and is divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a nine-inch photographic transit instrument, with collimators, by Saegmuller, of Washington. In the western room is mounted a transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long and has a four-and-one-half-inch object-glass. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, surrounded by a rotary dome eighteen feet in diameter. Here is erected the twelve-inch equatorial.

In the room below the dome is the library containing the observations and other publications of nearly all the observatories in the world.

Under the library is the clock room, with four pendulum clocks and two chronometers, a chronograph, and a switchboard from which the electrical connections with all the instruments are made. A special line connects the switchboard with the United States Naval Observatory.

All the instruments and rooms are furnished with electric light from the Potomac Electric Power Co. The electrical apparatus of the observatory is worked by a storage battery which is charged from the current of the same company by means of a dynamo and transformer. This new plant was set up in the basement of the observatory by Rev. Father Martin.

A separate dome, twelve feet in diameter, on the southwest brow of the hill, shelters the old equatorial, by Troughton & Simms, which has an aperture of nearly five inches.

An extension added to the eastern side of the main building contains an instrument for the determination of the variations of latitude: the photographic zenith telescope.

The nine-inch photographic transit instrument has been provided with a Reiffer clock in an air-tight case, the donation of the late Miss Catherine Bruce, and will be put in operation as soon as the Observatory receives the necessary assistance.

ATLAS OF VARIABLE STARS.

The twelve-inch equatorial has been devoted for the last ten years to the construction of an Atlas of the Variable Stars. This work is now complete in substance, and requires only occasional supplements to be kept up to date. Since this is the only Atlas for variable stars in existence, it has become indispensable in all observatories.

"Supplementary Notes" to the Atlas were published during the year, containing among other matter on Nova Persei specimen charts and catalogues of the late N. R. Pogson, which had been intended for a similar Atlas, but were never published.

SYNOPSIS OF HIGHER MATHEMATICS.

We may be allowed to mention, in connection with this publication, some others of a more mathematical character. Three volumes of the "Synopsis of Higher Mathematics" are nearly completed.

The plans for the edition of Leonard Euler's collected works, which were mentioned in last year's catalogue, have since taken a more definite shape. We hope to begin next year to erect to this great mathematician the monument which his own country and the Academies of Petersburg and Berlin have owed him for more than a century.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

We are pleased to mention several donations made lately to the Observatory. The principal benefaction came from the late Mrs. Annie Donahue, of San Francisco, Cal., in accordance with an agreement made with her two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, of San Francisco, and Miss Winfride Martin, of Baltimore, Md., according to which they were to unite in donating to the College Observatory an endowment fund of $25,000. Mrs. Donahue by her will, left to the Observatory a third part of that sum, amounting to $8,333.34, and her executors have paid it over to the College.

Another important donation came from Miss Catherine Wolfe Bruce, to assist in the publication of the Atlas Stellarum Variabilium. On the commendation of our work by Prof. Edward C. Pickering, Director of Harvard College Observatory, Miss Bruce placed at the disposal of the publisher first the sum of $1,750, and again the additional sum of $1,400, by which generous gifts she secured the publication against all chances for want of subscribers.

The warmest thanks of the Observatory are tendered to all the benefactors and donors.

The annual publications of all the observatories of the world have been received as in former years. Among these the international astrographic chart, the printing of which has been commenced lately, is forming the most valuable part.

CONFERENCE OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

A conference of this Society was organized among the students in the year 1889-90 under the title of the Conference of St. Francis de Sales, of Georgetown College; and on the 25th of January, 1892, it was formally aggregated to the Society as an Aspirant Conference. Its purpose is primarily not only the actual relief of the poor in the neighborhood of the College, but also the training of its members in the spirit and methods of this admirable organization. Yet the charitable work performed is by no means inconsiderable. During the past year a large sum of money and many articles of clothing were distributed. The members of the Conference have given active and regular assistance to the Mission established among the soldiers at Fort Myer, Va., teaching Sunday-school there, conducting the Choir, and in other ways aiding the Father in charge.

Being principally devoted to matters of local interest, it must rely for its patronage chiefly upon the students, the alumni and the friends of the several departments of the University. These and all former students are urged to give it substantial support.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION OR "THE YARD."

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged, but great care is taken that studies suffer no detriment from this cause,

As yet there is no adequate gymnasium for the students of the Collegiate Department. They have, however, a series of recreation rooms fitted up for use on the ground floor. This suite comprises a central hall, an apartment for billiard tables, a dressing room for athletic contestants, a baseball room, a bowling alley, rowing machines and a running track.

The baseball field, which was extended and graded some years ago at the cost of more than $3,000, is 525 feet in length and 425 feet in width. By the effort of Walter S. Martin, of California, who collected the funds from members of his own family, a running track, fifteen feet in width and more than a quarter of a mile in length, has been constructed about the outer edge of the field.

The Athletic Association, or "The Yard," comprises under one general direction all the organizations existing among the students for purposes of amusement and exercise, such as Baseball, Football, Track Athletics, Rowing, Glee Associations, Lawn Tennis, and Billiards. These associations, which previous to the year 1889 were independent of one another since that date have been regulated by the Yard Committee, under the direction of the Prefect of Discipline.

The Athletic Association has frequently received aid and counsel from the Alumni of the University; but seeing the need of closer relations between present and former students, it has organized an Advisory Board. This consists of seven members, viz., a representative of the College Faculty, three members of the Society of Alumni, and three students, one from each of the three departments, Collegiate, Medical and Law.

Officers: Rev. Thomas I. Cryan, S. J., Faculty Director; M. J. Thompson, Graduate Manager; Jos. T. Lynch, '02, Vice-President; Francis T. Kanaley, '02, Manager of Baseball; E. The bowling alley was built through the kindness of Mr. William A. Wimsatt, of this city. It has not as yet been put under the direction of the Executive Committee, but is managed by the Director of Athletics.

DEGREES.

The successful completion of the undergraduate course entitles a student to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. No other first degree is given in the college, those of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Philosophy having been abolished by action of the Faculty.

Degrees will not be given at any other time than the annual commencement in June.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Students may enter at any time during the session, and, on examination, will be assigned to the class for which their prior attainments have fitted them.

Satisfactory testimonials of good conduct will be required from those who come from other institutions.

Candidates for admission to advanced classes must pass a satisfactory examination upon all the subjects previously studied by the class which they propose to enter.

From certain preparatory schools of established reputation students are admitted to the Freshman class without examination, upon the principal's certificate that they have completed the required amount of work and are prepared to enter college.

In each case, however, a catalogue giving the course of studies required in his school, must accompany the principal's certificate. The Georgetown Preparatory School Catalogue may be had on application to the Prefect of Studies.

In all other cases for admission to this class, a successful examination is required in the following subjects, or their equivalent:

LATIN.—Grammar.—The entire Latin Grammar, including a knowledge of all regular syntactical constructions: Translation into Latin at sight of complex English sentences, entailing the application of rules for relative clauses, indirect discourse and conditional sentences.

Prosody.—All the rules as given in Casserly's Prosody or some equivalent work; application to hexameter verse; scansion of Ovid and Virgil. A simple exercise will be exacted in the rearrangement of broken verse.

Latin Composition.—Translation into Latin of easy continuous prose based upon Cæsar and Cicero. This requirement is of very especial importance, and great weight will be given to it in the examination. The use of Cicero's letters as well as his orations as models for the requirements of Latin idiom is strongly recommended.

Nepos.—Lives, to the end of the life of Alcibiades; also the life of Atticus.

Cæsar.—Commentaries, two books.

Ovid.—Metamorphoses, one thousand lines.

Cicero.—Selected letters, five hundred lines; orations. the four against Catiline.

Virgil.—Aeneid, three books.

GREEK.—Grammar.—Etymology complete (including all the irregular and defective forms); the rules for accents; the rules of syntax and their application; the Homeric dialect.

Greek Composition.—Translation into Greek of simple English sentences based upon Xenophon's Anabasis.

Xenophon.—Anabasis, Books I and II.

Lucian.—Six Dialogues.

Homer.—Iliad, Books I and II, or Odyssey, Books I II and III.

N. B.—In assigning the matter above, the purpose of the Faculty is not to insist on quantity or to recognize that the mere reading of a stated amount of assigned authors is sufficient preparation for college. In the discussion of the classic authors, both Greek and Latin, the candidate must be prepared to give a complete grammatical analysis of every word, phrase and sentence, and to point out exceptional idioms, and must be informed on the chief points of collateral erudition connected with the text.

ENGLISH.—Higher Grammar—The candidate must be prepared on the matter contained in Meiklejohn's "The English Language," or some equivalent work.

Composition.—A brief prose composition will be required evidencing some proficiency in narrative and critical writing. This exercise will be based upon books and authors assigned for study in the Georgetown Preparatory School. Questions will be asked as to the subject-matter, method of treatment, structure, and style of these books. Fair penmanship and accurate spelling will be considered as essential preliminary requirements.

The authors assigned for 1902-1903 will be: Shelley, Selected Poems, (No. 85, Maynard Series.) *Wordsworth, Selected Poems, (No. 90, Maynard Series.) De Quincy, Flight of a Tartar Tribe. *Macaulay, Essays on Johnson and on Addison. Milton, Paradise Lost, (two books.) *Shakespeare Macbeth. Burke on Conciliation. *Thackeray, Henry Esmond.

A careful study of the works marked thus * (subject-matter, form and structure) will be exacted; a general acquaintance with the other assigned books will be sufficient.

N. B.—The Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English for 1902-1903 will be accepted, as will any fair equivalent work in this department.

HISTORY.—The History of the Oriental Nations, Greece and Rome, as found in Myer's Ancient History, or some similar work; Modern General History, Fredet's or an equivalent; Johnston's United States, or an equivalent; Elements of Civics.

MATHEMATICS.—Algebra; Geometry, plane and solid. Wentworth's Complete Algebra, and Wentworth's Geometry, or works of equal grade.

SCIENCE.—A fair knowledge of Physical Geography, Elementary Physiology, Botany and Astronomy, as required in the Georgetown Preparatory School.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—One modern language other than the English is required, preferably French or German. The examination will embrace the elements of grammar, including the irregular verbs; translation into English at sight of simple prose; grammatical analysis.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

No student will be allowed to remain at the College during the summer vacation.

The introduction of intoxicating liquors, as well as of immoral books or papers, will render the offender liable to expulsion, as will any grave offence against morals or discipline.

BOARDERS.—Boarders are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission. Violation of this rule will render the offender liable to expulsion. Leave to visit the city will not be given without the written authorization of parents and even with such authorization it is intended that the permission should be given but rarely and for good reasons.

Students whose parents reside in the District will ordinarily be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of every month and remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of supervising all correspondence of students.

To avoid serious loss of time from study, the students are prohibited from receiving daily newspapers regularly as individual subscribers. The principal papers, however, as well as other periodicals, are kept on file in the reading room.

DAY SCHOLARS.—Day-scholars and half-boarders, while within the College walls, are subject to all the rules and regulations of boarders.

They are required to attend the mid-day studies at the College, and are expected to spend about three hours daily in study at home.

Punctual attendance at class is required; and no day-scholar, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Discipline.

Day-scholars are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders.

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 1902-1903.

The complete course of study in the Medical Department extends over four terms of eight months each. The next term will begin Monday, September 29, 1902, and end Saturday, May 30, 1903.

The demands of modern medical education are such that the Faculty has found it necessary to extend the hours of instruction so that more time may be given to practical work in laboratories and hospitals. The instruction will, therefore, begin in the morning and continue throughout the day. Students are required to devote their entire time to the study of medicine.

Special attention is called to the advantages of the method of teaching adopted in this school. It enables each student to come into more intimate relation with his teachers in laboratory and hospital work, and in connection with the system of recitations adopted makes instruction more directly personal and adapted to the special needs of the individual, and prepares graduates for the rigid examinations for admission into the Medical Corps of the Army, Navy and Marine Hospital Service. Of 20 applicants for the Army and Marine Hospital Service, since 1898, 19 passed and only one failed.

The building of this department is conveniently situated on H street, northwest, between Ninth and Tenth streets, near several of the principal railway lines. It contains spacious and well-ventilated lecture rooms, chemical, histological, bacteriological, and physiological laboratories, a convenient and well-lighted dissecting room, a library and reading room for the use of students. The laboratories are equipped with the latest and most approved instruments and appliances, including an ample number of microscopes of high power.

These will greatly enhance the facilities for instruction, and will enable every student to master more readily the technical skill needed in modern important methods of medical research. The Laboratory courses may be taken independently of the lectures.

Congress during its last session appropriated sufficient funds for the erection of a Laboratory in connection with the Marine Hospital Bureau for the investigation of infectious and contagious diseases and other matters pertaining to public health, and also enacted a law permitting the use of Government Laboratories for Post-graduate research work. Students may also be employed as Assistants during the vacation months in these Laboratories.

The great libraries and museums connected with the various Government institutions at Washington afford advantages to the student, that are unrivaled in America and are equal to those in most European capitals. These collections are for the most part freely open to the public, or can be consulted by students upon obtaining permission, readily granted to those who are pursuing special courses of study.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

In accordance with the regulations of the Association of American Medical Colleges, a preliminary examination is required as a condition for admission. It may be waived if an applicant can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, normal or high school, or State Examining Board.

The examination shall comprise the following subjects:

(a) A thorough knowledge of English grammar, composition and rhetoric. (b) Mathematics, including higher arithmetic, algebra through quadratics. (c) Latin, the equivalent of one year's study in a good high school, covering at least one book of Caesar's Commentaries or an equivalent thereof. (d) Elementary physics. (e) United States history.

Students conditioned in any of these branches will be allowed one year's time to meet the requirements.

Students who have attended one or more terms at any other medical college in good standing will be admitted to advanced standing upon passing the examination required of students for the stage at which they propose to enter. Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable medical colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher classes without further examination.

Persons not candidates for the degree M. D. may be admitted without examination as special students, and may attend any of the courses upon giving satisfactory evidence that they are qualified to intelligently avail themselves of the instruction.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the College Building on Monday, September 29, and Tuesday, September 30, 1902, at 2 P. M.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic and clinical lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting, laboratory work, and other practical manipulation. The students will be divided into four classes, called respectively, the First, Second, Third, and Fourth.

Class recitations will be conducted by members of the Faculty and by instructors.

A record of these recitations will be kept, and the average will be credited to each student in summing up after the final examinations at the end of the session.

The following is a sketch of the several courses of instruction:

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

The didactic instruction is illustrated by demonstrations on the living subject, by dissections, models, and several hundred plates and lantern slides prepared especially for the course. The students are thoroughly examined orally from week to week as the course progresses in order to insure that they understand the work and are making satisfactory progress. Written examinations are held frequently. Especial attention is paid to the practical bearings of the science and its application to surgery and pathology.

OSTEOLOGY.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.,

Assistant to the Professor of Anatomy

This course includes a careful study of every bone in the human body, the pupil being required to point out and designate the important and technical features of each upon an actual specimen. For the study of the skeleton it is very much like what the study of the softer parts is in the dissecting room, and is an indispensable preliminary to that work.

PRACTICAL ANATOMY.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.,

Demonstrator.

The dissecting room will be open daily for students, after October 15th, and the Demonstrator or his Assistants will be present. During the session there will be given special demonstrations of the brain, of the thoracic and the abdominal viscera, and also of other difficult or obscure regions of the body.

During each session every student of the First and Second Classes will be required to dissect all regions of the human body.

HISTOLOGY.

J. A. CLARK, M. D.

In this course, which embraces one full session, students of the first year are taught the theory and practical use of the microscope and the elements of microscopic technique, in addition to the minute anatomy of organs and tissues. Instruction is given in the well-equipped laboratory, and the course is chiefly devoted to practical laboratory work. It is the aim to thoroughly cover the subject of animal histology, the human tissues being compared with those of the lower vertebrates. The application of histology to physiology and pathology is duly considered. Students are required to prepare organs for examination, beginning with fresh specimens and ending with mounted sections, and to make drawings and descriptive notes of the microscopical appearances.

EMBRYOLOGY.

SYLVESTER D. JUDD, B. S., PH. D.

This course will consist of lectures and laboratory work. It will begin with spermatogenesis and ovogenesis, and then taking up the development after fertilization will proceed to the formation of the rudiment of the embryo, and conclude with a consideration of organology.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROFESSOR MURRAY GALT MOTTER, B. S., A. M., M. D.

This course will consist of lectures upon General and Special Physiology, together with recitations, frequent examinations, and, in so far as possible, practical demonstrations.

While a knowledge of the facts of Physiology is essential, greater stress will be laid upon the underlying, fundamental principles, and their application to the problems of Pathology, Physical Diagnosis, and practical Medicine and Surgery.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. G. LLOYD MAGRUDER, A. M., M. D.,

One of the Consulting Physicians to Providence Hospital, and the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Instruction in this Department will extend over the first three years of the medical course.

Students of the second and third year will be instructed in the physiological action and therapeutical use of drugs, and in prescription writing.

MATERIA MEDICA.

WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

Under this course students of the first year will be taught the appearance and physical properties of the crude drugs and the preparations derived therefrom, illustrated by actual specimens. The elements of pharmacology will also be taught, including the compounding of medicinal substances and preparations, incompatibilities, weights and measures, doses, etc.

CHEMISTRY AND TOXICOLOGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M.

It is the aim in this department to give a practical course in chemistry and toxicology as related to the subject of medicine.

As a foundation for this course special attention is given to the subject of elementary chemistry, including thorough instruction in the laws governing chemical combination and molecular changes. This is supplemented by laboratory work, illustrating the subjects previously considered, and setting forth the fundamental principles of chemical analysis.

In organic chemistry the instruction is given by means of lectures and laboratory work. This course includes an examination of the more important hydrocarbons and their derivatives, supplemented by lectures upon the theoretical and practical methods of manufacture, their character and uses, especially as they are related to medicine. Under the head of organic chemistry, that department of science known as sanitary chemistry also receives attention. This includes the practical examination of the various forms of matter which affect, either directly or indirectly, the general health. It is intended in this course that such a knowledge shall be imparted to the students as may enable them to differentiate, between wholesome and unwholesome articles of food and drink. The various food products, particularly milk, cheese, bread and meats, will receive careful consideration. The examination of air in rooms, the velocity, condition and quality of air currents, will be considered under the head of ventilation. The organic analysis of water and its various forms of pollution, together with the examination of soils, will also receive attention.

Under the head of toxicology the general subject of poisons, including their effects, modes of action, subsequent dispositions and antagonism is briefly considered, while the evidence of poisoning as furnished by chemical analysis is considered more in detail.

PHYSICS.

TRUMAN ABBE, A. B., M. D.

A special course in physics as applied to medicine and surgery will be given during the first year. It will be illustrated by oral instruction and by laboratory experiments.

GENERAL PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D.

The course in pathology will extend over two years. The instruction will consist of lectures, demonstrations, class recitations and laboratory work, and will embrace general and special pathology, including bacteriology and clinical pathology.

The lectures and class recitations are brought in close relation with the laboratory exercises. During the first-half year general considerations of disease, including etiology and immunity, are taken up, and during the same period the laboratory work in bacteriology is made to explain and illustrate the didactic work as far as possible.

The second-half year is devoted to the study of the anatomical changes in disease, including degeneration, regeneration, inflammation, tumor formation, etc. The course in pathological histology is so arranged as to keep pace with the class work; for this purpose a complete series of typical pathological specimens will be presented for individual study.

The course in clinical pathology contemplates the examination of blood, urine, fæces, gastric contents, sputum, pathological exudates, etc., with especial reference to clinical medicine and surgery. The great value of laboratory methods as aids in the diagnosis of disease will be emphasized.

SPECIAL PATHOLOGY AND MORBID ANATOMY.

PROF. I. W. BLACKBURN, M. D.

Pathologist to the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will be devoted to the pathology and morbid anatomy of the individual organs, tissues, and fluids; to consideration of tumors and morbid growths in general and in connection with special pathology to the pathology of mental diseases, and the methods of conducting post-mortem examinations for medico-scientific and medico-legal purposes.

SURGICAL PATHOLOGY AND MILITARY SURGERY.

PROF. W. C. BORDEN, M. D., F. R. M. S.,

Major and Surgeon Medical Department, U. S. A., Commanding General Hospital Washington Barracks, D. C.

This course consists of an annual course of didactic lectures freely illustrated by plates, drawings and specimens adapted to the purpose of teaching modern views and progress in surgical pathology and therapeutics, and the principles of military surgery as applied to the management of gunshot wounds in civil practice.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF MEDICINE AND DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

PROF. SAMUEL S. ADAMS, A. M., M. D.,

Attending Physician to Georgetown University and Children's Hospitals.

An effort will be made to give in the course of two sessions as complete a description as possible of the diseases usually considered as belonging to the province of this chair, and in such a manner as to give the student a clear conception of the methods of discrimination and management of the various diseased conditions. This teaching, together with the supplementary advantages offered by the various clinics to which the student will have access, will, it is believed, afford him an opportunity of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this subject.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF SURGERY.

PROF. GEORGE TULLY VAUGHAN, M. D.

One of the Attending Surgeons at the Emergency Hospital and Chief Surgeon Georgetown University Hospital.

This course in surgery extends over two years. Instruction is given by didactic lectures, recitations, and demonstrations at clinics which are held at the various hospitals and dispensaries, which afford material in abundance.

The Third Class is instructed in the practical use and application of bandages, fracture dressings, and other surgical apparatus. The use of all kinds of surgical instruments is also demonstrated on the living subject or on the cadaver.

Members of the Fourth Class are instructed in orthopædic and genito-urinary surgery by lectures and clinical demonstrations, and are given a course in operative surgery on the cadaver, in which nearly every operation, minor and capital, classic and modern, is done by the student under the direction of the professor and his assistants.

OBSTETRICS.

PROF. JOHN F. MORAN, A. B., M. D.,

Obstetrician, Georgetown University and Columbia Hospitals.

Obstetrics will be taught didactically, and, as far as practicable, instruction will be given at the bedside. The entire course will be graded, and will consist of classified lectures, comprising the whole subject, of recitations and demonstrations upon charts and plates, and of operations performed upon the manikin. During the past session each member of the senior class attended three or more cases of midwifery, of which he was required to keep records and present written reports. In future, every facility will be given to obtain experience in the practical workings of this department, by means of bedside instruction.

The importance of exercising strict supervision over the period of pregnancy will be dwelt upon, and attention given to the pathological changes which may occur during gestation, labor, and the puerperal state.

The great value of antiseptic principles as applied to obstetric practice will also be urged.

An operative course on the Budin-Pinard manikin will be given. Instruction will be given in abdominal palpation, in digital examination, and the methods of diagnosing presentations and positions of the fetus.

An opportunity is given to each student to perform the various obstetric operations, such as the application of the forceps, version, etc.

GYNECOLOGY AND ABDOMINAL SURGERY.

PROF. JOSEPH TABER JOHNSON, A. M., PH. D., M. D.,

One of the Consulting Physicians to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, Consulting Gynecologist to the Woman's Dispensary, Surgeon in Charge of his own Hospital for Women, and of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery in the Georgetown University Hospital.

Modern gynecology will be taught in didactic lectures, freely illustrated by plates and blackboard drawings, recitations, and also in small classes at private operations, where manipulations and operative work will be carefully explained and demonstrated. Abdominal surgery will receive especial attention.

Advanced students will be given an opportunity to witness the preparations for aseptic operations, and to assist in their performance when practicable.

OPHTHALMOLOGY AND OTOTOLOGY.

PROF. SWAN M. BURNETT, PH. D., M. D.,

Ophthalmologist and Otologist to Georgetown University, Providence and Children's Hospitals, and to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

The course begins with lectures on the anatomy of the eye and ear illustrated by models, charts, and specimens under the microscope, followed by an explanation of the fundamental principles of physiological optics and acoustics and the proper methods of examining the eye and ear. The lectures are supplemented by quizzes and reviews. The lectures on the diseases of the eye and ear are wholly clinical, illustrative cases, being taken from Dr. Burnett's extensive service at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and at Children's, Providence, and the University Hospitals. The class is divided into small sections in order that the clinical teaching shall be as nearly personal as possible. More than twelve hundred new cases of eye and ear diseases are treated annually at the Central Dispensary alone. Every important operation on the eye is performed in the presence of each section.

Dr. C. R. Dufour, Demonstrator of Ophthalmology and Otology, gives clinical demonstrations twice a week at the Eastern Dispensary and University Hospital.

PHYSICAL DIAGNOSIS, LARYNGOLOGY, AND RHINOLOGY.

PROF. T. MORRIS MURRAY, M. D.,

Director of the Throat and Chest Clinic Georgetown University Hospital and at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

In addition to the didactic lectures on the principles of physical diagnosis and laryngology at the college there will be demonstrations in these branches to the students at Dr. Murray's very large clinic for diseases of the throat and chest at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital. The class will be divided into sections, each member of which will make examinations under the personal supervision of Dr. Murray; thus they will be made familiar with one of the most important branches of medical practice.

HYGIENE.

PROF. GEORGE M. KOBER, M. D.

The course on hygiene will extend over two years and will include lectures and recitations on sunlight, air, climate, and meteorology; water, ice, artificial carbonated waters, and soils in relation to health and disease; food, beverages, and condiments, morbid and infected food products; the skin, bath, and clothing; exercise, rest, sleep, beds, and bedding; private and public habitations, including drainage, ventilation, warming, and lighting, with practical demonstrations of sanitary appliances at the Museum of Hygiene.

STATE MEDICINE.

PROF. W. C. WOODWARD, M. D., LL. M.

Health Officer District of Columbia.

The course on State Medicine will consist of lectures and of such demonstrations as may be practicable upon the relation of the medical practitioner to Government, and of the application of medical science to the purposes of the Government for the protection of public health, and for the determination of such medical problems as come before courts of law. Attendance will be obligatory upon students in their fourth year.

MEDICAL ZOOLOGY.

PROF. CH. WARDELL STILES, A. M., PH. D.,

Zoologist United States Bureau of Animal Industry, Honorary Custodian of the Helminthological Collection, United States National Museum, Correspondant Etranger de l'Academie de Medecine (Paris).

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by crayon sketches, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and exhibitions of specimens. The lectures will be supplemented by practical laboratory exercises in microscopical examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of fæces, for determining the presence of parasites. An opportunity to carry on original investigation in Medical Zoology, under the direct supervision of Dr. Stiles, will be offered to graduates or to advanced students who may desire to pay special attention to this branch.

DERMATOLOGY.

PROF. J. C. MCGUIRE, A. M., M. D.,

Dermatologist to Georgetown University Hospital.

The preliminary course will include a review of the history of dermatology, the minute anatomy of the skin, general pathology, etiology, and diagnosis of cutaneous affections, followed by lectures upon individual diseases illustrated by plates. A clinical course will be given to advanced students, as it is only at the bedside that a practical knowledge of this important branch of medicine can be obtained.

MENTAL AND NERVOUS DISEASES.PROF. A. B. RICHARDSON, M. D.,

Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will consist of twelve clinical lectures at the Government Hospital for the Insane. Members of the Fourth Class only will be admitted to them. Students will have opportunity to visit the wards of the Hospital, and each lecture will be illustrated by numerous cases, giving in great variety all the forms of insanity which are usually seen in the practice of the general practitioners in medicine.

DISEASES OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND ELECTROTHERAPEUTICS.PROF. D. PERCY HICKLING, M. D.,

Visiting Physician in charge Washington Asylum Hospital.

This course will embrace those diseases of the general nervous system which are commonly met with in practice, special attention being given to their diagnosis and treatment.

The course on Electro-Therapeutics will include a brief outline of Electro-Physics and Electro-Physiology with practical illustrations of the use of the galvanic, faradic and static currents and X-Ray methods with a discussion of the medical and surgical conditions in which this form of treatment may be used. The lectures will be amply illustrated with batteries, electrodes, rheostats and other electrical appliances.

CLINICAL INSTRUCTION AND ADVANTAGES.GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL.Corner Thirty-fifth and N Streets N. W.*

Attendance upon clinical instruction is obligatory for students of the third and fourth years.

The Hospital and Dispensary are located in close proximity to the College grounds and accessible by three of the principal electric car lines in the city. This institution is in every sense a modern College hospital, wholly under the control of the School of Medicine, and affords ample and excellent facilities for illustrating by clinical teaching and ward classes the didactic instruction given in the various practical branches of the school. Owing to the favorable location of the Hospital, the Emergency Department enjoys an unusual field of activity, a matter of great importance to the students, as they receive special training in the effective management of emergency cases. Clinics will be given by the following professors of this school and by other members of the Hospital and Dispensary staff.

Surgical.—Dr. Vaughan.

Medical.—Dr. Adams.

Gynecological.—Dr. Johnson.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear.—Drs. Burnett and Dufour.

Diseases of the Throat, Chest and Nose.—Dr. Murray.

Dermatology.—Dr. McGuire.

PROVIDENCE HOSPITAL,

Capitol Hill, corner Second and D Streets S. E.

This large general hospital, situated in an easily accessible part of the city, is supported in part by the General Government. It contains over three hundred beds. The medical and surgical wards are usually well filled with interesting cases. In the new surgical amphitheatre, one of the finest in the country, every provision has been made to fully carry out antiseptic surgery. Accommodations have been provided for over 150 students. Regular Clinics are given by the following Professors.

Surgical.—Drs. Bayne, Crook, and Mallan.

Diseases of the Eye and Ear.—Dr. Burnett.

Clinical Medicine.—Dr. Vincent.

Gynecological.—Dr. Cuthbert.

Drs. Magruder and Kober are on the Consulting Staff.

An annual fee of $5, covering all the clinics for the year, is charged by the hospital authorities.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL,

W Street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth Streets N. W.

Students may here observe the diseases, injuries, and deformities incident to infancy and childhood, together with the treatment appropriate therefor. Every facility will be given to thoroughly observe and comprehend the cases admitted to its wards. The out-patient department or dispensary is open every week day from 2:30 to 4:30 P. M. It is divided into medical and surgical services, and a service for diseases of the eye and ear. All these are free of access for medical students.

Drs. Burnett and Adams who are on the Staff will give clinical instruction at this hospital. Drs. Johnson and Kober are on the Consulting Staff.

CENTRAL DISPENSARY AND EMERGENCY HOSPITAL,

Fifteenth Street and Ohio Avenue N. W.

During the last year over 15,000 patients were treated here, and over 1200 surgical operations performed, many of capital importance. Unusual opportunities are afforded for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician. As a large proportion of the serious cases of accidents that occur in the city are first brought to the hospital because of its central location, students become rapidly trained in the effective treatment of injuries demanding prompt assistance, and of that class of cases likely to be of the most importance to the young practitioner. Students are admitted to the services. The new building just completed offers greatly improved facilities for clinical instruction, and the ambulance service and casualty wards will afford special advantages for studying traumatic and operative surgery.

The Lionel Laboratory, established in connection with the hospital, affords a fine opportunity for the study of practical bacteriology, pathology and Röntgen ray work in association with surgery and medicine. Dr. Wallace Johnson is in charge of pathology in this laboratory. Doctors Johnson, Magruder and Kober are on the Consulting Board.

Regular Clinics are given by the following Professors of this school and other members of the staff.

Surgical.—Dr. Vaughan.

Diseases of the Ear and Eye.—Dr. Burnett.

Physical Diagnosis and Diseases of the Chest, Throat and Nose.—Dr. Murray.

GARFIELD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL,
Florida Avenue and Tenth Street N. W.

This Hospital also affords excellent facilities for clinical teaching, being splendidly equipped with all modern appliances. Regular clinics are given.

Medical.—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

Obstetrical and Gynecological.—Dr. H. D. Fry.

In all of the above Hospitals the positions of Resident and Assistant Resident Physician are open to competitive examination to graduates of this School.

In addition to the foregoing, clinics will be given by

Dr. A. B. Richardson; Mental and Nervous Diseases at Government Hospital for Insane.

Dr. I. S. Stone, Gynecological, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. Jno. F. Moran Obstetrical, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. Wm. C. Borden, Surgical, U. S. General Hospital, Washington Barracks.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Medical and Surgical, Washington Asylum Hospital.

Dr. Llewellyn Eliot, Medical.

EXAMINATIONS.

The standing of a student in any branch will be determined by combining the record of his recitations, his examinations (both written and oral), and his laboratory and clinical work.

At the end of each session examinations will be held as follows:

The First Class upon anatomy, osteology, histology, embryology, chemistry, physics and materia medica.

The Second Class upon anatomy, physiology, chemistry, urinalysis, therapeutics, bacteriology, and toxicology.

The Third Class upon physiology, therapeutics, the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, general pathology, special pathology and morbid anatomy, surgical pathology, medical zoology and hygiene.

The Fourth Class upon the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, laryngology and physical diagnosis, ophthalmology and otology, hygiene, state medicine, mental diseases, medical zoology, dermatology, and electro-therapeutics, special pathology and morbid anatomy, surgical pathology and military surgery.

A second examination for those who have been found deficient in any of the work of the first three years will be held at the opening of the following session.

Students of the first year will not be permitted to advance to the second unless all deficiencies in their entrance examination shall be made up and unless their standing shall be satisfactory in five of the branches of that year. They must make good all their deficiencies of the first year before being admitted to the examinations held at the end of the second year.

Students of the second year will not be permitted to advance to the third unless their standing shall be satisfactory in the branches of the first year and the branches of anatomy, chemistry, physiology, and therapeutics of the second year. All deficiencies must be made up before the student will be admitted to the examinations held at the end of the third year.

Students of the third year will not be permitted to advance to the fourth unless their standing shall be satisfactory in the branches of the second year and in the branches of physiology, therapeutics, practice, pathology, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, and hygiene of the third year. All deficiencies must be made up before the student will be admitted to the examinations held at the end of the fourth year.

Students of the fourth year will not be permitted to graduate unless their standing is satisfactory in the following branches, viz., practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, ophthalmology, otology, laryngology and physical diagnosis, hygiene and state medicine.

Students failing to comply with the foregoing requirements will have to repeat the yearly course for which the examination has been held.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The Dental Department conforms to the rules and regulations of the National Association of Dental Faculties as well as to those of the National Association of Dental Examiners. In accordance with these regulations, a preliminary examination, equivalent to a certificate of entrance into the third year of a high school, is required as a condition of admission. This will not be required of an applicant who can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, high school, or State examining board.

Graduates in medicine are eligible for admission to the second class, and are excused from examination in the studies pertaining to the medical course finally passed in recognized institutions.

Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable dental colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher class without further examination.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the college building on the Monday preceding the opening of the session.

Students applying for admission later than ten days after the opening day of the session cannot be credited with a full course unless they have been prevented by sickness, which must be vouched for by the certificate of a reputable practicing physician. In that case the date of admission shall not be later than twenty days from the opening day.

Students must continue in attendance until the close of the session in order to obtain credit for a full term.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting and laboratory work, and clinical instruction. The Dental Laboratory is fully equipped with electrical lathes, furnaces, rolling mill, vulcanizers, celluloid apparatus, lockers, etc. Here the student receives his first instruction. Every process of value known to mechanical dentistry is taught in this department.

Demonstration by the instructors begins with taking impressions of the mouth by the use of the several materials employed for the purpose. The instruction, in its progress, includes consideration of the construction of artificial dentures and obturators in all their wide variety.

THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR INFIRMARY consists of large operating-rooms unequaled in point of lighting, heating, and conveniences. They are furnished with all the requirements of such apartments. The chairs are so arranged as to command the best light. There are separate rooms for the administration of anesthetics, for the extraction of teeth; also one for taking impressions, articulations, and doing work requiring the use of plaster or wax. The preparation and administration of sulphuric ether and nitrous oxide during the session familiarizes students with these valuable agents.

The infirmary is under the immediate and continuous direction of a corps of competent demonstrators, who are always present to instruct and assist the students in their work. In this department the student is taught the art of operative dentistry. The press of patients is very great, and the opportunities for practice unequaled. The student not only witnesses every kind of dental manipulation as practiced by the experienced, but is himself taught to accomplish all that pertains to the daily duties of a dental surgeon by actual practice.

This intimate union of theoretical and practical instruction will be insisted on during the entire session, and, indeed, is considered as the only thing essential to becoming a competent dental practitioner.

Each student is expected to provide his own instruments—a list of which may be obtained on application to the demonstrator in charge—with the exception of forceps, lathes, and vulcanizers. All expenses attending operations upon college patients are borne by the institution.

The operating-rooms of the college are open for instruction the entire year, and students are obliged to attend regularly each day during the session.

CURRICULUM.

The instruction embraces a graded course of three years, each course followed by examinations thereon.

Punctual attendance upon the lectures and other exercises is required of all students. The Faculty reserves the right to exclude from examinations, either in course or final, any student who has been habitually absent from lectures or other exercises.

COURSE OF STUDY.

ORAL PROSTHESIS.

PROF. SHELDON G. DAVIS, D. D. S.

The instruction in this department is designed to impart a knowledge of all that pertains to the construction and application of artificial dentures and other oral appliances.

The more important subjects considered are: the preparation and treatment of the mouth for artificial dentures, the taking of impressions, a system of perfect occlusions, the methods of constructing the different bases used for dentures, and the construction and application of obturators.

Esthetic or artistic dentistry is systematically taught and enforced. In this it is shown how dentistry may be employed for improving natural deformities and for restoring the contours of the face.

A special feature of the teaching in this department will be the exhaustive study of Crown and Bridge work. Students will be thoroughly grounded in the principles of a safe and conservative practice, so that they may clearly appreciate the indications for Crown and Bridge work. This will be accomplished by both didactic and clinical instruction, as well as special demonstrations in difficult cases.

OPERATIVE DENTISTRY.

PROF. A. W. SWEENEY, D. D. S.

The lectures from the chair of operative dentistry present the means and methods in use for the preservation of the natural teeth, together with the principles which form the basis of practice, including a description of instruments and their uses, also appliances and materials used in operating; the treatment and preparation of cavities; the methods of filling with various forms of gold and plastic materials. A special feature of instruction from this chair will be practical demonstrations in the mouth, in the infirmary, before the entire class.

ORAL SURGERY.

PROF. JESSE RAMSBURGH, A. M., M. D.

Oral surgery is a specialty which is a distinct outgrowth from dentistry. As the work of the dentist came to include operations upon the surrounding tissues, as well as upon the teeth themselves, the adoption of surgical methods and more thorough training in the principles and practice of surgery became necessary. The addition of instruction in this branch to the dental curriculum includes thorough instruction in the most advanced methods of operative technique, including the use of the surgical engine, surgical anesthesia, asepsis, and antisepsis, and after-treatment of the case.

The instruction is both didactic and clinical, and students are encouraged to study and treat personally cases under the supervision of the Professor of Oral Surgery and his assistants.

OPERATIVE TECHNICS AND ORTHODONTIA.

PROF. W. N. COGAN, D. D. S.

This course, while of importance to all new students, possesses especial value to such as have not had the advantage of office pupilage and laboratory work before entering college. It combines the features of manual training and exact observation, enabling the student to become familiar with the forms and tissues of the teeth, and to acquire a certain dexterity in the use of instruments before operating upon the human subject.

The treatment of irregularities of the dental arch requires great skill and judgment. Lectures upon this subject will be thoroughly practical, and the student will be taught the most approved and scientific methods of correcting these deformities. This course of teaching will be illustrated by practical cases.

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, M. D., PH. D.

General anatomy will be thoroughly taught by this chair in the most careful manner. Models, plates, and the cadaver are abundantly supplied for the proper illustration of this subject. Special attention will be given to the descriptive anatomy of the head, face, neck, and oral cavity.

For Histology and Osteology see page 59.

The demonstrator of practical anatomy will have charge of the class in the dissecting-room, where dissecting material will be supplied in abundance.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROF. MURRAY GALT MOTTER, B. S., A. M., M. D.

One of the features of the progress and development of modern Dentistry is its closer association with the wider field of General Medicine, through recognition of the fact that the foundations of each special branch are common to all.

The dental practitioner of to-day, therefore, must acquire a fuller knowledge of the whole organism, in order that he may, the more intelligently, deal with that part of it which is his more immediate province. To this end, the student will find, in this course, especial emphasis laid upon the fundamental principles of Physiology, while their practical application will be pointed out in lectures, recitations and, where possible, practical demonstrations.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.

PROF. G. LLOYD MAGRUDER, A. M., M. D.

A complete course of materia medica and general therapeutics will be given by this chair, while special attention will be called to the nature and therapeutic uses of those drugs required in dentistry. Students will be given opportunities to become personally familiar with the physical properties of drugs, the compounding of prescriptions, and the methods of applying topical remedies.

In this course the student will be made familiar with the different agents used to accomplish anesthesia, the contraindications for their use, and practical demonstration in the infirmary of the different methods employed for the administration of the various anesthetics.

CHEMISTRY AND METALLURGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M.

It will be the aim of the professor of this chair to give an accurate knowledge of the principles of the science, dwelling especially upon those points which are of peculiar interest to the dental student. Careful attention will be paid to the chemistry of metals and all the materials used in dentistry; also to the vital chemistry of anesthetics. The special chemistry of the mouth, the stomach, and intestinal tube will be fully treated.

PHYSICS.

TRUMAN ABBE, A. B., M. D.

A course on the elements of physics, with special reference to their application to medicine and dentistry, will be given during the first year.

PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, M. D.

The study of these important subjects is obligatory. This has been made necessary on account of their close relationship to dental pathology and therapeutics. The instructions are principally practical and embrace full laboratory teaching of the most important subjects of these studies.

DENTAL HISTOLOGY AND PATHOLOGY.

PROF. F. H. SHULTZ, D. D. S.

The lectures on Dental Pathology include such portions of general pathology as are of special interest to the dental student.

A detailed consideration is given of all the diseases of the teeth and surrounding parts; normal and abnormal character of oral secretions; dentition and its pathological results. The treatment necessary under each head is minutely detailed.

The lectures on Histology include the comparative anatomy and the development of the teeth, and their component tissues and functions of dental organs.

GRADUATION.

At the close of the third year a student who has passed all examinations satisfactorily receives the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery (D. D. S.) on the following conditions:

Candidate must be of age and of good moral character.

Candidate must have passed a satisfactory examination in all the branches of the curriculum; must have attended the practical instruction in all departments, and the last course of instruction must have been at this college.

The examinations are conducted orally and in writing, and are held at the middle and close of each term thus dividing the strain upon the student.

Prior to such examinations specimens of operations upon the natural organs performed in the Dental Infirmary must be exhibited to the professor of Operative Dentistry, and such other specimen work as he may require; also an approved specimen of dental mechanism constructed in the Dental Laboratory upon a model of practical use must be submitted to the Professor of Oral Prosthesis.

No student will be admitted to examination for advancement or graduation until all indebtedness for instruction shall have been paid.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once)	$5 00
Tuition, each year	100 00

Charge will be made for breakage in laboratories.

A student repeating a course will be charged full fees for that course.

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1 ensuing. This payment must be made upon registration, and students will not be admitted for re-examinations without previous registration.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

1902-1903.

The next term of this institution opens Wednesday evening, October 1st, 1902, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Georgetown University Law Building, 506 and 508 E Street N.W., in the city of Washington. All persons interested are invited to attend the introductory lecture, which will then be delivered. The collegiate year closes on the first of June.

ADVANTAGES.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening, and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequaled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over 100,000 volumes, embracing all the noted treatises, reports and periodicals, ancient and modern, American, English and of the nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivalled among the law libraries of the world. This magnificent collection is freely open to students for seven hours daily.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY—LAW DEPARTMENT.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages for professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States. Its sessions afford the student opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

COST OF BOARDING, ETC.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month; and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month, and even less. Tuition is $80 per annum, with no incidental charges except a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School Session is from the first Wednesday in October to the first Wednesday in June—about eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is, therefore, about $300, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

ADMISSION.

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register, at or before the opening of the term in October. Candidates for a degree must have received a high school education, or its equivalent, evidence of which must be presented or a preliminary examination will be required.

Candidates for advanced standing—i. e., those desiring to complete the Course in one or two years—must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced Class. This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Students in the Second Year are required to attend the Lectures and be examined upon Part 2 of the studies of the First Year, as indicated below; and students in the Third Year are, in like manner, required to attend the Lectures and be examined upon the studies of Part 2 of the Second Year.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School:

FIRST YEAR:—Part 1. Personal Property, Torts, Domestic Relations and Criminal Law.

Part 2. Real Estate, Contracts and Bills and Notes.

SECOND YEAR:—Part 1. Subjects of Part 2 of the First Year's Course.

Part 2. Pleading, Evidence and Equity.

THIRD YEAR:—Part 1. Subjects of Part 2 of the Second Year's Course.

Part 2. Corporations, Common Law Practice, Equity Pleading and Practice, Constitutional Law, and Probate Practice.

TEXT-BOOKS.

FIRST YEAR:—Williams on Real Property; Darlington on Personal Property; Bishop on Contracts; Daniel and Douglass' Elements of Negotiable Instruments; Cooley's Elements of Torts; Clark on Criminal Law.

TABULAR VIEW OF EXERCISES.

For the arrangement of studies the school year is divided into three terms: the first term ends December 20, 1902; the second, March 14, 1903, and the third, May 23, 1903.

The following tabular statement will show the assignment during each of these terms:

First Term, Ending December 20, 1902.

MOOT COURT	Thursdays.

The professors will, during the coming year, be assisted in quizzing by "Quiz Masters," as has been done during several years.

The quizzes will be held at 7:30 o'clock on at least four evenings in each week, and the regular attendance of the students, at every quiz, is expected and required.

EXAMINATIONS.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a carefully written examination, upon, or shortly after, its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of these examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year; while those who fall below the standard required may, at the discretion of the Faculty, if they have been regular in their attendance upon lectures and quizzes, have an opportunity of making up the deficiency before its close. This system has been found to promote more careful study, and, at the same time, to admit of more thorough examination, with less tax upon the student's endurance than a general examination at the close of the Course.

THE MOOT COURT.

Especial, painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Moot Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized, the Court is divided into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. Baker, holds two sessions weekly, known as the Special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in Courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Hon. Job Barnard and Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Holdsworth Gordon, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOMS.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text-books, and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening.

This course is under the direct charge of Professor Charles C. Cole, late Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, who will be assisted by lawyers of national reputation, selected on account of their peculiar fitness for the subjects enumerated.

The principal subjects included in this course are as follows:

The History of the Development of Law, tracing its Origin and Development from Ancient to Modern Times; the History of English Law; the History of Constitutional Law and the Foundations of Civil Liberty; Natural Law; Canon Law; Civil Law; International Law and Foreign Relations of the United States; Admiralty and Maritime Law; the Conflict of Laws, especially as affecting the subjects of Domicil, Citizenship, Residence, Marriage and Divorce, Parent and Child, Guardian and Ward, Interest and Usury, Deeds and other Contracts, Wills, the Administration of Estates of Decedents, Receivers, etc.; Special Tort Law, including Trusts and other Combinations; Railroad Accident Law, etc.; Special Contract Law, including Fire and Life Insurance; Contracts of Carriers; Statute of Frauds; the Statute of Limitations, etc.; Special Real Estate Law, including Water and Water-courses; Fixtures; Easements, etc.; Patent Law, including the General Principles of the Patent Statutes and Procedure before the Patent Office and Federal Courts; Jurisdiction of United States Courts; the Conflict of Jurisdiction; Practice; Transportation as affected by the Interstate Commerce Law; Estoppel; Medical Jurisprudence; Municipal Corporations; Testamentary Law and Legal Ethics.

The lecturer on Admiralty and Maritime Law and other lecturers on special subjects to be delivered occasionally throughout the year by lawyers and educators of national reputation will be announced at the beginning of the scholastic year.

The arrangement of the subjects in this course and the hours of delivery of the lectures will be announced at the commencement of the first term.

TEXT-BOOKS.

Minor on the Conflict of Laws; Dillon on Municipal Corporations; Patterson on Railway Accident Law; Hughes on Admiralty; Curtis on the Jurisdiction of United States Courts; Sohm's Principles of Roman Law and Sharswood's Legal Ethics.

Leading cases upon the several subjects will be assigned by the lecturers to be read in connection with the lectures.

As a prerequisite to graduation students in this course will be required to submit a satisfactory thesis upon a legal subject, to be selected and announced by the Faculty.

LECTURE-STUDENTS.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half of the regular charge for tuition.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION.

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is the following: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text-book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the recitation hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the "Quiz," in which the lesson is gone entirely over again in the shape of questions, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated of in the course: once by careful study of the text, a second time by the discussion of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in answer to the "Quiz." This system has been found, after careful and painstaking tests, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of the highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance in the First, Second and Third Years is Eighty Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned, the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students, the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments of $10 each, strictly in advance.

Tuition in the Fourth or Post-Graduate Course is One Hundred Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, or in monthly installments, in advance.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term, unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence.

For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Forty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement is Ten Dollars.

GENERAL STATEMENT.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown University consists of the COLLEGE, the SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (which includes a school of DENTAL SURGERY), and the SCHOOL OF LAW. The College, however, comprises in itself three distinct departments, viz: The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory. Each School or Department is under the direction of its own Dean, and each Faculty has the power of legislating on its own affairs, but this power can be exercised only in subordination to the President and Directors of the University, and subject to their approval.

HISTORY.

The foundation of Georgetown College was projected as early as the year 1785, when the Rev. John Carroll, afterwards the first Archbishop of Baltimore, formed the plan and proposed it to his associates. On November 13, 1786, the Corporation of Roman Catholic Clergymen, in the Chapter held at Whitemarsh, Md., adopted a series of "Resolves Concerning the Institution of a School," in which it ordered that a School should be erected at Georgetown, Md., and directed the sale of a piece of land belonging to the corporation, in order that the proceeds might be applied to the erection of the first building. Rev. Messrs. John Carroll, James Pellenz, Robert Molyneux, John Ashton, and Leonard Neale were appointed Directors.

Shortly afterwards an appeal was issued, entitled "Proposals to Establish an Academy at Georgetown, Potowmack River, Maryland." In this circular it was stated that "Agreeably to the liberal Principle of our Constitution, the Seminary will be open to students of Every Religious Profession." In 1788 the erection of the first building was undertaken; yet 1789 is commonly considered the year of the foundation of the College, as the deed of the original piece of ground was dated January 23 in that year. Students were not received before 1791. Upon the reorganization of the Society of Jesus in Maryland, in 1805, the Georgetown College, as it had already begun to be called, was transferred to the Fathers of that Society, under whose control and direction the University still remains.

An act of Congress, dated March 1, 1815, reads as follows:

“AN ACT.

“CONCERNING THE COLLEGE OF GEORGETOWN IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall and may be lawful for such persons as now are, or from time to time may be, the President and Directors of the College of Georgetown, within the District of Columbia, to admit any of the students belonging to said College, or other persons meriting academical honors, to any degree in the faculties, arts, sciences, and liberal professions, to which persons are usually admitted in other Colleges or Universities of the United States; and to issue in an appropriate form the diplomas or certificates which may be requisite to testify to the admission to such degree.

“Speaker of the House of Representatives.

“JOHN GAILLARD,

“President pro tempore of the Senate.

“JAMES MADISON.”

Two years later the power of granting degrees, thus acquired, was first exercised.

In 1833 the Holy See empowered Georgetown College to confer, in its name, degrees in Philosophy and Theology. The text of the decree is as follows:

“DECRETUM SACRAE CONGREGATIONIS DE PROPAGANDA FIDE.

“Cum R. P. Joannes Roothaan Societatis Jesu Praepositus Generalis supplicibus precibus ad Sanctissimum Dominum Nostrum Gregorium Div. Prov. PP. The next step in the development of the College was the erection and equipment of a complete Astronomical Observatory, in 1842.

In the following year the formal incorporation of the institution was effected by Congress in the following act:

"AN ACT

The School of Medicine was opened in 1851, and the School of Law in 1870. The Graduate School was in existence as early as 1856, in which year it comprised four resident graduates. It has continued with varying degrees of success since that time, and in the year 1890 assumed a marked development. The Dental School was opened in 1901.

LOCATION AND EXTRINSIC ADVANTAGES.

In its location at the Capital of the nation, Georgetown University enjoys advantages which can hardly be overestimated and which must necessarily increase with the growth of the country. Not only is the city, free as it is from noise, dirt and distracting surroundings of a great commercial center most favorable to the tranquil and earnest pursuit of study, but it has an unparalleled educational equipment in the great scientific collections and libraries of the Government. By the authority of Congress all such facilities for research and illustration in the Governmental collections are made accessible to the scientific investigators and students of institutions of higher learning in the District of Columbia.

This provision applies to the Library of Congress, the National Museum, the Patent Office, the Bureau of Education, the Bureau of Ethnology, the Army Medical Museum, the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission, the Botanical Gardens, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Geological Survey, the Naval Observatory, several hospitals and other departments supplied with special libraries, laboratories and equipment for research. The administration of these bureaus brings together a large corps of scientific workers, and has already made Washington the great scientific as well as political center of the country. One consequence of these conditions is that the scientific societies are exceptionally numerous and flourishing. Even the presence of the National Government, with its executive, legislative and judicial machinery, is a most powerful agent of education; to be familiar as a matter of daily observation with the workings of the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Supreme Court and the Administration is a privilege and a training which cannot be too highly prized and which cannot be found elsewhere.

Of all these extrinsic facilities the various Faculties of Georgetown University make full use, and among her instructors are found not a few of the most eminent scholars and scientific men employed in the technical service of the Government. Her students receive the most cordial reception and careful assistance in their work in the various libraries, museums and scientific bureaus.

To the advantages enumerated above is added the atmosphere of study and research engendered by the presence of the many universities of which Washington is rapidly becoming the seat.

NEEDS OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Without endowment, and deprived of all resources save the fees of the students, Georgetown College has grown from a struggling Academy to a University. Of late years she has been enabled to liquidate a considerable portion of the debt incurred, and to supply herself with halls and facilities long needed. But much remains to be done to enable Georgetown to continue the development which has been steadily going on for more than a century.

The Faculty, therefore, appeal earnestly to the friends of the College and to all who are interested in the advancement of education to assist them with funds for the erection of buildings and the endowment of the various departments of the University. Every alumnus and friend should incorporate in his will a bequest to the University of greater or less amount.

Chief among the wants of the College are following:

1. A GYMNASIUM and NATATORIUM, which is a very pressing need.

2. A SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL, which would include the present classes of Natural Science and would add to them the technical courses long contemplated.

3. Subscriptions for the liquidation of the debt of the GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY FREE HOSPITAL, recently erected at the corner of Thirty-fifth and N Streets northwest, and which is conducted in connection with the Medical School; also funds for its extension and support.

4. The liquidation of the debt of the LAW SCHOOL and the foundation of professorships therein.

5. The completion of the equipment of the OBSERVATORY and the foundation of a small working fund for the director.

6. Endowments for scholarships.

All bequests should be made to "The President and Directors of Georgetown College, in the District of Columbia."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The President and Directors hereby express their grateful acknowledgments to the following friends and benefactors, and to all others from whom donations or favors have been received during the year:

THE COLLEGE.

ORGANIZATION.

Georgetown College constitutes one of the three greater divisions of Georgetown University, viz: The College, the Medical School, and the Law School. The College, however, comprises within itself three distinct departments. The Graduate School, the Collegiate or Undergraduate Department, and the Astronomical Observatory.

SITE AND SURROUNDINGS.

Georgetown College is situated on Georgetown Heights, two and one-half miles distant from the Capitol, overlooking the city of Washington and the Potomac River, and commanding one of the noblest views in the world. The site is singularly healthful, and the climate exceptionally soft and mild.

The College buildings are seven in number, exclusive of the Observatory, and present an aggregate frontage of about eight hundred feet. They are surrounded by grounds comprising seventy-eight acres, a large part of which is occupied by the "Walks," whose sylvan beauty has made them famous.

ACCOMMODATIONS.

A considerable number of single rooms in the main building are rented to students of the Collegiate classes. Those whose means or inclinations do not lead them to take a private room, sleep in the dormitories and study in the general study hall. The dormitories are spacious and lofty, well ventilated and heated.

The double rooms of the North building are reserved for graduate students. None but graduates are allowed to board outside of the Collegiate premises, unless with immediate relatives.

GENERAL CONSPECTUS OF STUDIES.

The course of studies at Georgetown is carefully and logically graded throughout.

The aim of the course is to give the student a complete general and liberal education, which will train and develop all powers of the mind and will cultivate no one faculty to an exaggerated degree at the expense of the others. It is intended too, to impart the broadest possible culture, together with accuracy in scholarship. To attain this end during the Undergraduate period the course is prescribed, and embraces the Latin and Greek Classics, English, in its various branches and aspects and correlated studies, such as Rhetoric, Literature, History, etc., one Modern Language besides English, Mathematics, Chemistry, the Elements of Geology, Astronomy, and Mechanics, and a very thorough training in Physics and Rational Philosophy .

The exacting and comprehensive nature of this course may fitly form a subject for comment. It is believed that its requirements are seldom equalled, even in the larger colleges of the country. As an indication of the labor demanded for the successful completion of the course, it may be stated that the amount of time spent in class by all the students varies from twenty-two to twenty-five hours weekly. To prepare for these classes and recitations, obligatory study for about twenty-three hours per week is exacted. Moreover, students who aim at a high standing spend much time in study in addition to that which is of obligation.

It is presumed that a man of fair capacity who has conscientiously followed this curriculum under capable professors will be possessed of trained and cultivated faculties, and will have considerable amount of positive knowledge in every department of learning. He will be thus in touch and intelligent sympathy with progress in every field of intellectual activity, and be saved as far as possible from narrowness and superficiality. Such an education serves, it is believed, as the best foundation for special training in any branch which the student, with his mind now mature and disciplined, may decide to take up. Those who are unable or unwilling to undergo the amount of labor and application necessary to the mastery of the full curriculum will be obliged to go elsewhere.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

One of the most essential necessities for success in educational work is the possession of natural, thorough and effective methods of teaching. It is necessary, too, that these methods should be uniform in spirit throughout the school, employed equally by all the teachers under whom the student may come. In this respect Georgetown enjoys peculiar advantages. Her teaching is guided by the principles laid down in the famous Ratio Studiorum. This body of rules and suggestions has been elaborated by centuries of experience, and has been judged worthy of attentive study and hearty approbation by the greatest scholars. It is a noteworthy fact that many of the recently-devised methods of teaching, such as the Natural, the Inductive, and similar plans, are in reality mere repetitions of the devices recommended long ago in the Ratio Studiorum and practiced with varying degrees of fidelity in the colleges of the Society of Jesus.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS.

Special attention is called to the facilities for scientific work offered by the College. The Physics Department is one of the largest and best appointed in the University. To its use an entire floor in the east wing of the south row is devoted. The lecture-room, enjoying a southern exposure, is particularly pleasant and lightsome, and has ample facilities for projection, both by light from the sun and the electric arc. The laboratory is well provided with instruments necessary for a careful training in physical experiment and measurements, especially in electricity, while the collection of instruments in the cabinet numbers several hundred and is carefully selected for thorough demonstration of the Principles of Physics. Among them are included such instruments as Melloni's apparatus for the study of heat radiation, complete sets of single and double refracting prisims, polariscopes, both refracting and reflecting; the most improved forms of galvanometers and rheostats. The department is provided with its own electrical plant, a 3 H. P. motor on a 500 volt circuit being used to drive an Edison bipolar generator of 1 1-2 kilowatts. In addition to this direct current, the lecture-room is also provided with a single-phase alternating current of 104 volts, so that electricity in its various forms is constantly before the student and subject to his command for experiments of the most practical character. The collection of Crookes's tubes is very complete, including some of the best forms for the generation of the Roentgen ray.

CHEMICAL DEPARTMENT.

The work in this department is of a very practical character in accordance with the almost unanimous views of modern educators. From the very beginning of his course, each student is obliged to perform personally the greater part of his experimenting, thus supplementing by scientific training the didactic instruction of his literary classes. To meet the demands of such a course, the College has provided three large, well-lighted laboratories in the main building. Each desk is fitted with drawers and locker, and independent drainage and water and gas supply, while all necessary chemicals and apparatus are at hand. The lecture-room is very well equipped with special instruments for purposes of demonstration. A private laboratory is available for advanced students pursuing quantitative analysis or organic chemistry. All the laboratories are open to members of the chemistry classes during hours of recreation.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY.

In this Department much progress has been made. A very fine ornithological collection has been acquired, and arranged according to the most modern system of classification. The shell collection is very satisfactory, and there is also a sufficiently large herbarium. Twelve good microscopes of the Bausch and Lomb type are in service, and a series of biological charts by Leuckart and a fair variety of skeletons are in service. However, much is still needed, especially since the recent introduction of biological teaching into the Preparatory School in the way of anatomical and physiological models, botanical charts, and mounted preparations in general biology.

THE COLEMAN MUSEUM.

As early as the year 1840 the collections in Natural History, under the care of Fathers James Curley and T. Meredith Jenkins, had become sufficiently extensive to warrant the setting apart of a special room for their preservation and exhibition. Here they remained until 1889, when, prior to the Centenary Celebration, they were transferred to their present quarters, in the north portion of the main building. To this hall, by decree of the Faculty, was given the name of James V. Coleman, '69, in acknowledgment of his distinguished benefactions to the college. It is a spacious, lightsome room, fitted with numerous cases of various designs, all made of cherry wood, highly polished.

The various collections have been rearranged and displayed to the best advantage, and a complete catalogue of the Museum prepared.

Particular attention has been given to the mineral collection, which embraces specimens illustrating the entire field of Mineralogy, some of them being unique. Besides the exhibition series, numbering about three thousand specimens, there is a working collection carefully determined and arranged in drawers for the convenience of the classes. A feature of this department is the collection of minerals found in the District of Columbia by Mr. John W. Langdale, and presented by him to the Museum. The collection contains many species not previously known to exist in this locality. Mr. Langdale has also donated several hundred specimens to the general collection, and has always placed at the disposal of the Curator his rare skill as a mineralogist.

In Geology and Paleontology, likewise, there are excellent collections, the rocks and fossils, arranged stratigraphically, occupying an entire row of double cases. Notable among the latter is the unusual number of specimens of the remains of vertebrates, many collected in Alaska.

THE ART AND HISTORICAL COLLECTIONS.

The College possesses a nucleus of a valuable collection of works of art, and a number of Maryland Colonial relics. It has long been the wish of the Faculty to increase these collections and give them the prominence they deserve.

Among the paintings are several works of merit by ancient and modern masters, two mosaic pictures of great beauty and value, several busts in marble or bronze, an admirable portrait of the Founder of the College, Archbishop John Carroll, painted by Gilbert Stuart and presented by Judge P. Ord, etc. A full-length portrait of Mrs. Henry S. Lehr, painted by Muller Ury, adorns the first parlor.

Some time ago an effort was made to create a collection of portraits of distinguished alumni of the College. This has now assumed considerable proportions. The latest acquisition is a noble portrait of Mr. Frank Sappington, S. J.

Two gentlemen have lately enriched the College with a number of valuable engravings, prints and photographs, which have been employed to adorn the heretofore bare walls of the renovated parlors, the Seniors' Reading Room and the large Study Hall. The effects for art and refinement of these much-needed decorations will doubtlessly be great and commensurate with the nobility of the subjects and the artistic merit and recognized beauty of the pictures.

George D. Mackay, Esq., of New York, presented forty-five engravings, mezzotints, coppers, photographs, etc., of unusually large size, collected abroad, and embracing signed Dore's, Martins, etc.

William Vincent McGrath, Jr., '87, decorated the Seniors' Library with a gallery of forty-two murillo-tints mounted in highly artistic frames.

THE BEAUCHAMP HUGHES ART CABINET.

The Beauchamp Hughes Art Cabinet, with its rare collection of precious laces, pictures, ancient manuscripts, bronzes, china, and bric-a-brac, is very much admired.

THE RIGGS MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

The liberal spirit of Mr. E. Francis Riggs, of Washington, has furnished the College collection of books with a fitting home, in the South Pavilion. A tablet erected by the Faculty attests the devotion with which the founder dedicated his gift to the memory of his father, the late Mr. George W. Riggs, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Laurason Riggs, once a student of the College.

The central reading-room is flooded with light from the sides and ceiling, and since the introduction of electricity, is available at all hours. The alcoves are designed to afford shelf-room for 104,000 volumes, and are furnished with comfortable appliances for study and consultation.

The collection of books is estimated at more than 85,000. Among these are many rare, curious and unique works. One hundred volumes printed between the years 1472 and 1520; three manuscripts anterior to the fifteenth century, and others of later periods, together with a number of fac-similes, such as the Duke de Loubat's splendid reproductions in photochromography of ancient Aztec MSS., interest the visitor.

It will afford librarians and bibliophiles particular pleasure to find in the Riggs illustrations of many nice points of their specialty in editions, binding, bookplates, etc. Among the libraries incorporated in it that is of the historian, John Gilmary Shea, LL. D., which is valuable for Americana and Indian languages.

THE HIRST LIBRARY.

The students of the senior division owe a debt of gratitude to Anthony A. Hirst, LL. D., of Philadelphia. He has completed at an expense of $4,200 the elegant bookstack of oak and iron in the hall of the south pavilion which serves them as their library. This contains about 5,000 volumes selected with the view of furnishing the student with the means of reference as well as entertainment. Combined with it is the reading-room in which newspapers from the chief cities of the country, together with the leading reviews and magazines are kept on file. Both are open to graduate and undergraduate students, subject to a small fee, necessary to defray ordinary expenses.

DISCIPLINE.

In Georgetown's system of education, one of the most important features is the formation and training of character. Her method is intended to develop and strengthen the character no less than the mind. Hence a greater degree of supervision is exercised over the students than is usual, at the present day, in many other large institutions; but the manner of doing this is such as to relieve the plan of its harsher features.

The College is considered as constituting a large family. The professors live with the students, mingle with them constantly, take part in their sports, direct their studies personally, and in every way assume the relation rather of older brothers than of taskmasters. This constant, familiar, personal communication on kindly terms between professor and student is a powerful means for the formation and uplifting of character.

As the student reaches the latter years of his college course, a somewhat larger degree of liberty is granted him; and when he enters the Graduate School or either of the professional departments, he is almost entirely freed from restrictions of every kind. He is then believed, by reason of the long course of judicious training which he has undergone in contact with cultivated and enlightened men, to have acquired habits of self-control, and to be prepared to comport himself anywhere and everywhere as a law-abiding, Christian gentleman.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Religious instruction is considered of the first importance in education.

Catechism forms one of the regular class recitations, and weekly catechetical lectures are attended by all. The prize for Christian Doctrine is awarded to the author of the best paper upon the matter of these lectures. Further instruction is given to such as have need of it, or are preparing for the Sacraments. For the development of piety there are two Sodalities which meet weekly, and a fervent center of the Apostleship of Prayer. All Catholic students are expected to approach the Sacraments at least once a month.

THE CHAPEL OF THE SACRED HEART.

In the College Quadrangle stands the Chapel of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, measuring 109 feet in extreme length, and varying in breadth from 40 to 60 feet. This structure is the generous gift of the wife of an alumnus, Mrs. John Vinton Dahlgren (Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr), nee Elizabeth Drexel. The Chapel was consecrated on Friday, June 9th, 1893. Its seating capacity is about 500. The College thus possesses a spacious and beautiful structure, wherein the services of the Church may be performed with fitting solemnity and dignity.

SESSIONS AND HOLIDAYS.

The Academic year is divided into two terms:

The first term in 1903-1904 will begin September 9, 1903, and will end January 31, 1904. The second term will begin February 3, 1904, and end June 18, 1903.

The Christmas recess begins on December 20, and ends on January 2. The Easter recess extends from Wednesday in Holy Week to the Wednesday after Easter.

No schools are taught on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, nor on days of general religious or national observance.

The classes begin at 8.45 A. M. and continue until 12. They are resumed at 1 and continue until 3 P. M., with five minutes intermission between classes.

EXAMINATIONS AND PROMOTIONS.

A general examination in all classes is held in writing toward the close of each term. Supplementary oral examinations are also exacted.

Promotions ordinarily take place at the beginning of the first term. They will rarely be made at any other time.

AWARDS AND REPORTS.

The prizes, at the Annual Distribution in June, are awarded to those who, by their class exercises during the year and the excellence of their examinations, attain the required number of marks. Absentees are not allowed to make up marks. Students, therefore, who remain at home beyond the period allotted for vacation or recess cannot expect to hold distinguished places in their classes.

Besides the Annual Distribution of Awards in the Undergraduate School, the Faculty and students are assembled at the beginning of every month, when the marks and standing of the students in their respective classes for the preceding month are publicly proclaimed, and testimonials awarded to those who have attained the prescribed degree of excellence.

A quarterly report of the standing in class, the progress and general conduct of every student is sent to his parents or guardian.

PRIZES OPEN FOR GENERAL COMPETITION.

These prizes are open to competition only to students of regular classes, whose record in class is over 60 marks monthly.

ACADEMIC COSTUME.

The University cap and gown are worn by the Senior Class of the College, and on the more solemn academic occasions their use is obligatory. Students of the Graduate School add the hood; and all graduates of the University are entitled to wear the complete academic costume, consisting of gown, cap, and hood. All members of the Faculty who hold a degree from another institution of learning may wear the hood proper to the corresponding degree of this University.

It is hoped that at all commencements and other gatherings of an academic character this right will be exercised by many or all of those possessed of it.

The hood indicates in every case the wearer's degree. The Bachelor's hood is ten inches shorter than the Master's, while the Doctor's hood, of the same length as the Master's is attached to a panel of the same material as that of the hood itself. The department in which the degree was taken is pointed out by the color of the edging, white designating Arts and Sciences; blue, Philosophy; purple, Law; green, Medicine; scarlet, Theology, etc. The interior of the hood is lined with the College colors, blue and gray, in silk.

In the foregoing and all other particulars, the hood adopted by Georgetown follows the intercollegiate agreement.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

In the various departments of the Graduate School of Georgetown University provision is made for those college graduates who desire to continue their education in the Arts and Sciences. Some, in accordance with the best spirit of the age, seek these literary and scientific resources from a love of true learning, whilst others have in view a more complete preparation for the professions in which there is a call for general knowledge. It is the object of this vital part of the University to satisfy all such demands in the fullest and most liberal manner.

The courses, if pursued to the full extent recommended, are ample enough to tax the energies of any student. It is, therefore, more satisfactory to devote an entire year to them before entering upon the study of Law or Medicine, which the University also provides. Yet the minimum of work exacted is not too much to be profitably combined with the required attention to purely professional studies.

ADMISSION.

All graduates of Georgetown College, as also graduates of institutions of like standing, are admissible to these courses.

RESIDENCE.

Students devoting themselves to Graduate work only at the College may reside within the College walls or not, as may suit their convenience. Those attending the Schools of Law or Medicine are expected to live outside of the College; and if desired, good boarding places, where reasonable rates are charged, will be secured for them.

The classes in the Graduate courses are conducted in the halls at Georgetown, from 9 A. M. to 12 M. Those in Biology, partly at Georgetown on certain evenings, and partly in the Medical College in the afternoon.

TERM TIME.

The year opens usually on the first day of October, and closes with the annual commencement of the College in the latter part of June. It is divided into the fall, winter, and spring terms.

STUDIES.

A brief schedule of courses offered in the various branches will be found subjoined. Class work is carried on by lectures, directions in reading, and intimate personal and practical guidance on the part of the professor; and on the side of the student, by repetitions, review and practice papers, and the preparation of theses. The aim is to surround the Graduate student with every facility for advanced work, and every incitement to original investigation; in a word, to foster in him the spirit and habits of the scientist and scholar.

Every student must select at least three courses involving attendance upon lectures for eight hours a week. One of these courses must be Rational Philosophy. In the case of applicants for the degree of Master of Sciences, Rational Philosophy is optional, but must be replaced both as to study and examination by specialization in some branch of the Natural Sciences.

AIDS TO STUDY.

Graduate students have the privilege of consulting their professors outside the regular class hours. Under the direction of the respective lecturers, they have the use of the Riggs Memorial Library, the Cabinet of Physics, the Physical, Biological, and Chemical Laboratories of the College, and the Scientific collections of the Coleman Museum.

The Graduates' Library of Philosophy and Literature, a choice collection intended for the seminar and reference, and already comprising some thousands of volumes, is placed in the old library of the North Building, occupied by the resident Graduates, and is accessible at all times as a study. The Morris Literary and Debating Society is organized for Graduate, Law, and Medical Students.

DEGREES.

The Master's degree in Arts and the same degree in Science, will be given to those already holding the corresponding Bachelor's degree, on the completion of one year of residence, with attendance upon lectures, presentation of papers, and satisfactory examinations, as specified above.

For the degree of Licentiate in Philosophy, two years of graduate work, one of which at least must be spent in residence, will be required. The additional conditions are: an hour's oral examination and the writing of a satisfactory paper on a subject in Psychology or Sociology selected by the professor.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy will be conferred after three years of graduate work, two of which must be spent in residence. The candidate must pass a final examination, present a thesis bearing upon his special department of study, and convince the committee appointed by the Faculty of his distinguished merit to receive this degree.

The condition of residence may be waived in certain special cases where evidence of eminent fitness is submitted by the candidate. In such cases, candidates must file an application at the beginning of October of the academic year in which they wish to take the degree, specifying the degrees they hold, the line of work they intend to pursue, and the title and scope of the thesis they propose to submit. The special examination will be exacted in every case.

FEES AND EXPENSES.

The fee for tuition is $100 for the entire course of instruction. The charge for room, board and washing at the College is $400 for the year.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

The advancement of learning in this country creates a demand for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in course. In order to maintain this degree at its highest standard, in addition to other qualifications, a most sound and thorough training is necessary. For this, due provision has been made in our Graduate School. Under the direction of our Professors of Philosophy the whole field of philosophical teaching is surveyed, the history of the science fully treated, and the means of immediate preparation given for the final tests required for this degree.

Graduates desiring to fit themselves as professors and lecturers have every facility to perfect themselves in their chosen specialty. Besides a regular engagement in Universities, Colleges, Seminaries, High Schools, courses of lectures on literary and scientific subjects are growing in popularity in these institutions. Moreover, the development of University Extension, Summer Schools, Reading Circles, etc., brings with it opportunities for the promotion of true culture which the lecturer cannot afford to overlook.

Students for the Church can extend and complete the Philosophy they have begun in their last college year, and thus prepare the main requirements for entrance into Theology. This, together with Ecclesiastical History, in which the great questions under controversy will be treated, and courses in the theory and practice of Rhetoric and in Literature, will supply a year of useful and systematic work amidst surroundings to which they are already accustomed. Facility in the use of Latin can be acquired by conversation in groups formed for the purpose.

Those who aim at Journalism can lay a solid foundation in such courses as Philosophy, Ethics, Economics, History, Advanced Rhetoric, English and French or German Language and Literature. In addition to the required essays and dissertations in their departments, they may profitably secure for practice the Washington correspondence of some newspapers of the country.

BIOLOGY.

The importance of this subject in modern times as an element of culture and an adjunct to philosophical training is too plain to need demonstration. It is believed, therefore, that many graduates who are aiming at the higher degrees of Master of Arts or Doctor of Philosophy will desire to follow the courses of this department. Attention is called to the unusual advantages Georgetown possesses for this study, and which will be found on another page.

Moreover, for a thorough course of medicine, the study of Biology is an excellent preparation, and is fast becoming an essential prerequisite.

Detailed suggestions for the appropriate selection of courses by various classes of students will be found on another page.

The instruction in this department will be under the general direction of Sylvester Dwight Judd, Ph. D., while in the discussion of various groups of plants and animals, recourse will be had to specialists in the Government service, who have been engaged to give series of lectures in their respective fields. The international reputation of these men in their specialties is abundant guarantee of the elevated and thorough character of the courses.

No extra fee for these courses will be required of Graduate students in the Arts and Sciences, or of Medical students pursuing the regular four years' course in the University. Students in the Medical Preparatory and special students will be charged a very moderate sum, according to the number of courses taken.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES.

COURSE 1.—GENERAL ZOOLOGY. October-June. Professor Stiles, assisted by Drs. Baker, Benedict, Howard, Judd, Merriam, Palmer, and Messrs. Simpson, Lucas, and others.

The lectures will be illustrated with charts and specimens. The discussion of many of the groups will be given by specialists in those groups.

COURSE 2.—PRACTICAL BIOLOGY. Four hours per week. October-June. Professor Judd.

This course consists of laboratory work, supplemented by short lectures.

It will familiarize the student with typical specimens of the various groups of plants and animals; each example chosen will be studied from the standpoints of anatomy, physiology, development, and classification. Starting with the unicellular organisms (Amœba, Stentor, Bacteria, Yeast, Protococcus), the students will pass to an examination of the multicellular plants and animals. Microscopic studies and dissections will be made of several common animals, such as the liver-fluke, earthworm, crayfish, grasshopper, fish frog and rabbit. Some time will be devoted to studying the collections of birds and mammals in the Coleman Museum.

During the first half of the year special stress will be laid upon the zoological, during the latter half upon the botanical side of Biology. Systematic and medical botany will be pursued in the laboratory, while studies in plant ecology will be carried on in the field.

Arrangements have been made by which the following biological courses of the Medical Department may be anticipated—subject in every case to the approval of the Dean of the Graduate School—by students in the Biological Department. Certificates of examinations in these subjects will be accepted by the Medical Faculty, so that during their medical course the students may give more time to clinical and hospital and other work:

COURSE 3.—EMBRYOLOGY. One lecture per week. October-February. Professor Judd.

This course will consist of lectures and laboratory work.

COURSE 4.—ANIMAL PARASITES. Ten lectures. Professor Stiles.

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and by exhibition of specimens. Practical laboratory exercises in microscopic examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of fæces, for determining the presence of parasites, will supplement the lectures.

This course is required of the third and fourth years of the Medical Department. About half of the lectures are included in course 1.

COURSE 5.—PHYSIOLOGY. Three times a week for two years. October to April. Prof. M. G. Motter.

Required of the first and second years of the Medical Department.

COURSE 6.—NORMAL HISTOLOGY. Four hours per week. October-April. Prof. Hugh M. Smith, assisted by Drs. Blackburn and Clark.

Required of the first year of the Medical Department.

Required of the first year of the Medical Department.

COURSE 8.—HUMAN ANATOMY. Two lectures per week for two years. October-April. Dr. Frank Baker.

THE OBSERVATORY.

REV. JOHN G. HAGEN, S. J.,
Director.

BUILDING AND EQUIPMENT.

With regard to the building and equipment the following description will be of interest to our friends. The Observatory stands on an eminence at a distance of about four hundred yards from the College. The main building is sixty feet long and thirty feet wide, and is divided from east to west into three rooms. The eastern room contains a nine-inch photographic transit instrument, with collimators, by Saegmuller, of Washington. In the western room is mounted a transit instrument, by Ertel & Son, of Munich. It is seven feet long and has a four-and-one-half-inch object-glass. The middle part of the Observatory is three stories high, surrounded by a rotary dome eighteen feet in diameter. Here is erected the twelve-inch equatorial.

In the room below the dome is the library containing the observations and other publications of nearly all the observatories in the world.

Under the library is the clock room, with four pendulum clocks and two chronometers, a chronograph, and a switchboard from which the electrical connections with all the instruments are made. A special line connects the switchboard with the United States Naval Observatory.

All the instruments and rooms are furnished with electric light from the Potomac Electric Power Co. The electrical apparatus of the observatory is worked by a storage battery which is charged from the current of the same company by means of a dynamo and transformer. This new plant was set up in the basement of the observatory by Rev. Father Martin.

A separate dome, twelve feet in diameter, on the southwest brow of the hill, shelters the old equatorial, by Troughton & Simms, which has an aperture of nearly five inches.

An extension added to the eastern side of the main building contains an instrument for the determination of the variations of latitude: the photographic zenith telescope.

The nine-inch photographic transit instrument has been provided with a Reifler clock in an air-tight case, the donation of the late Miss Catherine Bruce.

The first experiments have proved this instrument to be of excellent construction both optically and mechanically.

PUBLICATIONS.

Observations of Variable Stars, made in the years 1884-1890 by the director and his assistants were published in one volume, all discussed and reduced to steps and Julian days.

Another volume, now in print, will contain the original observations of variable stars made by Heis from 1840 to 1877, and by Kruger from 1853 to 1892, the valuable manuscripts of these two great authorities having been placed in our hands. The observations are similarly reduced, and accompanied by critical notes.

The new star discovered by Turner has given another opportunity for publishing a circular, "Chart and Catalogues for observing Nova Geminorum."

A lecture was given by the director before the Philosophical Society of Washington on "A questionable Type of Temporary Stars," which was also printed in the Astrophysical Journal.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

We are pleased to mention several donations made lately to the Observatory. The principal benefaction came from the late Mrs. Annie Donahue, of San Francisco, Cal., in accordance with an agreement made with her two sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Martin, of San Francisco, and Miss Winfride Martin, of Baltimore, Md., according to which they were to unite in donating to the College Observatory an endowment fund of $25,000. Mrs. Donahue, by her will, left to the Observatory a third part of that sum, amounting to $8,333.34, and her executors have paid it over to the College.

Another important donation came from Miss Catherine Wolfe Bruce, to assist in the publication of the Atlas Stellarum Variabilium. On the commendation of our work by Prof. Edward C. Pickering, Director of Harvard College Observatory, Miss Bruce placed at the disposal of the publisher first the sum of $1,750, and again the additional sum of $1,400, by which generous gifts she secured the publication against all chances for want of subscribers.

The warmest thanks of the Observatory are tendered to all the benefactors and donors.

The annual publications of all the observatories of the world have been received as in former years. Among these the international astrographic chart, the printing of which has been commenced lately, is forming the most valuable part.

CONFERENCE OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL.

A conference of this Society was organized among the students in the year 1889-90 under the title of the Conference of St. Francis de Sales, of Georgetown College; and on the 25th of January, 1892, it was formally aggregated to the Society as an Aspirant Conference. Its purpose is primarily not only the actual relief of the poor in the neighborhood of the College, but also the training of its members in the spirit and methods of this admirable organization. Yet the charitable work performed is by no means inconsiderable. During the past year a large sum of money and many articles of clothing were distributed. The members of the Conference have given active and regular assistance to the Mission established among the soldiers at Fort Myer, Va., teaching Sunday-School there, conducting the Choir, and in other ways aiding the Father in charge.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION OR "THE YARD."

Organizations for the practice of athletic sports are encouraged, but great care is taken that studies suffer no detriment from this cause.

As yet there is no adequate gymnasium for the students of the Collegiate Department. They have, however, a series of recreation rooms fitted up for use on the ground floor. This suite comprises a central hall, an apartment for billiard tables, a dressing room for the athletic contestants, a baseball room, a bowling alley, rowing machines and a running track.

The baseball field, which was extended and graded some years ago at the cost of more than $3,000, is 525 feet in length and 425 feet in width. By the effort of Walter S. Martin, of California, who collected the funds from members of his own family, a running track, fifteen feet in width and more than a quarter of a mile in length, has been constructed about the outer edge of the field.

The Athletic Association, or "The Yard," comprises under one general direction all the organizations existing among the students for the purposes of amusement and exercise, such as Baseball, Football, Track Athletics, Rowing, Glee Associations, Lawn Tennis and Billiards. These associations, which previous to the year 1889 were independent of one another since that date have been regulated by the Yard Committee, under the Faculty Director.

THE ATHLETIC FIELD AND TRACK.

DEGREES.

The successful completion of the undergraduate course entitles a student to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. No other first degree is given in the college, those of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Philosophy having been abolished by action of the Faculty.

Degrees will not be given at any other time than the annual commencement in June.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION.

Students may enter at any time during the session, and, on examination, will be assigned to the class for which their prior attainments have fitted them.

Satisfactory testimonials of good conduct will be required from those who come from other institutions.

Candidates for admission to the advanced classes must pass a satisfactory examination upon all the subjects previously studied by the class which they propose to enter.

From certain preparatory schools of established reputation students are admitted to the Freshman class without examination, upon the principal's certificate that they have completed the required amount of work and are prepared to enter college.

In each case, however, a catalogue giving the course of studies required in his school, must accompany the principal's certificate. The Georgetown Preparatory School Catalogue may be had on application to the Prefect of Studies.

In all other cases for admission to this class, a successful examination is required in the following subjects, or their equivalent:

LATIN.—Grammar.—The entire Latin Grammar, including a knowledge of all regular syntactical constructions: Translation into Latin at sight of complex English sentences, entailing the application of rules for relative clauses, indirect discourse and conditional sentences.

Prosody.—All the rules as given in Casserly's Prosody or some equivalent work; application to hexameter verse; scansion of Ovid and Virgil. A simple exercise will be exacted in the rearrangement of broken verse.

Latin Composition.—Translation into Latin of easy continuous prose based upon Cæsar and Cicero. This requirement is of very especial importance, and great weight will be given to it in the examination. The use of Cicero's letters as well as his orations as models for the requirements of Latin idiom is strongly recommended.

Nepos.—Lives, to the end of the life of Alcibiades; also the life of Atticus.

Cæsar.—Commentaries, two books.

Ovid.—Metamorphoses, one thousand lines.

Cicero.—Selected letters, five hundred lines; orations. the four against Catiline.

Virgil.—Aeneid, three books.

GREEK.—Grammar.—Etymology complete (including all the irregular and defective forms); the rules for accents; the rules of syntax and their application; the Homeric dialect.

Greek Composition.—Translation into Greek of simple English sentences based upon Xenophon's Anabasis

Xenophon.—Anabasis, Books I and II.

Lucian.—Six Dialogues.

Homer.—Iliad, Books I and II, or Odyssey, Books I, II and III.

N. B.—In assigning the matter above, the purpose of the Faculty is not to insist on quantity or to recognize that the mere reading of a stated amount of assigned authors is sufficient preparation for college. In the discussion of the classic authors, both Greek and Latin, the candidate must be prepared to give a complete grammatical analysis of every word, phrase and sentence, and to point out exceptional idioms, and must be informed on the chief points of collateral erudition connected with the text.

ENGLISH.—Higher Grammar.—The candidate must be prepared on the matter contained in Meiklejohn's "The English Language," or some equivalent work.

Composition.—A brief prose composition will be required evidencing some proficiency in narrative and critical writing. This exercise will be based upon books and authors assigned for duty in the Georgetown Preparatory School. Questions will be asked as to the subject-matter, method of treatment, structure, and style of these books. Fair penmanship and accurate spelling will be considered as essential preliminary requirements.

The authors assigned for 1903-1904 will be: Shelley, Selected Poems, (No. 85, Maynard Series.) *Wordsworth, Selected Poems, (No. 90, Maynard Series.) De Quincy, Flight of a Tartar Tribe. *Macaulay, Essays on Johnson and on Addison. Milton, Paradise Lost (two books). *Shakespeare, Macbeth. Burk on Conciliation. *Thackeray, Henry Esmond.

A careful study of the works marked thus* (subject-matter, form and structure) will be exacted; a general acquaintance with the other assigned books will be sufficient.

N. B.—The Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English for 1903-1904 will be accepted, as will any fair equivalent work in this department.

HISTORY.—The History of the Oriental Nations, Greece and Rome, as found in Myer's Ancient History, or some similar work; Modern General History, Fredet's or an equivalent; Johnston's United States, or an equivalent; Elements of Civics.

MATHEMATICS.—Algebra; Geometry, plane and solid. Wentworth's Complete Algebra, and Wentworth's Geometry, or works of equal grade.

SCIENCE.—A fair knowledge of Physical Geography, Elementary Physiology, Botany and Astronomy, as required in the Georgetown Preparatory School.

MODERN LANGUAGES.—One modern language other than the English is required, preferably French or German. The examination will embrace the elements of grammar, including the irregular verbs; translation into English at sight of simple prose; grammatical analysis.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

No distinction is made in the reception of students on the ground of religious belief, but all the boarders are required to be present at the public exercises of religion.

No student will be allowed to remain at the college during the summer vacation.

The introduction of intoxicating liquors, as well as of immoral books or papers, will render the offender liable to expulsion, as will any grave offence against morals or discipline.

BOARDERS.—Boarders are forbidden to leave the College grounds without permission. Violation of this rule will render the offender liable to expulsion. Leave to visit the city will not be given without the written authorization of parents, and even with such authorization, it is intended that the permission should be given but rarely and for good reasons.

Students whose parents reside in the District will ordinarily be permitted to visit them on the last Saturday of every month, and remain with them until Sunday evening.

The College authorities reserve to themselves the discretionary power of supervising all correspondence of students.

To avoid serious loss of time from study, the students are prohibited from receiving daily newspapers regularly as individual subscribers. The principal papers, however, as well as other periodicals, are kept on file in the reading room.

DAY SCHOLARS.—Day-scholars and half-boarders, while within the College walls, are subject to all the rules and regulations of boarders.

They are required to attend the mid-day studies at the College, and are expected to spend about three hours daily in study at home.

Punctual attendance at class is required; and no day-scholar, after absenting himself or coming late, will be received in class without a note from a parent or guardian, countersigned by the Prefect of Discipline.

Day-scholars are forbidden to take out letters or perform errands for boarders.

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 1903-1904

The complete course of study in the Medical Department extends over four terms of eight months each. The next term will begin Monday, September 28, 1903, and end Saturday, May 31, 1904.

The demands of modern medical education are such that the Faculty has found it necessary to extend the hours of instruction so that more time may be given to practical work in laboratories and hospitals. The instruction will, therefore, begin in the morning and continue throughout the day. Students are required to devote their entire time to the study of medicine.

Special attention is called to the advantages of the method of teaching adopted in this school. It enables each student to come into more intimate relation with his teachers in laboratory and hospital work, and in connection with the system of recitations adopted makes instruction more directly personal and adapted to the special needs of the individual, and prepares graduates for the rigid examinations for admission into the Medical Corps of the Army, Navy and Marine Hospital Service. Of 24 applicants for the Army and Marine Hospital Service, since 1898, 23 passed and only one failed.

The building of this department is conveniently situated on H street, northwest, between Ninth and Tenth streets, near several of the principal railway lines. It contains spacious and well-ventilated lecture rooms, chemical, histological, bacteriological, and physiological laboratories, a convenient and well-lighted dissecting room, a library and reading room for the use of students. The laboratories are equipped with the latest and most approved instruments and appliances, including an ample number of microscopes of high power.

These will greatly enhance the facilities for instruction, and will enable every student to master more readily the technical skill needed in modern important methods of medical research. The Laboratory courses may be taken independently of the lectures.

Congress during its last session appropriated sufficient funds for the erection of a Laboratory in connection with the Marine Hospital Bureau for the investigation of infectious and contagious diseases and other matters pertaining to public health, and also enacted a law permitting the use of Government Laboratories for Post-graduate research work. Students may also be employed as Assistants during the vacation months in these Laboratories.

The great libraries and museums connected with the various Government institutions at Washington afford advantages to the student, that are unrivaled in America and are equal to those in most European capitals. These collections are for the most part freely open to the public, or can be consulted by students upon obtaining permission, readily granted to those who are pursuing special courses of study.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Creditable certificates of good moral character, signed by two physicians of good standing in the State, Territory or District in which the applicant last resided.

As evidence of preliminary education an entrance examination is required. It may be waived if an applicant can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, normal or high school, or State Examining Board.

The examination shall comprise the following subjects:

(a) A thorough knowledge of English grammar, composition and rhetoric. (b) Mathematics, including higher arithmetic, algebra through quadratics. (c) Latin, the equivalent of one year's study in a good high school, covering at least one book of Caesar's Commentaries or an equivalent thereof. (d) Elementary physics. (e) United States History.

Students who have attended one or more terms at any other medical college in good standing will be admitted to advanced standing upon passing the examination required of students for the stage at which they propose to enter. Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable medical colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher classes without further examination.

Persons not candidates for the degree M. D. may be admitted without examination as special students, and may attend any of the courses upon giving satisfactory evidence that they are qualified to intelligently avail themselves of the instruction.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the College Building on Monday, September 28, Tuesday, September 29, and Wednesday, September 30, 1903, at 2 p. m.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic and clinical lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting, laboratory work, and other practical manipulation. The students will be divided into four classes, called respectively, the First, Second, Third, and Fourth.

Class recitations will be conducted by members of the Faculty and by instructors.

A record of these recitations will be kept, and the average will be credited to each student in summing up after the final examinations at the end of the session.

The following is a sketch of the several courses of instruction:

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, A. M., PH. D., M. D.

The didactic instruction is illustrated by demonstrations on the living subject, by dissections, models, and several hundred plates and lantern slides prepared especially for the course. The students are thoroughly examined orally from week to week as the course progresses in order to insure that they understand the work and are making satisfactory progress. Written examinations are held frequently. Especial attention is paid to the practical bearings of the science and its application to surgery and pathology.

OSTEOLOGY.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.,

Assistant to the Professor of Anatomy

This course includes a careful study of every bone in the human body, the pupil being required to point out and designate the important and technical features of each upon an actual specimen. For the study of the skeleton it is very much like what the study of the softer parts is in the dissecting room, and is an indispensable preliminary to that work.

PRACTICAL ANATOMY.

EMORY W. REISINGER, M. D.,

Demonstrator.

The dissecting room will be open daily for students, after October 15th, and the Demonstrator or his Assistants will be present. During the session there will be given special demonstrations of the brain, of the thoracic and the abdominal viscera, and also of other difficult or obscure regions of the body.

During each session every student of the First and Second Classes will be required to dissect all regions of the human body.

HISTOLOGY.

R. S. BLACKBURN, M. D.

In this course, which embraces one full session, students of the first year are taught the theory and practical use of the microscope and the elements of microscopic technique, in addition to the minute anatomy of organs and tissues. Instruction is given in the well-equipped laboratory, and the course is chiefly devoted to practical laboratory work. It is the aim to thoroughly cover the subject of animal histology, the human tissues being compared with those of the lower vertebrates. The application of histology to physiology and pathology is duly considered. Students are required to prepare organs for examination, beginning with fresh specimens and ending with mounted sections, and to make drawings and descriptive notes of the microscopical appearances.

EMBRYOLOGY.

SYLVESTER D. JUDD, B. S., PH. D.

This course will consist of lectures and laboratory work. It will begin with spermatogenesis and ovogenesis, and then taking up the development after fertilization will proceed to the formation of the rudiment of the embryo, and conclude with a consideration of organology.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROFESSOR MURRAY GALT MOTTER, B. S., A. M., M. D.

This course will consist of lectures upon General and Special Physiology, together with recitations, frequent examinations, and, in so far as possible, practical demonstrations.

While a knowledge of the facts of Physiology is essential, greater stress will be laid upon the underlying, fundamental principles, and their application to the problems of Pathology, Physical Diagnosis, and practical Medicine and Surgery.

MATERIA MEDICA AND THERAPEUTICS.PROF. G. LLOYD MAGRUDER, A. M., M. D.,

One of the Consulting Physicians to Providence Hospital, and the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

Instruction in this Department will extend over the first three years of the medical course.

Students of the second and third year will be instructed in the physiological action and therapeutical use of drugs, and in prescription writing.

MATERIA MEDICA.WILFRED M. BARTON, M. D.

Under this course students of the first year will be taught the appearance and physical properties of the crude drugs and the preparations derived therefrom, illustrated by actual specimens. The elements of pharmacology will also be taught, including the compounding of medicinal substances and preparations, incompatibilities, weights and measures, doses, etc.

CHEMISTRY AND TOXICOLOGY.PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M.

It is the aim in this department to give a practical course in chemistry and toxicology as related to the subject of medicine.

As a foundation for this course special attention is given to the subject of elementary chemistry, including thorough instruction in the laws governing chemical combination and molecular changes. This is supplemented by laboratory work, illustrating the subjects previously considered and setting forth the fundamental principles of chemical analysis.

In organic chemistry the instruction is given by means of lectures and laboratory work. This course includes an examination of the more important hydrocarbons and their derivatives, supplemented by lectures upon the theoretical and practical methods of manufacture, their character and uses, especially as they are related to medicine. Under the head of organic chemistry, that department of science known as sanitary chemistry also receives attention. This includes the practical examination of the various forms of matter which affect, either directly or indirectly, the general health.

It is intended in this course that such a knowledge shall be imparted to the students as may enable them to differentiate between wholesome and unwholesome articles of food and drink. The various food products, particularly milk, cheese, bread and meats, will receive careful consideration. The examination of air in rooms, the velocity, condition and quality of air currents, will be considered under the head of ventilation. The organic analysis of water and its various forms of pollution, together with the examination of soils, will also receive attention.

Under the head of toxicology the general subject of poisons, including their effects, modes of action, subsequent dispositions and antagonism is briefly considered, while the evidence of poisoning as furnished by chemical analysis is considered more in detail.

PHYSICS.

TRUMAN ABBE, A. B., M. D.

A special course in physics as applied to medicine and surgery will be given during the first year. It will be illustrated by oral instruction and by laboratory experiments.

GENERAL PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, A. B., M. D.

The course in pathology will extend over two years. The instruction will consist of lectures, demonstrations, class recitations and laboratory work, and will embrace general and special pathology, including bacteriology and clinical pathology.

The lectures and class recitations are brought in close relation with the laboratory exercises. During the first-half year general considerations of disease, including etiology and immunity, are taken up, and during the same period the laboratory work in bacteriology is made to explain and illustrate the didactic work as far as possible.

The second-half year is devoted to the study of the anatomical changes in disease, including degeneration, regeneration, inflammation, tumor formation, etc. The course in pathological histology is so arranged as to keep pace with the class work; for this purpose a complete series of typical pathological specimens will be presented for individual study.

The course in clinical pathology contemplates the examination of blood, urine, fæces, gastric contents, sputum, pathological exudates, etc., with especial reference to clinical medicine and surgery. The great value of laboratory methods as aids in the diagnosis of disease will be emphasized.

SPECIAL PATHOLOGY AND MORBID ANATOMY.

PROF. I. W. BLACKBURN, M. D.

Pathologist to the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will be devoted to the pathology and morbid anatomy of the individual organs, tissues, and fluids; to consideration of tumors and morbid growths in general and in connection with special pathology to the pathology of mental diseases, and the methods of conducting post-mortem examinations for medico-scientific and medico-legal purposes.

SURGICAL PATHOLOGY AND MILITARY SURGERY.

PROF. W. C. BORDEN, M. D., F. R. M. S.,

Major and Surgeon Medical Department, U. S. A., Commanding General Hospital
Washington Barracks, D. C.

This course consists of an annual course of didactic lectures freely illustrated by plates, drawings and specimens adapted to the purpose of teaching modern views and progress in surgical pathology and therapeutics, and the principles of military surgery as applied to the management of gunshot wounds in civil practice.

THEORY AND PRACTICE OF MEDICINE AND DISEASES OF CHILDREN.

PROF. SAMUEL S. ADAMS, A. M., M. D.

Attending Physician to Georgetown University and Children's Hospitals, Consulting Physician to Government Hospital for Insane.

An effort will be made to give in the course of two sessions as complete a description as possible of the diseases usually considered as belonging to the province of this chair, and in such manner as to give the student a clear conception of the methods of discrimination and management of the various diseased conditions. This teaching, together with the supplementary advantages offered by the various clinics to which the student will have access, will, it is believed, afford him an opportunity of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this subject.

PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE OF SURGERY.

PROF. GEORGE TULLY VAUGHAN, M. D.

One of the Attending Surgeons at the Emergency Hospital and Chief Surgeon Georgetown University Hospital Consulting Surgeon Government Hospital for Insane.

This course in surgery extends over two years. Instruction is given by didactic lectures, recitations, and demonstrations at clinics which are held at the various hospitals and dispensaries, which afford material in abundance.

The Third Class is instructed in the practical use and application of bandages, fracture dressings, and other surgical apparatus. The use of all kinds of surgical instruments is also demonstrated on the living subject or on the cadaver.

Members of the Fourth Class are instructed in orthopædic and genito-urinary surgery by lectures and clinical demonstrations, and are given a course in operative surgery on the cadaver, in which nearly every operation, minor and capital, classic and modern, is done by the student under the direction of the professor and his assistants.

OBSTETRICS.

PROF. JOHN F. MORAN, A. B., M. D.

Obstetrician, Georgetown University and Columbia Hospitals.

Obstetrics will be taught didactically, and, as far as practicable, instruction will be given at the bedside. The entire course will be graded, and will consist of classified lectures, comprising the whole subject, of recitations and demonstrations upon charts and plates, and of operations performed upon the manikin. During the past session each member of the senior class attended three or more cases of midwifery, of which he was required to keep records and present written reports. In future, every facility will be given to obtain experience in the practical workings of this department, by means of bedside instruction.

The importance of exercising strict supervision over the period of pregnancy will be dwelt upon, and attention given to the pathological changes which may occur during gestation, labor, and the puerperal state.

The great value of antiseptic principles as applied to obstetric practice will also be urged.

An operative course on the Budin-Pinard manikin will be given. Instruction will be given in abdominal palpation, in digital examination, and the methods of diagnosing presentations and positions of the fetus.

An opportunity is given to each student to perform the various obstetric operations, such as the application of the forceps, version, etc.

GYNECOLOGY AND ABDOMINAL SURGERY.

PROF. JOSEPH TABER JOHNSON, A. M., PH. D., M. D.,

One of the Consulting Physicians to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, Consulting Gynecologist to the Woman's Dispensary and the Government Hospital for Insane. Surgeon in Charge of his own Hospital for Women, and of Gynecology and Abdominal Surgery in the Georgetown University Hospital.

Modern gynecology will be taught in didactic lectures, freely illustrated by plates and blackboard drawings, recitations, and also in small classes at private operations, where manipulations and operative work will be carefully explained and demonstrated. Abdominal surgery will receive special attention.

Advanced students will be given an opportunity to witness the preparations for aseptic operations, and to assist in their performance when practicable.

OPHTHALMOLOGY AND OTOTOLOGY.

PROF. SWAN M. BURNETT, PH. D., M. D.,

Ophthalmologist and Otolgologist to Georgetown University, Providence and Children's Hospitals, and to the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

The course begins with lectures on the anatomy of the eye and ear illustrated by models, charts, and specimens under the microscope, followed by an explanation of the fundamental principles of physiological optics and acoustics and the proper methods of examining the eye and ear. The lectures are supplemented by quizzes and reviews. The lectures on the diseases of the eye and ear are wholly clinical, illustrative cases, being taken from Dr. Burnett's extensive service at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital, and at Children's, Providence, and the University Hospitals. The class is divided into small sections in order that the clinical teaching shall be as nearly personal as possible. More than twelve hundred new cases of eye and ear diseases are treated annually at the Central Dispensary alone. Every important operation on the eye is performed in the presence of each section.

Dr. C. R. Dufour, Demonstrator of Ophthalmology and Otology, gives clinical demonstrations twice a week at the Eastern Dispensary and University Hospital.

PHYSICAL DIAGNOSIS, LARYNGOLOGY, AND RHINOLOGY,

PROF. T. MORRIS MURRAY, M. D.,

Director of the Throat and Chest Clinic Georgetown University Hospital and at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

In addition to the didactic lectures on the principles of physical diagnosis and laryngology at the college there will be demonstrations in these branches to the students at Dr. Murray's very large clinic for diseases of the throat and chest at the Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital. The class will be divided into sections, each member of which will make examinations under the personal supervision of Dr. Murray; thus they will be made familiar with one of the most important branches of medical practice.

HYGIENE.

PROF. GEORGE M. KOBER, M. D.

Consulting Physician to Children's Hospital, Washington Asylum Hospital, Providence Hospital and Central Dispensary and Emergency Hospital.

The course on hygiene will extend over two years and will include lectures and recitations on sunlight, air, climate, and meteorology; water, ice, artificial carbonated waters, and soils in relation to health and disease; food, beverages, and condiments, morbid and infected food products; the skin, bath, and clothing; exercise, rest, sleep, beds, and bedding; private and public habitations, including drainage, ventilation, warming, and lighting, with practical demonstrations of sanitary appliances at the Museum of Hygiene.

STATE MEDICINE.

PROF. W. C. WOODWARD, M. D., LL. M.

Health Officer District of Columbia.

The course on State Medicine will consist of lectures and of such demonstrations as may be practicable upon the relation of the medical practitioner to Government, and of the application of medical science to the purposes of the Government for the protection of public health, and for the determination of such medical problems as come before courts of law. Attendance will be obligatory upon students in their fourth year.

MEDICAL ZOOLOGY.

Zoologist United States Bureau of Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, Honorary Custodian of the Helminthological Collection, United States National Museum, Correspondent Etranger de l'Academie de Medecine (Paris).

This course comprises a series of lectures on the animal parasites found in the human subject. The lecturer will describe the anatomy, life-history of the different forms, and the best means of treatment and prevention. The lectures will be illustrated by a series of wall maps by Leuckart, by crayon sketches, by numerous original charts prepared especially for the course, and exhibitions of specimens. The lectures will be supplemented by practical laboratory exercises in microscopical examinations of meat for Trichinella spiralis, and of feces, for determining the presence of parasites. An opportunity to carry on original investigation in Medical Zoology, under the direct supervision of Dr. Stiles will be offered to graduates or to advanced students who may desire to pay special attention to this branch.

DERMATOLOGY.

PROF. J. C. McGUIRE, A. M., M. D.,

Dermatologist to Georgetown University Hospital.

The preliminary course will include a review of the history of dermatology, the minute anatomy of the skin, general pathology, etiology, and diagnosis of cutaneous affections, followed by lectures upon individual diseases illustrated by plates. A clinical course will be given to advanced students, as it is only at the bedside that a practical knowledge of this important branch of medicine can be obtained.

MENTAL AND NERVOUS DISEASES.

PROF. A. B. RICHARDSON, M. D.,

Superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane.

This course will consist of twelve clinical lectures at the Government Hospital for the Insane. Members of the Fourth Class only will be admitted to them. Students will have opportunity to visit the wards of the Hospital, and each lecture will be illustrated by numerous cases, giving in great variety all the forms of insanity which are usually seen in the practice of the general practitioners in medicine.

DISEASES OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM AND ELECTROTHERAPEUTICS.

PROF. D. PERCY HICKLING, M. D.,

Visiting Physician in charge Washington Asylum Hospital.

This course will embrace those diseases of the general nervous system which are commonly met with in practice, special attention being given to their diagnosis and treatment.

The course on Electro-Therapeutics will include a brief outline of Electro-Physics and Electro-Physiology with practical illustrations of the use of the galvanic, faradic and static currents and X-Ray methods, with a discussion of the medical and surgical conditions in which this form of treatment may be used. The lectures will be amply illustrated with batteries, electrodes, rheostats and other electrical appliances.

This institution is in every sense a modern College hospital, wholly under the control of the School of Medicine, and affords ample and excellent facilities for illustrating by clinical teaching and ward classes the didactic instruction given in the various practical branches of the school. Owing to the favorable location of the Hospital, the Emergency Department enjoys an unusual field of activity, a matter of great importance to the students, as they receive special training in the effective management of emergency

During the last year over 15,000 patients were treated here, and over 1,200 surgical operations performed, many of capital importance. Unusual opportunities are afforded for acquiring practical experience in the ordinary duties of a physician. As a large proportion of the serious cases of accidents that occur in the city are first brought to the hospital because of its central location, students become rapidly trained in the effective treatment of injuries demanding prompt assistance, and of that class of cases likely to be of the most importance to the young practitioner. Students are admitted to the services. The new building just completed offers greatly improved facilities for clinical instruction, and the ambulance service and casualty wards will afford special advantages for studying traumatic and operative surgery.

The Lionel Laboratory, established in connection with the hospital, affords a fine opportunity for the study of practical bacteriology, pathology and Röntgen ray work in association with surgery and medicine. Dr. Wallace Johnson is in charge of pathology in this laboratory. Doctors Johnson, Magruder and Kober are on the Consulting Board.

Regular clinics are given by the following Professors of this school and other members of the staff.

Surgical.—Dr. Vaughan.

Diseases of the Ear and Eye.—Dr. Burnett.

Physical Diagnosis and Diseases of the Chest, Throat and Nose.—Dr. Murray.

GARFIELD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL,

Florida Avenue and Tenth Street N.W.

This Hospital also affords excellent facilities for clinical teaching, being splendidly equipped with all modern appliances. Regular clinics are given.

Medical.—Dr. J. D. Morgan.

Obstetrical and Gynecological.—Dr. H. D. Fry.

In all the above Hospitals the positions of Resident and Assistant Resident Physician are open to competitive examination to graduates of this school.

In addition to the foregoing, clinics will be given by—

Dr. A. B. Richardson; Mental and Nervous Diseases at Government Hospital for Insane.

Dr. I. S. Stone, Gynecological, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. Jno. F. Moran, Obstetrical, Columbia Hospital.

Dr. Wm. C. Borden, Surgical, U. S. General Hospital, Washington Barracks.

Dr. D. Percy Hickling, Medical and Surgical, Washington Asylum Hospital.

Dr. Llewellyn Eliot, Medical.

EXAMINATIONS.

The standing of a student in any branch will be determined by combining the record of his recitations, his examinations (both written and oral), and his laboratory and clinical work.

At the end of each session examinations will be held as follows:

The First Class upon anatomy, osteology, histology, embryology, chemistry, physics, physiology, and materia medica.

The Second Class upon anatomy, physiology, chemistry, urinalysis, therapeutics, bacteriology, medical zoology, minor surgery and toxicology.

The Third Class upon therapeutics, the practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, general pathology, special pathology and morbid anatomy, surgical pathology and hygiene.

Re-examinations.

A second examination for those who have been found deficient in any of the work of the first three years will be held at the opening of the following session and students, will not be permitted to advance to higher classes unless their deficiencies of the previous year have been made up. If the student fails upon re-examination in only one study, he will be permitted to progress to the next year on condition that the examination in the study in which he was deficient be passed on or before October 15th of the same year.

Students failing to comply with the foregoing requirements will have to repeat the yearly course for which the examination has been held.

REQUIREMENTS FOR GRADUATION.

The candidate must be of good moral character and at least twenty-one years of age. He must have studied medicine not less than four years, during which he must have attended four full courses of instruction, delivered in some recognized medical school, the last of which shall have been delivered in this institution.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once)	$5 00
Tuition, each year	110 00

This includes all laboratory fees and charges for material used in practical anatomy and operative surgery. Students will, however, be required to pay all charges for injury to microscopes, apparatus and other college property.

ist ensuing. This payment must be made upon registration, and students will not be admitted for re-examinations without previous registration.

The Society of Alumni of Georgetown University established in 1900 a Medical Scholarship. All nominations of candidates shall be made by members of the Society of Alumni, and shall be confined to deserving young men of limited means, preferably the sons and near relatives of members of the Society. Candidates for these scholarships will be examined whenever there are vacancies.

A student repeating a course for any reason will be charged full fees for that course.

Good board, at $20 per month and upwards, can be obtained in the immediate vicinity of the college.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The Dental Department conforms to the rules and regulations of the National Association of Dental Faculties as well as to those of the National Association of Dental Examiners. In accordance with these regulations, a preliminary examination, equivalent to a certificate of entrance into the third year of a high school, is required as a condition of admission. This will not be required of an applicant who can show that he has covered the work of such examination by furnishing an official certificate to that effect issued by a reputable literary or scientific college, academy, high school, or State examining board.

Graduates in medicine are eligible for admission to the second class, and are excused from examination in the studies pertaining to the medical course, finally passed in recognized institutions.

Those presenting certificates of examination from other reputable dental colleges of equal requirements will be admitted to the respective higher class without further examination.

The preliminary examinations will be held at the college building on the Monday preceding the opening of the session.

Students applying for admission later than ten days after the opening day of the session cannot be credited with a full course unless they have been prevented by sickness, which must be vouched for by the certificate of a reputable practicing physician. In that case the date of admission shall not be later than twenty days from the opening day.

Students must continue in attendance until the close of the session in order to obtain credit for a full term.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

The course of instruction will consist of didactic lectures, recitations, demonstrations, dissecting and laboratory work, and clinical instruction. The Dental Laboratory is fully equipped with electrical lathes, furnaces, rolling mill, vulcanizers, celluloid apparatus, lockers, etc. Here the student receives his first instruction. Every process of value known to mechanical dentistry is taught in this department.

Demonstration by the instructors begins with taking impressions of the mouth by the use of the several materials employed for that purpose. The instruction, in its progress, includes consideration of the construction of artificial dentures and obturators in all their wide variety.

THE CLINICAL DEPARTMENT OR INFIRMARY consists of large operating-rooms unequaled in point of lighting, heating, and conveniences. They are furnished with all the requirements of such apartments. The chairs are so arranged as to command the best light. There are separate rooms for the administration of anesthetics, for the extraction of teeth; also one for taking impressions, occlusions, and doing work requiring the use of plaster or wax. The preparation and administration of sulphuric ether and nitrous oxide during the session familiarizes students with these valuable agents.

The infirmary is under the immediate and continuous direction of a corps of competent demonstrators, who are always present to instruct and assist the students in their work. In this department the student is taught the art of operative dentistry. The press of patients is very great, and the opportunities for practice unequaled. The student not only witnesses every kind of dental manipulation as practiced by the experienced, but is himself taught to accomplish all that pertains to the daily duties of a dental surgeon by actual practice.

This intimate union of theoretical and practical instruction will be insisted on during the entire session, and, indeed, is considered as the only thing essential to becoming a competent dental practitioner.

Each student is expected to provide his own instruments—a list of which may be obtained on application to the demonstrator in charge—with the exception of forceps, lathes, and vulcanizers. All expenses attending operations upon college patients are borne by the institution.

The operating-rooms of the college are open for instruction the entire year, and students are obliged to attend regularly each day during the session.

CURRICULUM.

The instruction embraces a graded course of four years, each course followed by examinations thereon.

Punctual attendance upon the lectures and other exercises is required of all students. The Faculty reserves the right to exclude from examinations, either in course or final, any student who has been habitually absent from lectures or other exercises.

COURSE OF STUDY.METALLURGY AND CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK.

PROF. SHELDON G. DAVIS, D.D. S.

A special feature of the teaching in this department will be the exhaustive study of Crown and Bridge work. Students will be thoroughly grounded in the principles of a safe and conservative practice, so that they may clearly appreciate the indications for Crown and Bridge work. This will be accomplished by both didactic and clinical instruction, as well as special demonstrations in difficult cases.

Careful attention will be paid to the chemistry of metals and all the materials used in Dentistry.

ORAL PROSTHESIS.

PROF. SHIRLEY W. BOWLES, D. D. S.

The instruction in this department is designed to impart a knowledge of all that pertains to the construction and application of artificial dentures and other oral appliances.

The more important subjects considered are: the preparation and treatment of the mouth for artificial dentures, the taking of impressions, a system of perfect articulations, the methods of constructing the different bases used for dentures, and the construction and application of obturators.

Esthetic or artistic dentistry is systematically taught and enforced. In this it is shown how dentistry may be employed for improving natural deformities and for restoring the contours of the face.

OPERATIVE DENTISTRY.

PROF. FRANK H. SHULTZ, D. D. S.

The lectures from the chair of operative dentistry present the means and methods in use for the preservation of the natural teeth, together with the principles which form the basis of practice, including a description of instruments and their uses, also appliances and materials used in operating; the treatment and preparation of cavities; the methods of filling with various forms of gold and plastic materials. A special feature of instruction from this chair will be practical demonstrations in the mouth, in the infirmary, before the entire class.

ORAL SURGERY.

PROF. JESSE RAMSBURGH, A. M., M. D.

Oral surgery is a specialty which is a distinct outgrowth from dentistry. As the work of the dentist came to include operations upon the surrounding tissues, as well as upon the teeth themselves, the adoption of surgical methods and more thorough training in the principles and practice of surgery became necessary. The addition of instruction in this branch to the dental curriculum includes thorough instruction in the most advanced methods of operative technique, including the use of the surgical engine, surgical anesthesia, asepsis, and antisepsis, and after-treatment of the case.

The instruction is both didactic and clinical, and students are encouraged to study and treat personally cases under the supervision of the Professor of Oral Surgery and his assistants.

DENTAL TECHNIQS AND ORTHODONTIA.

PROF. W. N. COGAN, D. D. S.

This course while of importance to all new students, possesses especial value to such as have not had the advantage of office pupilage and laboratory work before entering college. It combines the features of manual training and exact observation, enabling the student to become familiar with the forms and tissues of the teeth, and to acquire a certain dexterity in the use of instruments before operating upon the human subject.

The treatment of irregularities of the dental arch require great skill and judgment. Lectures upon this subject will be thoroughly practical, and the student will be taught the most approved and scientific methods of correcting these deformities. This course of teaching will be illustrated by practical cases.

DENTAL CERAMICS.

A special course of instruction in Dental Ceramics is arranged for the graduating class. The college is provided with a large electric furnace, and porcelain inlays and crown and bridge work, together with continuous gum work, will receive special attention.

ANATOMY.

PROF. FRANK BAKER, M. D., PH. D.

General anatomy will be thoroughly taught by this chair in the most careful manner. Models, plates, and the cadaver are abundantly supplied for the proper illustration of this subject. Special attention will be given to the descriptive anatomy of the head, face, neck, and oral cavity.

For Histology and Osteology see page 25.

The demonstrator of practical anatomy will have charge of the class in the dissecting-room, where dissecting material will be supplied in abundance.

PHYSIOLOGY.

PROF. MURRAY GALT MOTTER, B. S., A. M., M. D.

One of the features of the progress and development of modern Dentistry is its closer association with the wider field of General Medicine through recognition of the fact that the foundations of each special branch are common to all. The dental practitioner of to-day, therefore, must acquire a fuller knowledge of the whole organism, in order that he may, the more intelligently, deal with that part of it which is his more immediate province. To this end, the student will find, in this course, especial emphasis laid upon the fundamental principles of Physiology, while their practical application will be pointed out in lectures, recitations, and, where possible, practical demonstrations.

MATERIA MEDICA AND TOXICOLOGY.

PROF. G. LLOYD MAGRUDER, A. M., M. D.

A complete course of materia medica and general therapeutics will be given by this chair, while special attention will be called to the nature and therapeutic uses of those drugs required in dentistry. Students will be given opportunities to become personally familiar with the physical properties of drugs, the compounding of prescriptions, and the methods of applying topical remedies.

In this course the student will be made familiar with the different agents used to accomplish anesthesia, the contra-indications for their use, and practical demonstration in the infirmary of the different methods employed for the administration of the various anesthetics.

CHEMISTRY AND METALLURGY.

PROF. JOHN D. HIRD, A. M.

It will be the aim of the professor of this chair to give an accurate knowledge of the principles of the science, dwelling especially upon those points which are of peculiar interest to the dental student. Careful attention will be paid to the vital chemistry of anesthetics, and the special chemistry of the mouth, the stomach, and intestinal tube will be fully treated.

PHYSICS.

TRUMAN ABBE, A. B., M. D.

A course of the elements of physics, with special reference to their application to medicine and dentistry, will be given during the first year.

PATHOLOGY AND BACTERIOLOGY.

PROF. EDWIN B. BEHREND, M. D.

The study of these important subjects is obligatory. This has been made necessary on account of their close relationship to dental pathology and therapeutics. The instructions are principally practical and embrace full laboratory teaching of the most important subjects of these studies.

DENTAL HISTOLOGY AND PATHOLOGY.

PROF. M. M. DOLMAGE, D. D. S.

The lectures on Dental Pathology include such portions of general pathology as are of special interest to the dental student.

A detailed consideration is given of all the diseases of the teeth and surrounding parts; normal and abnormal character of oral secretions; dentition and its pathological results. The treatment necessary under each head is minutely detailed.

The lectures on Histology include the comparative anatomy and the development of the teeth, and their component tissues and functions of dental organs.

GRADUATION.

At the close of the fourth year a student who has passed all examinations satisfactorily receives the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery (D. D. S.) on the following conditions:

Candidate must be of age and of good moral character.

Candidate must have passed a satisfactory examination in all the branches of the curriculum; must have attended the practical instruction in all departments, and the last course of instruction must have been at this college.

The examinations are conducted orally and in writing, and are held at the middle and close of each term, thus dividing the strain upon the student.

Prior to such examinations specimens of operations upon the natural organs performed in the Dental Infirmary must be exhibited to the professor of Operative Dentistry, and such other specimen work as he may require; also an approved specimen of dental mechanism constructed in the Dental Laboratory upon a model of practical use must be submitted to the Professor of Oral Prosthesis.

No student will be admitted to examination for advancement or graduation until all indebtedness for instruction shall have been paid.

FEES.

Matriculation (payable but once).....	$5 00
Tuition, each year	100 00

Charge will be made for breakage in laboratories.

A student repeating a course will be charged full fees for that course.

Payment of not less than one-fourth of the fees is required at the commencement of the session, the balance by January 1 ensuing. This payment must be made upon registration, and students will not be admitted for re-examination without previous registration.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

The next term of this institution opens Wednesday evening, October 7th, 1903, at 6:30 o'clock, in the Georgetown University Law Building, 506 and 508 E Street N.W., in the city of Washington. All persons interested are invited to attend the introductory lecture, which will then be delivered. The collegiate year closes on the first of June.

ADVANTAGES.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening, and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequaled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over 100,000 volumes, embracing all the noted treatises, reports and periodicals, ancient and modern, American, English and of the nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivaled among the law libraries of the world. This magnificent collection is freely open to students seven hours daily.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages for professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Courts of the United States. Its sessions afford the student opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

COST OF BOARDING, ETC.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month; and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month, and even less. Tuition is $100 per annum, with no incidental charges except a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School Session is from the first Wednesday in October to the first Wednesday in June—about eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is, therefore, about $350, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

STUDENTS.

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register, at or before the opening of the term in October. Candidates for a degree must have received a high school education, or its equivalent, evidence of which must be presented or a preliminary examination will be required.

Candidates for advanced standing—i. e., those desiring to complete the Course in one or two years—must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced Class. This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Students in the Second Year are required to attend the Lectures and be examined upon Part 2 of the studies of the First Year, as indicated below; and students in the Third Year are, in like manner, required to attend the lectures and be examined upon the studies of Part 2 of the Second Year.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School:

FIRST YEAR:—Part 1. Personal Property, Elementary Law, Torts, Domestic Relations, Criminal Law and Negotiable Instruments.

Part 2. Real Estate and Contracts.

Part 2. Pleading, Evidence and Equity.

Part 3. Insurance, Agency and Partnership.

THIRD YEAR:—Part 1. Subjects of Part 2 of the Second Year's Course.

Part 2. Corporations, Common Law Practice, Equity Pleading and Practice, Constitutional Law, the Law of Wills and Municipal Corporations.

Special attention is given to the subject of "Equity Pleading and Practice," on account of the fact that not only is this the practice used in all Federal Courts, but also because nearly all the Codes of Practice, adopted by the several States are founded thereon.

For the arrangement of studies the school year is divided into three terms: the first term ends December 19, 1903; the second, March 13, 1904, and the third, May 22, 1904.

The following tabular statement will show the assignment during each of these terms:

The professors will, during the coming year, be assisted in quizzing by "Quiz Masters," as has been done during several years.

The quizzes will be held at 7:30 o'clock on at least four evenings in each week, and the regular attendance of the students, at every quiz, is expected and required.

EXAMINATIONS.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a carefully written examination, upon, or shortly after, its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of these examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year; while those who fall below the standard required may, at the discretion of the Faculty, if they have been regular in their attendance upon lectures and quizzes, have an opportunity of making up the deficiency before its close. This system has been found to promote more careful study, and, at the same time, to admit of more thorough examination, with less tax upon the student's endurance than a general examination at the close of the Course.

THE MOOT COURT

Especial, painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Moot Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized, the Court is divided into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. Baker, holds two sessions weekly, known as the special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in Courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Hon. Job Barnard and Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Holdsworth Gordon, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text-books, and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening.

LECTURE-STUDENTS.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half of the regular charge for tuition.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is the following: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text-book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the recitation hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the "Quiz," in which the lesson is gone entirely over again in the shape of questions, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated in the course: once by careful study of the text, a second time by the discussion of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in answer to the "Quiz." This system has been found, after careful and painstaking tests, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of the highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance in the First, Second and Third Years is One hundred Dollars per annum, except to students whose names were on the rolls May 15, 1903, to whom the charge will remain the same as heretofore, viz: Eighty Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned, the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students, the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments, strictly in advance

Tuition in the Fourth or Post-Graduate Course is One Hundred Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, or in monthly installments, in advance.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence.

For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Fifty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement is Ten Dollars.
